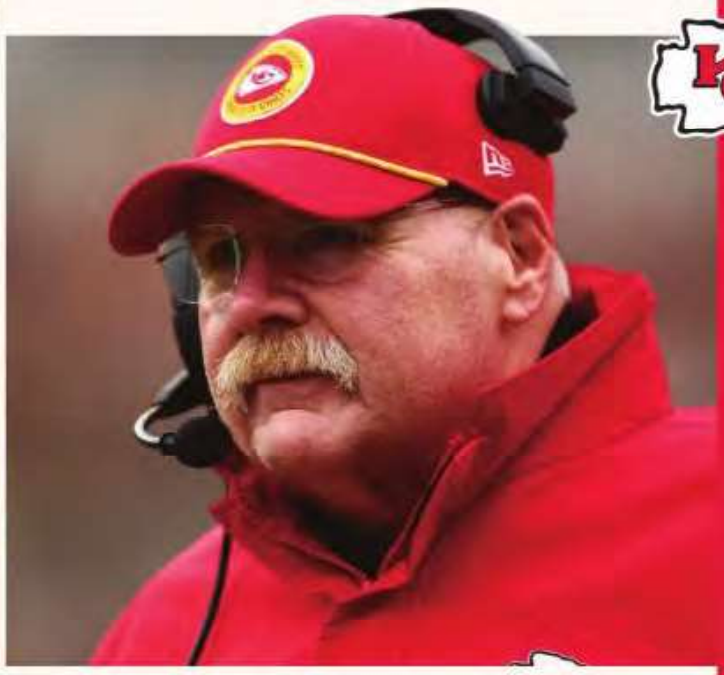
BREAKING DOWN THE 2025 KANSAS CITY CHIEFS

By: Matt McMullen



A historic campaign for the Kansas City Chiefs fell just shy of an unprecedented third Super Bowl title in a row last season, but it was still a year to remember for countless reasons.

The Chiefs piled up a franchise-record 15 regular-season victories, tallied multiple playoff wins and advanced to the Super Bowl for the fifth time in the last six years. Kansas City won a ninth-straight AFC West title and a third-straight AFC championship along the way, becoming the first back-to-back Super Bowl champion in NFL history to return to the league's biggest stage for a chance to win three in a row.

Kansas City ultimately came up just short in its pursuit of that third-straight title, but mere hours after the Chiefs' loss in New Orleans, the quest to return to the mountaintop was already underway.

The Chiefs' front office, led by General Manager Brett Veach, immediately embarked on an offseason dedicated to rectifying what prevented Kansas City from achieving its final goals in 2024.

First, Veach made significant free agency signings on both sides of the ball in offensive tackle Jaylon Moore and cornerback Kristian Fulton. He then assembled what has the makings of an outstanding draft class that included offensive tackle Josh Simmons (first round), defensive tackle Omarr Norman-Lott (second round), edge rusher Ashton Gillotte (third round), cornerback Nohl Williams (third round), wide receiver Jalen Royals (fourth round), linebacker Jeffrey Bassa (fifth round) and tailback Brashard Smith (seventh round).

Veach's strategy in handling the offensive tackle position, specifically, will be a key area to monitor as the 2025 season unfolds. As successful as Kansas City has been in recent seasons, the Chiefs have started a different left tackle in each of their five Super Bowl appearances over the last six years.

If Kansas City can find its starting left tackle for the foreseeable future – the 2025 season included – the Chiefs' chances of continuing their historic run of unprecedented success will increase significantly. The acquisitions of Simmons and Moore were part of that goal as Kansas City aimed to pair a new left tackle with incumbent starters Creed Humphrey (center), Trey Smith (right guard) and Jawaan Taylor (right tackle).

The success of that group will likely determine the heights Kansas City will reach in 2025 as they seek to protect the league's best player in quarterback Patrick Mahomes.

BREAKING DOWN THE 2025 CHIEFS

At just 29 years old, Mahomes is already considered one of the greatest players to ever take the football field. Mahomes has led the Chiefs to the most regular-season (90) and playoff (17) wins of any team since 2018. His 17 career postseason victories trail only Tom Brady among quarterbacks in NFL history, and Mahomes – who already has two NFL MVP and three Super Bowl MVP awards under his belt – also owns the league marks for touchdown passes (245) and passing yards (32,352) through 112 career regular-season games in NFL history.

Additionally, in seven seasons as the Chiefs' starting quarterback, Mahomes has never fallen shy of reaching at least the AFC Championship Game. He is simply off to the greatest start for any player in NFL history, and paired with Head Coach Andy Reid, the Chiefs' head coach and quarterback combination is already one of the best duos that the league has ever seen.

Since taking over the helm in 2013 – four years before Mahomes even arrived in Kansas City – Reid has led the Chiefs to the most regular-season victories (143) of any team in the NFL. The Chiefs have posted a winning campaign in all 12 of Reid's seasons with the Chiefs, making the playoffs in all but one of those years.

That streak of consecutive winning seasons is twice as long as the next-closest active stretch, and it's the fifth-longest in the Super Bowl Era, trailing only the 1966-85 Dallas Cowboys (20 straight), the 2001-19 New England Patriots (19 straight), the 1983-98 San Francisco 49ers (16 straight) and the 1966-80 Oakland Raiders (15 straight).

It's all to say that Reid managed to immediately orchestrate one of the greatest turnarounds in NFL history upon taking the job, and his efforts were later exponentially amplified by Mahomes' ascension in 2018. The duo is responsible for some of the top moments in NFL history, and the Chiefs' top-pass catcher through it all has been legendary tight end Travis Kelce.

A 12-year veteran, Kelce is the only player to suit up for Kansas City throughout the entirety of Reid's tenure with the Chiefs, and as one of the greatest pass-catchers to ever play the game, Kelce is compiling a resume that ranks up there with all-time wide receivers such as Jerry Rice and Marvin Harrison. In fact, Kelce now owns the NFL record for consecutive seasons with 80+ catches in league history with nine, passing Rice, Harrison and Torry Holt.

Kelce caught 97 passes for 823 yards and three touchdowns in 2024, ranking third among all tight ends in catches and fifth in receiving yards. He was at his best during the Chiefs' postseason run once again, too, with 13 grabs for 175 yards and a touchdown.

A four-time First-Team All-Pro selection, Kelce also owns the NFL record for any player – regardless of position – with 178 postseason catches. His 2,078 receiving yards and 20 receiving touchdowns both rank second in NFL postseason history behind only Rice, and now entering his 13th year with the Chiefs, he'll have an opportunity to add to those already gaudy numbers.

The 35-year-old Kelce leads a group of skill position players into 2025 that includes wide receiver Rashee Rice, wide receiver Xavier Worthy, wide receiver Hollywood Brown, tailback Isiah Pacheco and tailback Kareem Hunt.

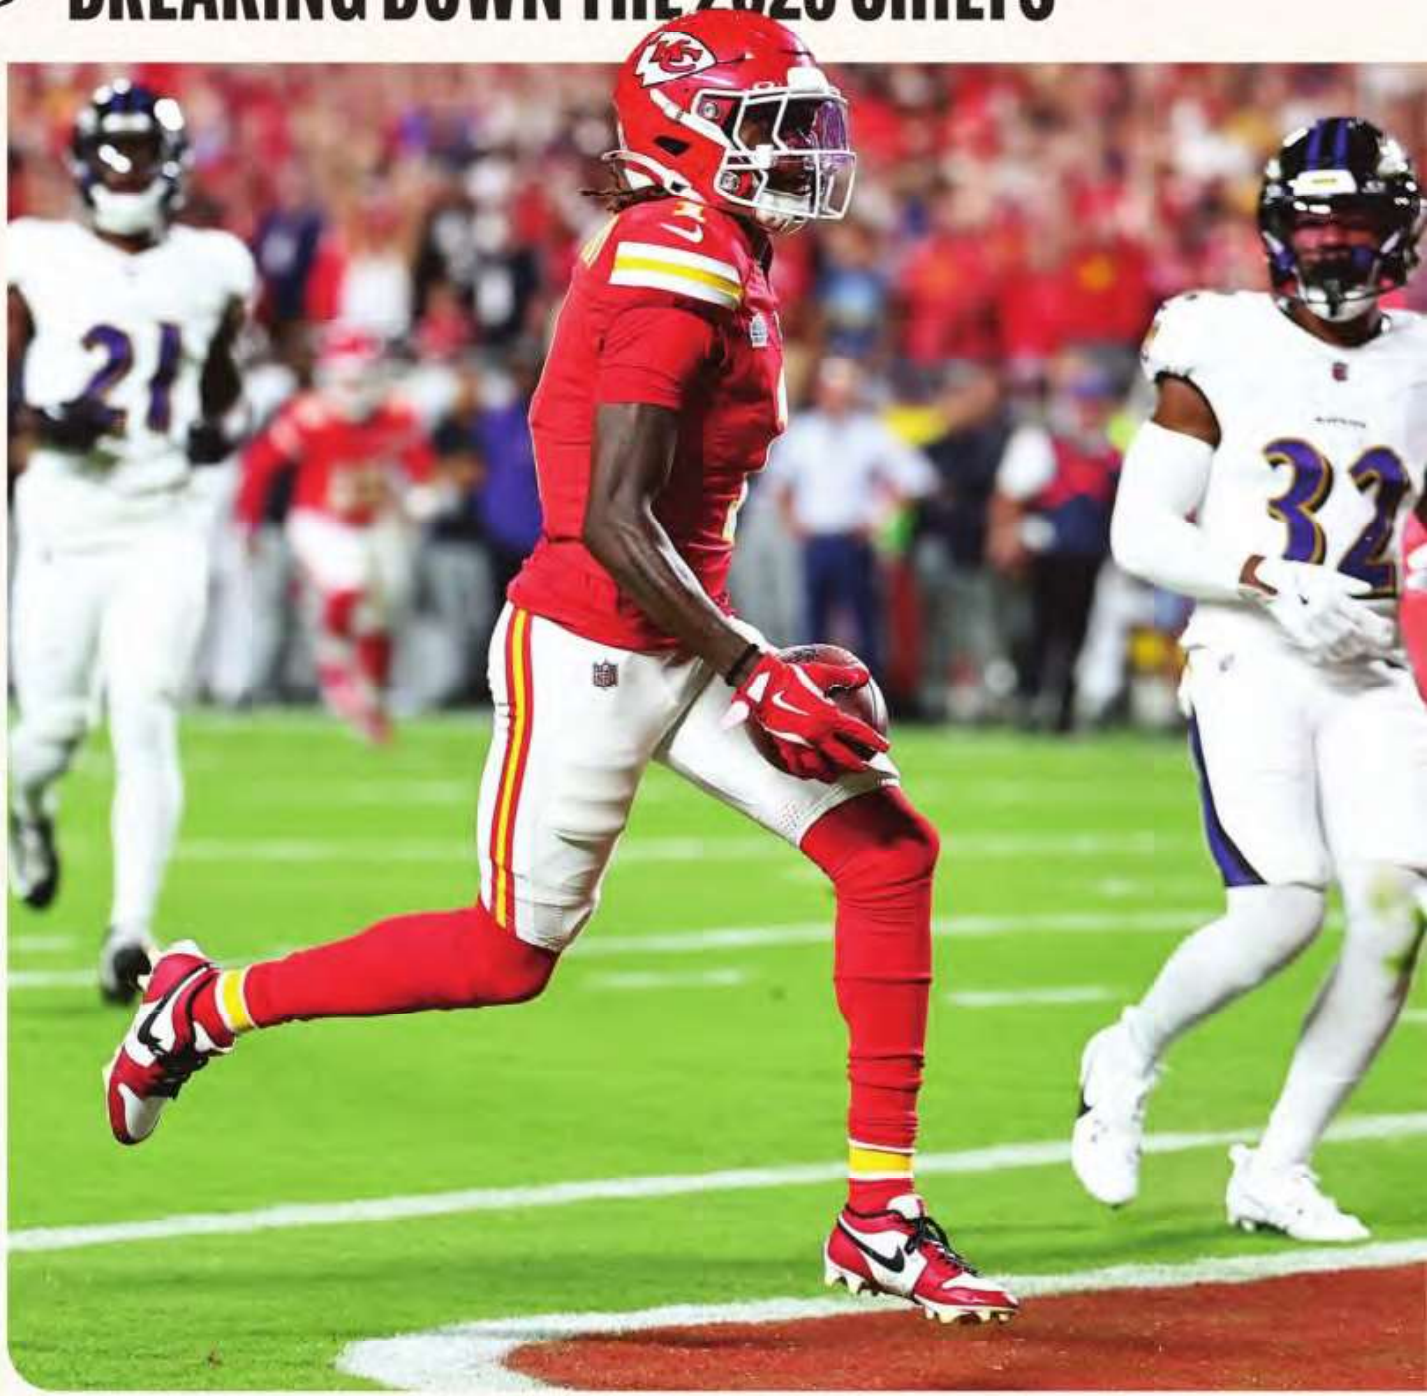
BREAKING DOWN THE 2025 CHIEFS



Kansas City was without Brown for the bulk of the year in 2024 after he suffered a shoulder injury on the first snap of the preseason in August, and then lost Rice – who was off to a sizzling start with a league-leading 24 catches through three gamers – to a season-ending knee injury in Week 4.

Pacheco was lost for much of the year, too, when he suffered an ankle injury in Week 2, thrusting Worthy – a rookie – and Hunt, who didn't sign with the Chiefs until mid-September, into pivotal roles.

Both players went on to more than make the most of their opportunities as Worthy finished the campaign tallying at least 40 receiving yards in each of his final 10 games (including the playoffs). Hunt, meanwhile, wound up leading the Chiefs in scrimmage yards (904).

The Chiefs return all five players for 2025, and now healthy, the group – under the direction of Reid and Offensive Coordinator Matt Nagy – will have an opportunity to restore Kansas City's offense to one of the league's best this season.

On the other side of the ball, Defensive Coordinator Steve Spagnuolo leads a unit that ranks as the best in the NFL since 2023 at just 18.2 points allowed-per-game. The Chiefs have allowed more than 30 points to an opponent just twice in that span, marking the lowest tally in the league.

The anchor of the Chiefs' defense throughout that stretch and into 2025 is defensive tackle Chris Jones, who amassed another stellar season in 2024 with 74 pressures in just 15 games. That total ranked sixth in the NFL and second among all defensive linemen, trailing only the Broncos' Zach Allen (who played in 16 games) by one pressure.

RINGTHEBELL on Archive.org

BREAKING DOWN THE 2025 CHIEFS

Jones was the focal point of a defense that ranked second in the NFL in scoring prior to Week 18 (when the starters didn't play against Denver), and since 2018, Jones' 72 total sacks rank fifth among all players.

Joining Jones on the Chiefs' defensive front are familiar names such as George Karlaftis, Charles Omenihu, Mike Danna and several others. When healthy, it has the looks of a deep and disruptive unit.

Behind the Chiefs' defensive front is the unit's field general in linebacker Nick Bolton, who enters his fifth season with Kansas City. The "green dot" responsible for calling the Chiefs' defensive plays, Bolton leads a group that includes standout linebackers Leo Chenal and Drue Tranquill.

Rounding out Kansas City's defense is a young and talented secondary headlined by All-Pro cornerback Trent McDuffie, who has ascended into one of the league's top defensive backs. McDuffie is part of a unit that also features newcomer Kristian Fulton, cornerback Jaylen Watson, cornerback Nazeeh Johnson, safety Bryan Cook, safety Chamarri Conner and safety Jaden Hicks.

Hicks, in particular, will aim to shoulder a larger role in 2025 with former starter Justin Reid no longer in town. A rookie in 2024, Hicks impressed in limited action and appears ready for a larger role on defense.

BREAKING DOWN THE 2025 CHIEFS

Lastly, the Chiefs will field one of the top special teams units in the NFL once again this season under the guidance of Assistant Head Coach and Special Teams Coordinator Dave Toub.

Kicker Harrison Butker is among the top kickers in league history while punter Matt Araiza, who is entering his second season with the Chiefs in 2024, demonstrated considerable promise throughout his initial season in Kansas City. Additionally, the third member of this group, longsnapper James Winchester, has been one of the most reliable players at his position since he joined the team in 2015.

It all makes for what has the makings of a special season in 2025. The Chiefs fell just shy of their ultimate goal last year, but as recent history has shown, this team is at its absolute best when faced with adversity.

The 2024 campaign was a special one in its own right, but this edition of the Chiefs is measured by world championships. In 2025, Kansas City will aim to finish the job.

FOUNDER

Lamar HUNT
Founder

Lamar Hunt is universally recognized as one of the greatest sportsmen in American history, and he served as the guiding force behind the formation of both the American Football League and the Kansas City Chiefs.

Hunt's influence on the game of football spanned nearly five decades, dating back to his inception of the AFL in 1959. He was the first AFL figure to be enshrined into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1972, a remarkable feat considering he became involved in the game just 13 years earlier. As the catalyst who brought together the whimsically named "Foolish Club" comprised of the eight original AFL owners, Hunt's "impossible dream" became a reality when his fledgling league took the field for the 1960 season.

On June 8, 1966, after years of clashing with the mighty NFL, the AFL-NFL merger was announced by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle. Months later, on Jan. 15, 1967, Hunt's Kansas City Chiefs were participating in the inaugural Super Bowl. "Before there was a player, coach or a general manager in the league, there was Lamar Hunt," late Patriots owner William Sullivan remarked at Hunt's Hall of Fame induction ceremony. "Hunt was the cornerstone, the integrity of the league. Without him, there would have been no AFL."

Despite his many accomplishments, Hunt's humility was one of his most unwavering and endearing traits. While he modestly declined to take credit for his efforts, he truly played an important role in the design, ongoing development and direction of the modern-day National Football League. Whether it was serving as the central figure behind the formation of the AFL, playing a key role in the AFL-NFL merger talks in the 1960s, or overseeing many crucial issues concerning pro football and the Chiefs franchise over five decades, few individuals helped change the face of America's favorite game for the better as much as this quiet Texan.

In addition to being a principal negotiator in the merger of the AFL and NFL in the late 1960s, he was a contributor to the design of the NFL playoff format. He is also credited with unintentionally putting the name "Super Bowl" on the NFL's championship game — the name coming from his children's toy "Super Ball." It was Hunt who not only recommended enumerating each Super Bowl with Roman numerals, but he also suggested that the league's iconic championship trophy bear the name of Vince Lombardi. For years, he was an advocate of the two-point conversion — a college and AFL rule that was finally adopted by the NFL in 1994. Hunt had also lobbied for many years that an additional Thanksgiving game be added to the NFL schedule, efforts that were rewarded when the Chiefs hosted the first-ever Thanksgiving contest at Arrowhead in 2006.

Perhaps Hunt's biggest influence on the league was his quiet, yet persuasive voice of reason. Hunt's name is rightfully mentioned alongside other legendary family surnames in pro football history such as Halas, Mara, and Rooney for his commitment to putting the betterment of the league ahead of any potential individual gain. His AFL model for the equal sharing of television revenue has helped maintain competitive balance in the NFL for many years. As the founder of the AFL, he helped pave the way for much of the modern growth of pro football. Possibly the greatest tribute to his contributions to the sport was the naming of the Lamar Hunt Trophy, which is presented annually to the champion of the American Football Conference. The franchise hoisted the Lamar Hunt Trophy for the first time following the 2019 season, and were also AFC Champions following the 2020, 2022, 2023 and 2024 seasons.

The early days of the AFL were problem-filled and often tenuous, but Hunt saw his Dallas Texans achieve on-field success. In 1962, the Texans won the AFL Championship with a double-OT victory over the Houston Oilers, the first of three titles won by his franchise during the league's 10-year existence. Hunt moved his team to Kansas City in 1963, where the organization was renamed the Chiefs.

His team truly put Kansas City on the "big-league" map, thanks to a star-studded squad that was the winningest in the 10- year history of the AFL. The Chiefs were among the first teams to scout and sign players from historically black colleges and universities, a progressive approach that yielded key performers such as DT Buck Buchanan, LB Willie Lanier, WR Otis Taylor and CB Emmitt Thomas.

Hunt's team repeated as league champions in both 1966 and 1969. The Chiefs claimed Kansas City's first major sports championship by defeating Minnesota in Super Bowl IV.

In the late 1960s, Hunt was influential in the original plans for what is now GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium. While other venues of a similar vintage have long since been demolished, the stadium continues to serve as a point of pride for Kansas City. Hunt worked diligently to bring college football to the stadium, which hosted the Dr Pepper Big 12 Conference Championship Game five times, most recently in 2008. In addition to numerous other college football games, the stadium also served as a venue for international soccer matches thanks to Hunt. In 2026, the GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium will host six matches for the FIFA World Cup.

Since 2010, Hunt's legacy has been honored in Founder's Plaza, an expansive outdoor area that forms a dramatic entrance to the north side of GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium. A nine-foot heroic statue of Hunt stands as a tribute to the Chiefs late founder. In addition, eight fountains for the original eight AFL franchises symbolize Lamar's innovation and dedication to growing the game of football.

Chiefs Founder Lamar Hunt holds for his son, future Chiefs Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt.

FOUNDER

During the 1990s, Hunt took great pride in his franchise's on-field resurgence as Kansas City compiled a 102-58 (.638) regular season record. Under Hunt's stewardship, the Chiefs developed an intensely loyal fan following, not just in mid-America, but across the country and around the globe. Kansas City represented the NFL in four American Bowl contests — Berlin, Germany (1990), Tokyo, Japan (1994, 1998) and Monterrey, Mexico (1996) and has since gone on to host a game in London (2015), Mexico City (2019), Frankfurt (2023), and will play in Brazil (2025).

Nicknamed "Games" during his childhood, Hunt's love of sports was his true lifeblood, an enthusiasm which led to his involvement in six different professional sports leagues and seven sports franchises. Hunt was involved in the development of both NASL and World Championship Tennis.

Hunt was inducted into the respective Halls of Fame of both United States Soccer (1982) and International Tennis (1993). He was also honored by the state Sports Halls of Fame of both Texas (1984) and Missouri (1995).

In 1981, Hunt was inducted into the NFL Alumni Association's prestigious Order of the Leather Helmet. He also received the Francis J. "Reds" Bagnell Award from the Maxwell Club in 1993.

In 2008, Hunt's bust was added to the "Hall of Famous Missourians" at the state capitol in Jefferson City, Missouri. That same year, he was inducted as one of four inaugural members of the SMU Athletics Hall of Fame.

In August of 2009, the Lamar Hunt Super Bowl Gallery officially opened at the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton, Ohio. This 4,000-square foot exhibit showcases the greatest moments in Super Bowl history and is appropriately named after the individual who gave the world's biggest single-game sporting spectacle its current moniker. In October of 2009, the Missouri DOT officially designated a stretch of I-435 near the Truman Sports Complex as the "Lamar Hunt Memorial Highway."

Truly a sportsman for all seasons, Soccer America Magazine named Hunt one of its "25 Most Influential People" in 1999 after the 95-year-old U.S. Open Cup was renamed the "Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup." That same year he also received the U.S. Soccer Federation Hall of Fame Medal of Honor, joining former U.S. Soccer President Alan Rothenberg as the only other individual to earn that prestigious distinction. In 2005, the U.S. Soccer Foundation honored Hunt with its Lifetime Achievement Award. In total, Hunt has been selected to 11 "Halls of Fame."

The Hunt family served as the Investor/Operators of the Kansas City Wizards (Sporting KC) franchise of Major League Soccer from 1995-2006 and claimed the 2000 MLS Cup. They also founded and operated the Columbus Crew for 18 years, eventually selling the operating rights of the Crew in 2013. The Hunt family still oversees the operations of FC Dallas. Hunt was also one of the founding investors in the six-time World Champion Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association. In total, the Hunt family owns 16 championship trophies from five different professional sports associations (AFL/NFL, MLS, NBA, NASL and the U.S. Soccer "Open Cup").

A successful businessman outside of sports, one of Hunt's most notable innovations was SubTropolis, the world's largest underground business complex, located just north of GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium. Hunt also envisioned and developed Worlds of Fun, a 165-acre family entertainment complex which opened in 1973, as well as the 60-acre family water recreation park, Oceans of Fun, which was completed in 1982. While both of those entities were sold in 1995, Hunt Midwest Enterprises continues to oversee a diverse range of business interests.

In February 2025, the Chiefs announced the formation of "Foolish Club Studios," a new studio focused on developing original scripted and unscripted programs for both short-form and long-form storytelling. Building on the legacy of Lamar Hunt, the studio will prioritize telling unique stories that not only highlight the rich, deep history of the franchise, the characters that have defined it and its position within the Kansas City and global communities, but also stories that reflect the spirit of humility, heart, and hard work that have been part of the team's heritage since the beginning. The name of the studio is a tribute to Lamar Hunt and his resilience in forming the American Football League, where the eight original team owners called themselves the "Foolish Club" because they were crazy enough to take on the firmly entrenched National Football League. This spirit of risk-taking and innovation has been a stalwart of the franchise since day one, and as Lamar himself said, "Dream big and set audacious goals. It's only by aiming high that we can reach our full potential." The logo even includes a special nod to Lamar, as the word "studio" was inspired by Lamar's handwritten letters.

Hunt was born on Aug. 2, 1932 in El Dorado, Ark., and graduated from SMU with a B.S. in Geology in 1956. While at SMU, he was a three-year reserve end on the varsity football team. Hunt was an avid supporter of his alma mater and was an annual fixture at the Cotton Bowl.

Hunt had four children – Lamar Jr., Sharron, Clark, and Daniel – and each now have children of their own. He enjoyed more than 40 years of marriage to his beloved Norma, who became known by many as "the first lady of football". In 1998, Hunt was diagnosed with prostate cancer, and he quietly underwent treatment while maintaining his service to the team and community. Lamar Hunt passed away at the age of 74 on December 13, 2006.

CHAIRMAN & CEO

Clark HUNT
Chairman & CEO

Clark Hunt has been the driving force behind the resurgence of the Kansas City Chiefs, transforming the iconic franchise into one of the most successful teams in the history of the National Football League.

Since Hunt became CEO of the Chiefs in 2010, the club has earned 10 AFC West Division championships, including nine consecutive division titles (2016-present). Hunt has hoisted the award that bears his father's name – the Lamar Hunt Trophy – five times in the past six seasons as the club claimed AFC championships and earned Super Bowl appearances following the 2019, 2020, 2022, 2023 and 2024 seasons. The club has also taken home the Lombardi Trophy as Super Bowl champions in three of the past five seasons, winning Super Bowls LIV, LVII and LVIII.

In January 2013, Hunt modified the leadership structure of the organization, announcing that for the first time in club history, the head coach, general manager and team president would all report directly to the Chairman and CEO. Hunt hired Head Coach Andy Reid in 2013, and Reid has since become the winningest head coach in franchise history while the Chiefs have won the most regular season games in the NFL (143) during that span. In April 2024, Hunt extended the contracts of Reid, General Manager Brett Veach and Team President Mark Donovan, ensuring the leadership of the club's football and business operations will remain in place for years to come.

Hunt is a leading voice among NFL owners. In 2019, Hunt was named chairman of the influential NFL Finance Committee. He also serves on the Personal Conduct Committee and the Management Council Executive Committee (CEC), where he helped to secure the NFL's last two collective bargaining agreements in 2011 and 2020.

In addition to his leadership of the Chiefs and his standing as one of the most respected voices in the NFL, Hunt has also been instrumental in bringing football to the world – and bringing the world of international football to the United States. From 2011-18, Hunt served as chairman of the NFL International Committee and significantly expanded the league's international efforts and investment overseas. Before Hunt's chairmanship, the league had played four regular season games internationally. Since Hunt was named committee chairman in 2011, the league has hosted 44 international regular season games. Hunt continues to serve as a member of the committee.

Hunt has also helped lead the effort to bring FIFA World Cup 2026 to the United States. He served as co-chair of the Kansas City bid to host the World Cup at GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium, which will host six tournament matches, including a quarterfinal.

The son of legendary American sports pioneer and Chiefs Founder Lamar Hunt, Clark Hunt has built upon his father's legacy by ensuring the Chiefs organization remains focused on its core mission: Honor Tradition, Unite our Community, Win with Character and Inspire our Fans.

Hunt graduated first in his class at Southern Methodist University in 1987, earning a degree in Business Administration and a concentration in finance while also serving as captain of the Mustangs nationally ranked soccer team. He is also Chairman and CEO of FC Dallas in Major League Soccer.

He and his wife, Tavia, are actively involved in numerous philanthropic initiatives in both Kansas City and Dallas. One of the Hunt family's lasting legacies is the Chiefs Charity Game, which has raised more than $15.5 million for local youth-focused charities since its inception in 1985.

The Hunts have three children - Gracie, Knobel and Ava.

PRESIDENT

Mark
DONOVAN
President

Entering his 17th season with the Kansas City Chiefs and 27th in the NFL, Mark Donovan is one of the league's most innovative and impactful executives. As President of the Chiefs, Donovan oversees all aspects of the team's business operations and has been instrumental in shaping the club into a global sports and entertainment powerhouse.

Under Donovan's leadership, the Chiefs have become a model NFL franchise—pioneering digital ticketing, expanding international social engagement and fandom, and securing game-changing partnerships including the club's first-ever naming rights deal for GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium. He spearheaded the creation of Foolish Club Studios, elevated Arrowhead Events into a premier national venue brand, and helped deliver landmark moments such as hosting the 2023 NFL Draft, securing six 2026 FIFA World Cup matches (including a quarterfinal), and staging major events like the return of NCAA Division I football and the launch of the Battle Sports Kansas City Classic.

Donovan has championed a modern, content-driven approach to brand expansion, with the Chiefs becoming the number one fanbase in the NFL and leading the league in platforms like TikTok and YouTube. The club now ranks in the top three in fandom across all nine of the NFL's international markets—and is number one in six of them. He has also guided the club's multi-market growth strategy under the NFL Global Markets Program, securing global marketing and commercialization rights and building lasting fan and business engagement across Europe and Latin America.

Locally, Donovan has driven significant economic and civic impact. The Chiefs and events at GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium generate nearly $1 billion annually for the Kansas City region, supporting 6,000 jobs and contributing over $28 million in tax revenue to the State of Missouri. He has also played a pivotal role in the franchise's future stadium planning, working closely with both Missouri and Kansas officials to evaluate all long-term options—underscoring his commitment to sustained success both on and off the field.

A former Brown University quarterback, Donovan previously held senior roles at the NFL league office, the NHL, and the Philadelphia Eagles. Under his leadership, the Chiefs are a two-time Kansas City Business Journal "Champion of Business," and he was named the 2021 Kansas City Sports Executive of the Year. A respected civic leader committed to community impact and service, he serves on the Board of Directors for the Hunt Family Foundation, has championed numerous other causes, and has redefined the club's charitable strategy to deliver a greater, more focused impact across the region.

Andy Reid enters his 13th season at the helm of the Kansas City Chiefs in 2025. He was hired as the club's 13th head coach in franchise history on January 7, 2013.

Entering his 27th season as an NFL head coach, Reid owns a 273-146-1 regular season record and adds a 28-17 postseason record, giving him 301 total wins, which ranks fourth in NFL history and first among active head coaches. He is the first head coach to become the winningest coach for two different franchises (Chiefs, 143 regular season wins; Eagles, 130 regular season wins). Reid is a three-time Super Bowl Champion (LIV, LVII, LVIII). In 2019, his squad beat the San Francisco 49ers 31-20 in Super Bowl LIV. Just three seasons later, he led the Chiefs to three-straight Super Bowls (LVII, LVIII, LIX), winning back-to-back championships, marking the first time in NFL history a club won back-to-back Super Bowl titles in two decades. Kansas City beat the Philadelphia Eagles 38-35 in Super Bowl LVII followed by a 25-22 overtime victory over the San Francisco 49ers in Super Bowl LVIII.

Reid joined the Chiefs after 14 seasons as Head Coach/Executive Vice President of Football Operations of the Philadelphia Eagles where he compiled a 130-93-1 (.583) regular season record. Including his years as an assistant coach, Reid's teams have made the playoffs 26 times (37-22 record). He has coached in eight Super Bowls and 15 Championship Games (8 NFC, 7 AFC), including being the first coach in NFL history to coach in five-consecutive home Conference Championship Games (2018-22). He owns three NFL Coach of the Year honors.

Since his arrival in Kansas City, Reid's teams have made it to the playoffs 11 out of 12 seasons and played in seven-straight AFC Championship games (2018-24). He has led his squad to the Super Bowl five times in six seasons (2019, 2020, 2022, 2023, 2024), winning three championships, including back-to-back titles. In 12 seasons under Reid, the Chiefs have recorded 11 10-plus win seasons, logging a .730 (143-53) winning percentage, which is the top mark in franchise history.

Reid led the 2024 Kansas City Chiefs to a 15-2 record, the best single-season record in franchise history and extended its current streak to nine-straight AFC West division championships. As the No. 1 seed in the NFL playoffs, the club beat the Houston Texans 23-14 in the Divisional Round, marking Reid's 300th career win which made him just the fourth coach in NFL history to record 300 wins. The team then beat the Buffalo Bills 32-29 in the club's seventh-consecutive AFC Championship Game.

Reid's 2023 squad achieved an 11-6 record, extending the club's franchise record streak to eight-straight division titles. Entering the playoffs as the No. 3 seed, the Chiefs beat the Miami Dolphins 26-7 in the Wild Card Round at home before QB Patrick Mahomes had to play a playoff game on the road for the first time in his six-year career as a starter. The club beat the No. 2 seed Buffalo Bills 27-24 in the Divisional Round and the No. 1 seed Baltimore Ravens 17-10 in the AFC Championship Game before taking down the San Francisco 49ers 25-22 in overtime in Super Bowl LVIII. Mahomes earned his third Super Bowl MVP honor as the club secured its third Super Bowl title (LIV, LVII, LVIII) in five seasons. Earlier that season in a Week 5 win over the Minnesota Vikings, Reid surpassed Pro Football Hall of Fame Coach Tom Landry to sit in the fourth spot on the NFL's all-time wins list.

In 2022, Reid led his team to a 14-3 record, securing the club's seventh-consecutive AFC West title and a No. 1 seed in the playoffs. The Chiefs defeated the Jacksonville Jaguars 27-20 in the Divisional Round and beat the Cincinnati Bengals 23-20 in an AFC Championship Game rematch, extending the club's NFL record to five championship games hosted at GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium. The Chiefs went on to beat the Philadelphia Eagles 38-35 in Super Bowl LVII. Under Reid's tutelage, QB Patrick Mahomes added his second NFL MVP (2019, 2022) honor and second Super Bowl MVP (LIV, LVII) award to his resume after leading the NFL in several statistical categories, including passing yards (5,250), touchdowns (41) and 25+ yard passes (49).

Reid's 2021 squad recorded a 12-5 record in the NFL's first 17-game season, won a sixth-straight AFC West title and secured the No. 2 seed in the AFC. Kansas City defeated Pittsburgh 42-21 in the wild card round and Buffalo 42-36 in the Divisional Round en route to hosting the AFC Championship Game at GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium. The Chiefs fell to Cincinnati 27-24. In Week 4, Reid recorded his 100th victory with Kansas City (postseason included), becoming the first head coach in NFL history to tally 100-plus wins with two franchises.

The 2020 Kansas City Chiefs tallied a franchise-record 14 wins (14-2 record), won their fifth-straight AFC West title and secured the No. 1 seed in the AFC for the second time in three years (2018, 2020). Kansas City defeated Cleveland 22-17 in the Divisional Round and Buffalo 38-24 in its third-consecutive AFC Championship Game at GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium. Kansas City hoisted the Lamar Hunt Trophy as AFC Champions for the second-straight year en route to its second-consecutive Super Bowl appearance. After just three years as starting QB, Reid-mentored Mahomes was the fastest player to throw 100 touchdown passes, doing so in just 40 games.

In 2019, Reid's 12-4 Chiefs finished the regular season as AFC West Champs for a fourth-straight season and secured the No. 2 seed in the AFC. The club defeated Houston 51-31 in the Divisional Round and Tennessee 35-24 in the AFC Championship Game on it's way to returning to the Super Bowl for the third time in franchise history, marking the first Super Bowl appearance since the club won Super Bowl IV following the 1969 season. In Super Bowl LIV in Miami, Florida, Reid's Chiefs fell behind 20-10. Entering the fourth quarter, Mahomes rallied the offense, putting up 21-unanswered points to secure a 31-20 win over the San Francisco 49ers. Mahomes' performance earned him Super Bowl MVP honors.

In 2018, Reid's team notched a 12-4 record and third-straight AFC West title. Mahomes became the first player in Chiefs history to be named NFL MVP. The club earned a No. 1 seed in the playoffs and defeated the Indianapolis Colts 31-13 in the Divisional Round. The win marked Kansas City's first home playoff win since Jan. 8, 1994. The Chiefs hosted their first AFC Championship Game in franchise history, falling 37-31 in overtime to the eventual Super Bowl LIII Champion New England Patriots. Following the season, Reid was named Coach of the Year from the Maxwell Football Club for the fourth time in his career (2000, 2002, 2010, 2018). That season, following the club's Week 7 win over the Cincinnati Bengals, Reid became just the ninth head coach in NFL history to log 200 wins (regular and postseason).

In 2017, Reid led the Chiefs to a 10-6 record en route to the club's second-consecutive AFC West title, the first time in franchise history the club had won the division in back-to-back years.

In 2016, Reid led the Chiefs to a 12-4 record and an AFC West title for the first time since 2010. The team finished a perfect 6-0 against its division foes. It was the club's best record since going 13-3 in 2003. The Chiefs earned a first-round bye in the NFL playoffs and hosted a home AFC Divisional Game.

In 2015, Reid's Chiefs rattled off 10-consecutive regular season wins to finish 11-5 and earn a playoff berth. The Chiefs defeated the Houston Texans 30-0 in an AFC Wild Card Game in Houston, marking the team's first playoff win in 22 years. Reid and company advanced to the AFC Divisional Round. The club's 10-straight wins after starting just 1-5 marked the greatest turnaround in a single season in NFL history. Reid's efforts earned him AFC Coach of the Year honors.

In his first year with the club, Reid was named the 2013 AFC Coach of the Year by the 101 Committee after his squad recorded the greatest single-season turnaround in franchise history. Reid's team finished with an 11-5 record, a nine-game turnaround from the previous season and qualified for the postseason for the first time since 2010. Additionally, Reid mentored 10 players who earned Pro Bowl honors, more than any other team in the NFL that season.

One of the most successful coaches in professional sports, Reid utilizes a passionate, yet workmanlike approach as an NFL head coach. A former offensive lineman at BYU, Reid still lives and works with those humble principles he learned during his time in the trenches.

"Kansas City is just going to get better. This is just the start of it," the late Pro Football Hall of Fame Head Coach John Madden said upon Reid joining the Chiefs. "He has a plan. And he's very thorough, very smart. He's a good coach, always has been."

His vision, his dedication and his organizational skills have been impeccable during his coaching career. Reid joined Philadelphia as head coach in 1999 and remained in that role through the 2012 season, becoming one of just 11 first-time NFL head coaches to lead 12-or-more seasons with the same club. Reid assumed the additional role of Executive Vice President of Football Operations in 2001.

While compiling his 10-9 postseason record with Philadelphia, Reid led the Eagles franchise to one Super Bowl appearance, a game that saw Philadelphia fall by a mere field goal to the New England Patriots in Super Bowl XXXIX following the 2004 season. Reid guided Philadelphia to nine playoff appearances (2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2006, 2008, 2009, 2010) during his 14-year tenure in the City of Brotherly Love. During that time period, only Indianapolis (12) and New England (10) had more postseason appearances than the Eagles.

The Eagles captured their sixth NFC East division title under Reid in 2010. Along the way, Reid played a vital role in the rebirth of QB Michael Vick, who earned Comeback Player of the Year honors as well as a Pro Bowl berth. Reid, himself, earned Coach of the Year honors from the Maxwell Football Club.

In 2008, Reid became the 37th coach to reach the 100-win plateau and the 22nd to win 100 games with one franchise. He overcame a 5-5-1 start to reach the NFC Championship Game.

In 2006, the Eagles lost six of their first 11 games and two of their most explosive players in QB Donovan McNabb and DE Jevon Kearse, but Reid led a five-game win streak to close out the season, capturing the NFC East division title.

The 2004 Eagles clinched the NFC East title with five games remaining in the regular season and the No. 1 seed in the NFC playoffs. Along the way, Reid passed Greasy Neale for the most wins in franchise history as the Eagles earned their first trip to the Super Bowl since 1980.

In 2003, Philadelphia overcame an 0-2 start and a slew of injuries to post its second consecutive 12-win season. A year earlier, Reid was the overwhelming choice as the NFL's Coach of the Year as the Eagles thrived without the services of McNabb to still capture home-field advantage in the playoffs.

After a 5-11 mark in his first season, Reid led the 2000 Eagles to the greatest turnaround in franchise history, finishing second in the NFC East at 11-5 and earning a trip to the NFC Divisional Playoffs. For his efforts, Reid was named the NFL's Coach of the Year by the Maxwell Football Club, The Sporting News, and Football Digest.

Throughout his time in the NFL, Reid has continuously evaluated what is best for the game of football, serving on the NFL Competition Committee's Coaches Subcommittee. The subcommittee is instrumental in providing feedback to the NFL Competition Committee for potential rule changes and ways to improve the game.

"I am a huge fan of Coach Reid," NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell said. "He is a person I have tremendous respect for as a coach and family man. Andy has been very helpful to me as Commissioner. He has tremendous insight into our game, and we are fortunate to have him in the NFL."

Reid was originally introduced as the head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles on Jan. 11, 1999, after spending seven seasons as an assistant coach with the Green Bay Packers under Head Coach Mike Holmgren. During his seven years with the Packers, Reid served as the tight ends coach and assistant offensive line coach (1992-96) and as quarterbacks coach (1997-98). In his span with the Packers, the team reached the playoffs six times and represented the NFC twice in back-to-back Super Bowls, defeating New England in Super Bowl XXXI and falling to Denver in Super Bowl XXXII.

During his two-year stint as quarterbacks coach, Reid worked with Pro Football Hall of Fame QB Brett Favre. While tutoring Favre, Reid and the Packers won their second straight NFC title, and Favre garnered league MVP honors for the third-consecutive season.

Prior to joining the NFL ranks, Reid's final collegiate stop was in Columbia, Missouri, as he coached the offensive line at the University of Missouri (1989-91). Prior to his stint with the Tigers, Reid spent two years working with the offensive line at the University of Texas – El Paso, and before that, he held the same position with Northern Arizona. Reid was hired as offensive line coach in 1983 and later promoted to offensive coordinator in 1984 at San Francisco State, helping the Gators lead the nation in passing and total offense for three consecutive years (1983-85).

A tackle and guard at Brigham Young University from 1979-81, Reid entered the coaching ranks as a graduate assistant at BYU under Head Coach LaVell Edwards in 1982. It was in that time at BYU that Reid began his association with Holmgren, who served as the quarterbacks coach for the Cougars. While at BYU, Reid earned both a bachelor's degree in physical education and a master's degree in professional leadership in physical education and athletics. While playing for the Cougars, Reid was also a columnist for the Provo Daily Herald.

A native of Los Angeles, Reid prepped at John Marshall High School in Los Angeles and went on to go to Glendale (Calif.) Junior College before attending BYU. Reid has been inducted into the Marshall High School Athletic Hall of Fame, as well as the Glendale Junior College Hall of Fame.

GENERAL MANAGER

The 2025 NFL Draft marked the eighth draft that Veach was at the helm of the personnel department. In eight drafts, he has made six first-round selections, including two in 2022. Veach has a reputation for being aggressive in the draft, especially in the first round. He has initiated a trade with the first-round selection in six of his eight drafts as general manager. Veach conducted a trade with the Eagles in order to move back one spot and select T Josh Simmons (Ohio State) with the 32nd overall pick in the 2025 NFL Draft. In 2024, Veach traded up four spots from No. 32, selecting WR Xavier Worthy (Texas) with the 28th overall pick. He drafted DE Felix Anudike-Uzomah (Kansas State) with the 31st pick in 2023. In the 2022 NFL Draft, Veach traded up to select CB Trent McDuffie (Washington) with the 21st overall selection, and at No. 30, he selected DE George Karlaftis (Purdue). Veach traded the club's first round pick in 2021 as part of a deal acquiring T Orlando Brown from the Baltimore Ravens. Prior to being promoted to General Manager, Veach played an integral role in the scouting process of QB Patrick Mahomes. Veach also has proven his due diligence in evaluating veteran talent both currently on the Chiefs roster or elsewhere around the NFL. QB Patrick Mahomes, TE Travis Kelce and DE Chris Jones are the most notable players drafted by the club prior to Veach's time as GM that he has made a priority to keep in the red and gold. Similarly, his ability to evaluate and recruit veteran free agents has been proven as he's signed key contributors that have come in and played a significant role on the club's Super Bowl Championship teams including - S Tyrann Mathieu (2019), DE Frank Clark (2019), S Justin Reid (2022), WR JuJu Smith-Schuster (2022), WR Marquez Valdes-Scantling (2022), T Jawaan Taylor (2023), T Donovan Smith (2023), LB Drue Tranquill (2023) and S Mike Edwards (2023).

Lara KRUG

Executive Vice President and Chief Media & Marketing Officer

Lara Krug was hired as Kansas City's Executive Vice President and Chief Marketing Officer on June 29, 2021. Entering her fifth season in the National Football League in 2025, she now holds the title of Executive Vice President and Chief Media and Marketing Officer.

As the first CMO in franchise history, Krug oversees all club marketing functions, including brand marketing; digital, social and website operations; influencer activation; event entertainment and content production. Krug is also responsible for all consumer products as well.

Reporting directly to team President Mark Donovan, she strategically and proactively works across the organization to identify opportunities to help internal and external stakeholders achieve key growth objectives. Employing short- and long-term strategies, Krug and the marketing team are focused on brand extensions and loyalty with current and new fans; engaging with Chiefs Kingdom through original content across all the club's social, digital and mobile channels; as well as creating once-in-a-lifetime experiences domestically and globally all in an effort to welcome all to Chiefs Kingdom.

Krug had a leading role in the Chiefs formation of Foolish Club Studios, a new studio focused on developing original scripted and unscripted content for short-form and long-form storytelling. Building on the legacy of American sports pioneer and Kansas City Chiefs founder Lamar Hunt, the studio will prioritize telling unique stories that not only highlight the rich, deep history of the franchise, the characters that have defined it and its position within the Kansas City and global communities, but also stories that reflect the spirit of humility, heart, and hard work that have been part of the team's heritage since the beginning. Coming off of the success of the Hallmark Channel collaboration Holiday Touchdown: A Chiefs Love Story – the number one cable movie of 2024 – along with viral online hits like the holiday Claymation short A Kingdom Christmas Story: Hail Merry (nearly one million views), the Chiefs have formalized their entertainment efforts by launching a dedicated studio to oversee production and development of stories that transcend football and sports.

Krug continues to play a pivotal role in helping the brand reach new heights off the field, including surpassing one million subscribers on the official YouTube channel at the end of 2024. This achievement made the Chiefs the first NFL team – and only the second American professional sports team – to reach this milestone. In total, the team's social footprint grew by four million last year, and they also ranked first in TikTok followers. Additionally, the Chiefs also have the second-largest overall fanbase in the NFL, with 57 percent of fans being female.

In addition to managing all domestic marketing efforts for the team, Krug is leading the club's international growth in both Germany and Mexico as part of the NFL's Global Markets Program. This league initiative grants clubs access to international territories for marketing, fan engagement and commercialization, enabling the Chiefs to build a more robust global brand while driving NFL fan growth internationally. In 2025, the Chiefs were awarded additional marketing and commercialization rights for the United Kingdom, Ireland, and Spain. Krug and her team also helped secure the club's first ever game in Germany during the 2023 season and activated the "Chiefs ChampionShip," a yacht fan activation on the banks of the Main River in central Frankfurt, that served as a fan hub for new and loyal fans to experience Chiefs Kingdom.

Krug also played a role in the city hosting the 2023 NFL Draft with historic and iconic Union State and the National WWI Museum and Memorial serving as the backdrop to one

Rick BURKHOLDER

Vice President of Sports Medicine and Performance

Known as one of the top athletic trainers in the National Football League, Rick Burkholder enters his 13th season with the Kansas City Chiefs in 2025 and his eighth serving as the club's Vice President of Sports Medicine and Performance. Following his promotion in 2018, he continued to oversee the athletic training staff and added the team's strength and conditioning and equipment departments to his responsibilities.

Burkholder and his staff were instrumental to the health of the team as the Chiefs appeared in three-straight Super Bowls with back-to-back victories in Super Bowl LVII and LVIII. The work of Burkholder and his staff was brought to the limelight especially in 2023 when several key players including LB Nick Bolton (ankle and wrist) and RB Isiah Pacheco (shoulder) faced injuries. Burkholder and his staff were able to develop rehab plans conducive to a return to the field as both players finished the regular season and had strong postseason performances. In 2022, five key players, including QB Patrick Mahomes and WR JuJu Smith-Schuster, experienced injuries during the AFC Championship Game win. Under Burkholder's direction, including the development and execution of their individual treatment plans, and with the aid of the athletic training staff, four of the five injured players were able to return to action for Super Bowl LVII. Smith-Schuster went on to be the team's second-leading receiver in the victory and Mahomes threw for 182 yards and three touchdowns as he was named Super Bowl MVP.

On Feb. 19, 2014, Burkholder received one of the highest honors in his profession as he was elected to a three-year term as president of the Professional Football Athletic Trainers Society (PFATS), which serves the players of the NFL, the member clubs and other members of the community, while ensuring the highest quality of health care provided to the NFL. During his term, he focused on two specific initiatives – emphasizing the need for gender equality in athletic training and the importance of athletic trainers at youth levels. During his three-year presidency, Burkholder spearheaded the implementation of a $1,000 league-wide scholarship specifically for a female training camp fellowship. Since its inception in 2015, this yearly scholarship has now contributed nearly $300,000 to advancing women in athletic training.

After his term, Burkholder has continued to be recognized for his service to both the Chiefs and the field. In 2023, Burkholder was honored for his work with his induction into the National Athletic Trainers' Association (NATA) Hall of Fame. He was also inducted into the Pennsylvania Athletic Training Hall of Fame (2016).

Burkholder is actively involved in the Kansas City community, particularly with youth sports, and in 2022, he added two more honors to his resume. The first being his NATA Service Award as recognition for his contributions to the athletic training profession as a volunteer at the local and state levels. Burkholder has given educational presentations on concussions and heat and hydration as part of The University of Kansas Health System Sports Medicine and Performance Center and currently sits on the athletic trainers advisory group and served on the head, neck and spine committee and the return to play task force, all of which address the treatment and prevention of concussions in the sport. ATSA recipients have been involved in professional associations, community organizations, grassroots public relations efforts and service as a volunteer athletic trainer.

In February 2022, he earned the Fain-Cain Memorial Award for 2021 Outstanding NFL Athletic Trainer of the Year. The Fain-Cain award is named for Dr. Thomas E. Cain and Dr. Robert H. Fain, both long time team physicians for the then-Houston Oilers. The award was established shortly after Dr. Cain's death and Dr. Fain's retirement. Both physicians exhibited long term commitments to the NFL and exemplary performances. The award is given annually to an NFL athletic trainer who manifests these traits and is presented to the PFATS member who best reflects the virtues of a certified athletic trainer and displays the highest level of professionalism.

In back-to-back years, Burkholder received prestigious awards for his work on the field. First in 2017, he became just the second person and first athletic trainer to receive the NATA's President's Award, honoring his contribution to the profession after earning the NATA Most Distinguished Athletic Trainer Award in 2016. He and his staff were recognized by their peers following the 2010 season, being named the NFL's top training staff for the year.

In 2020, the NFL and the world faced a public health crisis, the coronavirus pandemic, forcing the adoption of new COVID-19 protocols across the National Football League. Burkholder became the team's Infection Control Officer (ICO), a leading member of the club's Infection Response Team (IRT). As the local ICO. Burkholder was integral in the development and execution of the club's IDER (infectious disease emergency response) plan, a document detailing how the club adapted its operations to mitigate risk, cleaning protocols, how the team complied with state and local guidelines, as well as an action plan for positive COVID-19 tests or symptoms within the staff or locker room, among other topics. Burkholder's plan was the first among all clubs to be reviewed and approved by the NFL, the NFLPA and jointly appointed infectious disease experts.

Having spent 26 years with Chiefs Head Coach Andy Reid, including 14 in Philadelphia as Reid held the same position with the Eagles (1999-2012), Burkholder became well known for his expertise in his rehabilitation programs. In 2004, an aggressive rehabilitation program allowed WR Terrell Owens to return from a surgically-repaired ankle in seven weeks to play in Super Bowl XXXIX with the Eagles. He also helped RB Duce Staley return to the field in 2001, who suffered a severe Lisfranc sprain in his foot. The process went so well that Burkholder was published and has spoken nationally on the Lisfranc injury and its rehabilitation process. In addition, Burkholder designed a rehab program for Steelers CB Rod Woodson in 1995 after he suffered a torn ACL in the season opener. Woodson returned just four and a half months after surgery to play in Super Bowl XXX. Burkholder has created specialized rehab programs for

Brandon HAMILTON

Vice President of Stadium Operations and Facilities

Brandon Hamilton was named Kansas City's Vice President of Stadium Operations and Facilities on May 4, 2017, and is entering his 16th season with the Chiefs in 2025.

In his current role, Hamilton oversees all aspects of stadium systems, stadium maintenance and the stadium grounds for both GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium and The University of Kansas Health System Training Complex.

Hamilton contributed to a team that successfully won the bid for the 2026 FIFA World Cup that is currently in the first phase of construction for a significant renovation at GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium to ensure the field meets strict FIFA guidelines. Hamilton oversaw the FIFA World Cup Renovation of GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium. The renovation included installation of Subair into the field, 11 rows of removable seating along the north sideline and major electrical and broadcast upgrades.

Hamilton was also instrumental in the master planning process regarding the future of GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium.

Hamilton is a member of the NFL Green Initiatives program that plans and hosts discussion webinars for other NFL teams. He is also a member of the Stadium Managers Association where he sits on the Seminar Planning Committee.

In addition to regular maintenance of facilities and systems, Hamilton has overseen a number of stadium construction and renovation projects over the past 15 years, including a three-year seat replacement project, technology upgrades to the end zone scoreboards, suite upgrades and a complete Chiefs Team Store remodel. Hamilton helped manage the complete reimagination of the Chiefs Hall of Honor in the stadium's lower level concourse, as well as the renovation of the club's home locker room complex at GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium, both of which were unveiled prior to the start of the 2021 campaign.

With the coronavirus pandemic forcing the adoption of new COVID-19 protocols across the National Football League, Hamilton was appointed as a member of the club's Stadium Emergency Response Team, serving as the stadium's Infection Control Officer in 2020 and 2021. His team was a critical component in the successful relocation of training camp to GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium and The University of Kansas Health System Training Complex due to NFL Coronavirus policies in 2020.

In addition, Hamilton and the stadium operations staff were heavily involved in planning for the return of staff and fans to the venue, including the ordering and maintaining of cleaning products, equipment and PPE, as well as enhanced cleaning and sanitization plans for both the stadium and practice facility. Under his guidance, both the stadium and the practice facility achieved GBAC STAR Facility Accreditation from the Global Biorisk Advisory Council after demonstrating the proper cleaning protocols, disinfection techniques and work practices to combat biohazards and infectious disease.

Prior to being named Vice President of Stadium Operations and Facilities, Hamilton served as the club's Director of Facilities for seven seasons (2010-16). As the Director of Facilities, he was responsible for facility management of both the stadium and the club's practice facility and office complex.

Hamilton also directs the club's Extra Yard for the Environment program; a sustainability initiative designed to devise and implement new environmentally friendly policies. The program currently focuses on waste diversion, energy efficiency and recycling at both GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium and The University of Kansas Health System Training Complex. He encourages fans to examine their sustainability efforts at home. Hamilton continues to work with national supply chain members to transform back-of-the-house concession waste into compostable products that can be diverted. In 2025, Hamilton led his team to obtaining a LEED Existing Building and Operations Certification and an ISO 20121 Event Sustainability Certification.

In May 2021, Hamilton was named to the Board of Directors of the Green Sports Alliance, an environmentally focused 501c(6) trade organization that convenes stakeholders from around the sports world to promote healthy, sustainable communities. Within the board, he is on the strategic planning committee and chair of a working group that is focused on improving the Play to Zero platform, a web application used to track sustainability performance.

Prior to joining the Chiefs in 2010, Hamilton served as Program Manager at The Konrath Group. During his time there he worked on the Arrowhead Stadium renovation that took place between 2007-10. Before that he spent a decade working in residential construction as a builder and superintendent.

TOUB
Assistant Head Coach/Special Teams Coordinator

Education: University of Texas - El Paso (B.S. 1986, M.E.1988)
Born: Ossining, N.Y.
Family: Wife - Cheryl; Children - Shane and Nicolette

Dave Toub enters his 13th season in Kansas City in 2025. He added assistant head coach to his title in 2018 after serving five seasons (2013-17) as the club's special teams coordinator.

In his 13 seasons, the Chiefs have won a franchise-record nine-straight AFC West titles (2016-24), appeared in seven-straight AFC Championship Games (2018-24), hosting six of those, appeared in five Super Bowls in six years (LIV, LV, LVII, LVIII and LIX), including three-straight appearances (LVII, LVIII and LIX) and added a third Super Bowl ring to his collection in 2023 (LIV, LVII and LVIII). In 12 seasons under Toub, the Chiefs special teams units have led the league in several categories. Since 2013, the club ranks first in punt return yards (4,269) and return touchdowns (14 total - eight PR, six KR), is fourth in punt return average (9.7) and kick return average (24.6) and tied for first in return touchdowns allowed (one).

In 2024, Toub saw a product of his coaching cemented into the Pro Football Hall of Fame when wide receiver and return specialist Devin Hester was inducted. Toub coached Hester from 2006-12 which included three of his four Pro Bowl selections (2006-07, 2010), an AP All-Pro Selection (2010), three PFW/PFWA All-NFL Team selections (2006-07, 2010) and his 92-yard kickoff return to open Super Bowl XLI – the only time in SB history that has occurred.

Toub has seen consistency at both long snapper and kicker, coaching 11-year veteran LS James Winchester for 10 years and K Harrison Butker since he arrived as a rookie in 2017. Butker has rewritten the team's history books, ranking third in career points scored (992) and has made 218 of his 246 FGs (88.6%) – 30 of which are 50+ yards, another franchise record. Butker converted four field goals in Super Bowl LVIII - tied for the most in a Super Bowl - and set a Super Bowl record for longest made FG in Super Bowl history (57 yards). His 57-yarder was his sixth 50+ yard field goal in the postseason, surpassing Adam Vinatieri and Tyler Bass (five) for the most 50+ yarders in NFL postseason history.

In 2024, Toub integrated rookie P Matt Araiza to the unit who went on to punt 62 times averaging 48.8 yards per punt with 25 punts inside the 20-yard line. Butker had another productive year making 29 of his 31 PATs and going 21-for-25 on field goals including two 50+ yard field goals. Toub's unit was featured Week 10 when LB Leo Chenal blocked a 35-yard walk off field goal to secure the team's win and move them to 9-0 on the season. This was Chenal's second block of his career after batting a PAT in Super Bowl LVIII.

The 2023 season was Butker's best of his career, going 33-for-35 (94.3%) on field goals and a perfect 38-for-38 on PATs. Butker totaled 137 points throughout the season, tying his third-most points in a season. Butker converted five regular season field goals of 50+ yards and two in the postseason. In the postseason, Butker did not miss a field goal or PAT and set new single-postseason records for himself with 41 points and 11 field goals, helping propel the team to their second-straight Super Bowl title (LVII, LVIII). P Tommy Townsend had single season records of 59 punts and 2,469 net yards, flipping the field in key moments. Toub utilized newcomer WR Richie James at punt and kick return who went on to average 20.8 yards on kick return (nine returns) and 10.0 yards on punt return (20 returns).

In 2022, Toub faced injuries and youth with Butker experiencing a Week 1 ankle injury and having to fill both the kick and punt return positions. Butker missed four games due to his early injury but returned to make 17-of-23 regular season FGs and nailed a 62-yard FG (Week 6 vs. Buffalo), the longest in Chiefs history. P Tommy Townsend also had a standout year, recording two of the top five longest punts in franchise history (Week 2 vs. L.A. Chargers, 74-yards and Week 14 at Denver, 76-yards). He led the league in net punting average (45.6) and was second in the league for punting average (50.4) - both of which were Chiefs single season records. Toub mentored rookie RB Isiah Pacheco to average 20.6 yards per return to fill the kick return role and utilized WR Kadarius Toney throughout the season who recorded a Super Bowl record-setting punt return of 65 yards.

In 2021, Butker made 25 of his 28 field goals and hit 47-of-49 PAT's on the season, his second best percentage of his career (95.9%). The special teams unit ranked third in punt return average (12.0 yards).

In 2020, Toub's special teams units ranked in the top 10 in field goal percentage (92.6%) and kickoff return average (25.8) en route to a second-consecutive Super Bowl appearance. Butker converted 25 of his 27 field goal attempts and converted two 58-yard field goals in the Week 2 win over the Chargers to secure Week 2 AFC Special Teams Player of the Week. Townsend set a Chiefs single-game record 60.8 yards punting average in Week 4 vs. New England.

The 2019 Super Bowl Champion Chiefs special teams ranked in the top 10 in kick returns, kick return coverage and punt return coverage. To close out the regular season, rookie WR Mecole Hardman took one to the house, returning a kick 104 yards, the third-longest kickoff return in franchise history. He was named second-team All-Pro as a kick returner and named to his first Pro Bowl as a return specialist. Butker set a franchise record for most points by a kicker in a single season with 147 points.

In 2018, the Chiefs special teams ranked in the top 10 in punt return, punt return coverage and kickoff return. Butker had a strong second season, making 24-of-27 kicks and P Dustin Colquitt placed 21 kicks inside the 20-yard line, moving him to third all-time in NFL history (441).

In 2017, the Chiefs led the NFL with 41 field goals, 38 of those FGs were made by rookie Butker who exceeded expectations since joining the team in Week 4.

Prior to arriving in Kansas City, Toub's special teams units in Chicago finished in the top third of the league for eight straight seasons (2004-11) according to the Dallas Morning News ranking system, including a No. 1 overall finish in 2006 and 2007. Toub was named Special Teams Coach of the Year in 2006 as voted on by his NFL coaching peers.

Matt
NAGY
Offensive Coordinator

Education: University of Delaware (B.S. 2001)
Born: Plainfield, N.J.
Family: Wife - Stacey; Sons - Brayden, Tate, Jaxon and Jett

Matt Nagy enters his ninth season with the Chiefs in 2025 and fifth as the team's offensive coordinator. Nagy was promoted to offensive coordinator after rejoining the club in 2022 as senior offensive assistant/quarterbacks coach after four years as head coach for the Chicago Bears (2018-21). During Nagy's first stint in KC, he led the offense in QB Patrick Mahomes' rookie season (2017) after serving as co-offensive coordinator alongside Brad Childress in 2016. He spent his first three seasons with the Chiefs as the quarterbacks coach (2013-15).

Nagy has now been a part of three Super Bowl appearances with the Chiefs, including victories in Super Bowl LVII and LVIII. In 2024, Nagy led the offense to a franchise-best 15-win regular season, captured the team's ninth-straight AFC West Division Title and the club's third-straight AFC Championship win before falling to the Philadelphia Eagles in Super Bowl LIX. The Chiefs offense was highlighted by rookie WR Xavier Worthy who developed rapidly under Nagy's leadership and emerged as the team's second-leading receiver, second only to TE Travis Kelce. Worthy recorded 59 receptions for 638 yards and six touchdowns while Kelce led the team for the third-straight season (2022-24) with 97 receptions for 823 yards and three touchdowns. Kelce cemented his name even further in the history books passing PFHOF TE Tony Gonzalez for most receiving yards in Chiefs history, becoming the fastest tight end to surpass 12,000 receiving yards in league history, breaking Gonzalez's record for most receiving touchdowns in Chiefs history (77) and eclipsing 1,000 career receptions. He finished the season with the third most receptions by a tight end in NFL history (1,004). QB Patrick Mahomes set several records himself in 2024 while maintaining his highest career completion percentage (67.5%). In Week 1, Mahomes passed PFHOF QB Len Dawson for the most passing yards in franchise history (28,715) and by Week 2 had earned the most regular season wins in a quarterback's first 100 starts (77 wins, 99 starts), besting QB Tom Brady and PFHOF QB Roger Staubach.

Nagy marked his first season back at offensive coordinator with a Super Bowl LVIII victory, notching back-to-back Super Bowl victories for Nagy. Nagy led QB Patrick Mahomes to produce another strong season with 401 completions on 597 attempts, marking his sixth-consecutive season with 4,000+ (4,183) passing yards and 25+ touchdown passes (27). Mahomes tacked on his third career Super Bowl MVP to his career. The 2023 offense was highlighted by the playing of TE Travis Kelce, RB Isiah Pacheco and rookie WR Rashee Rice. Kelce, in his 11th season, was the team's leading receiver with 984 yards with five touchdowns and had a historic postseason run with 355 receiving yards with 32 receptions and three touchdowns. Nagy helped guide Rice to a standout rookie year, rewriting many of the team's rookie records including receptions (79) and receiving touchdowns (seven) and was second on the team in receiving yards (938). Pacheco bested his rookie performance with 205 rushes for 935 yards and seven touchdowns in his second season. He added 244 receiving yards and two touchdowns.

Nagy returned to Kansas City in 2022, reuniting with sixth-year MVP QB Patrick Mahomes. Under Nagy's tutelage, Mahomes completed 435 of his 648 passes en route to his second Super Bowl championship. His 67.1 completion percentage was the highest of his career. The sixth-year quarterback set franchise records for passing yards (5,250) and 300-yard games with 10 300-yard performances in 2022. He tacked on 358 rushing yards, the fifth most rushing yards by a Chiefs quarterback in a season, with four trips to the end zone. Mahomes led the league in many categories: passing yards (5,250), passing touchdowns (41), passing touchdown percentage (6.3%), passing first downs (272) and pass plays of 25+ yards (49). Following the season, Mahomes was named NFL MVP for the second time in his career. Mahomes added a second Super Bowl MVP title to his resume, along with a second AP All-Pro first-team selection. He was also selected to his fifth Pro Bowl and awarded AFC Offensive Player of the Year. Nagy also helped keep backup QB Chad Henne ready for the field and it paid off. When Mahomes was injured in the divisional matchup versus Jacksonville, Henne took the field and drove 98-yards for an eventual touchdown pass to TE Travis Kelce to send the Chiefs to their fifth-straight AFC Championship Game.

Nagy, the 2018 Associated Press and PFWA Coach of the Year, compiled a 34-31 record with one division championship and two playoff appearances in four seasons (2018-21) as the head coach of the Chicago Bears.

The 2017 Chiefs ranked first in the division for the second-straight season. QB Alex Smith had 341 completions on 505 attempts for 4,042 passing yards and 26 touchdowns. As a rookie, Mahomes saw his first NFL action in the Week 17 game at Denver as the starters were resting for the playoffs. Mahomes recorded 22 passes for 284 yards in the game.

In 2016, he tutored the Chiefs and Smith to a 12-4 regular-season record, the club's first AFC West title since 2010, the No. 2 overall seed in the AFC and a first-round bye. In 2015, the Chiefs won their first playoff game in 22 years, led by Smith. In his first four seasons, all under Nagy, Smith had a combined 41 wins, marking the most wins by a Chiefs quarterback in their first four seasons with the club, at the time.

In his first year with the Chiefs, Nagy worked with Smith in a season that brought him four 100.0 plus quarterback ratings, one of which was a perfect rating of 158.3 at Oakland (12/15/13). Focusing on ball protection, he coached Smith to a league-low seven interceptions with a minimum of 300 attempts and a 1.4 interception percentage, also the lowest in the NFL. Smith also earned his first Pro Bowl selection following his first season with the Chiefs in 2013.

Before joining the Chiefs coaching staff, Nagy spent three years on the offensive staff of the Philadelphia Eagles, spending two seasons as the franchise's offensive quality control coach (2011-12). He was promoted to that role after he served as a coaches assistant during the 2010 campaign. His initial experience with the Eagles came in 2008 and 2009 when he served as a coaching intern during Eagles training camp.

Steve SPAGNUOLO

Defensive Coordinator

Steve Spagnuolo enters his seventh season as the Chiefs defensive coordinator in 2025. In his career, he owns four Super Bowl rings (XLII, LIV, LVII and LVIII) as a defensive coordinator making him the only coordinator in NFL history to win four Super Bowls and sole coordinator to win a Super Bowl with two different franchises (Giants XLII, Chiefs LIV, LVII and LVIII). He is a part of one of just eight teams in NFL history to win back-to-back Super Bowl titles (LVII and LVIII) and has appeared in three-straight (LVII, LVIII and LIX).

In 2024, Spagnuolo and his defense helped propel the Chiefs to their third consecutive Super Bowl appearance. Going undefeated at home for the first time in franchise history (8-0), the Chiefs earned a first-round bye in the 2024 playoffs and rested their starters Week 18 in Denver. Through Week 17, the Chiefs defense averaged just 18.0 points allowed per game, the second fewest in the league and allowed the fourth fewest yards per game (310.8), rushing yards per game (98.3) and rushing plays of 10+ yards (39). Stacked up against the league, the defense was fourth in points allowed per game (19.2), eighth in net rushing yards allowed per game (101.8) and red zone touchdown percentage (51.9%), and ninth in net yards allowed per game (320.6). DE George Karlaftis had a standout year recording 28 quarterback hits, 8.0 sacks, nine tackles for loss and five passes defensed. DT Chris Jones earned his sixth Pro Bowl nomination along with his third AP All-Pro selection (first-team) with 5.0 sacks, 20 quarterback hits and nine tackles for loss. LB Nick Bolton led the defense with 106 tackles (73 solo), 11 tackles for loss and six passes defensed while rookie DB Jaden Hicks made an impression with three interceptions, the most amongst the defense's 13 total.

Spagnuolo's defense was a powerhouse in 2023, continually providing game-changing production en route to the club's second-consecutive Super Bowl title. Spagnuolo and his unit allowed the fewest 20+ yard plays allowed (46), second-fewest total points per game (17.3), second-fewest offensive points (271), second-fewest opponent yards per game (289) and the third-fewest yards per pass attempt (6.03). Spagnuolo consistently shut teams out in the second half, ranking first in second-half points allowed (126) and including three second-half shutouts. His defense did not allow more than 27 points the entire season, including the postseason. Through the playoffs in 2023, the Chiefs defense held the top three ranked offenses in the AFC to an average of 15.7 points per game.

For the second-straight year, Spagnuolo's defense recorded the second-most sacks (57.0) across the league, which was also the second-most sacks in a single season in Chiefs history. Much of the defense's production was spurred from DT Chris Jones who recorded his second-straight season of double-digit sacks with 10.5 (-71.5 yards). Alongside him was second-year DE George Karlaftis who matched Jones' 10.5 sacks (-55.5 yards). Jones was selected to his fifth Pro Bowl, and second AP All-Pro Team (first-team) and was voted by his teammates to be a postseason team captain. As one of the top duos in the NFL, CB Trent McDuffie and CB L'Jarius Sneed consistently locked up the league's top receivers. McDuffie was the team's second-leading tackler with 80 tackles (60 solo) and added 3.0 sacks (-24.0 yards), five forced fumbles, seven passes defensed and nine QB pressures. McDuffie was selected to his first AP All-Pro Team (first-team) following the season. Sneed led the team with two interceptions, totaled 78 tackles (60 solo), had 14 passes defensed and made a key play during the AFC Championship Game, knocking the ball out of WR Zay Flowers' hands for a touchback. The defense also featured newcomer LB Drue Tranquill who quickly made an impact with 4.5 sacks (-19.0 yards) and seven tackles for loss while LB Nick Bolton and S Justin Reid continued to be defensive leaders. Reid topped the defense with 95 tackles (74 solo) and showed his versatility with 3.0 sacks (-16.0 yards) while adding seven passes defensed and five QB pressures.

Spagnuolo's 2022 defense achieved a top three ranking in four critical categories: QB hits (1st, 198), sacks (2nd, 55.0 sacks, -388 yards), QB pressures (2nd, 241) and third downs of more than two yards (3rd). With Spagnuolo's guidance, the team's eight total defensive rookies handled 25 percent of the defensive snaps - the third most in the league - and set the second highest snap percentage in NFL history for a team to reach the Super Bowl. All eight took the field for Super Bowl LVII which were the most defensive rookies in Super Bowl history and included three starters (DE George Karlaftis, CB Trent McDuffie and CB Jaylen Watson). As a rookie, Karlaftis made an immediate impact and recorded 6.0 sacks (-40 yards), seven passes defensed and 11 quarterback hits. CB L'Jarius Sneed and S Juan Thornhill led the team with three interceptions a piece. Sneed showcased his versatility as he notched a career-high 3.5 sacks. Second-year LB Nick Bolton broke the Chiefs record for single season tackles with 180 tackles and recovered a fumble for a touchdown in Super Bowl LVII. In his seventh year, DT Chris Jones had one of his most productive seasons with 15.5 sacks, tying his career-high and bringing his career total to 65.0, which tied for third in the NFL amongst active DTs. Jones was selected to his fourth Pro Bowl, 2022 AFC Defensive Player of the Year Award and was named to the AP All-Pro Team (first-team). Jones and Bolton were both voted by their teammates to be 2022 playoff captains.

In 2021, the Chiefs defense went on a 10-game stretch allowing only 14.3 points per game, which led the NFL and held five opponents to 10 points or fewer, ranking ninth in total points allowed. For the third year in a row, Spagnuolo's defense ranked in the top 10 in takeaways, finishing fifth in the NFL. Jones logged a team-high 9.0 sacks (-65.5 yards) and his inside presence helped the defense to rank ninth in the NFL for QB hurries and earned him Pro Bowl recognition. As a rookie, Bolton led the team with 112 tackles, including 11 for loss as he was named the club's Mack Lee Hill award winner as the team's best rookie or first-year player, an award voted on by his teammates.

The 2020 Chiefs defense held opponents to 22.6 points per game and allowed 20 points or fewer in nine contests en route to the team's second-consecutive Super Bowl appearance.

As a unit, the defense forced 16 interceptions and six fumble recoveries enabling 67 points off 22 takeaways. S Tyrann Mathieu led the team with six interceptions, and DT Chris Jones led the team in sacks for the third-straight season with 7.5 sacks. Mathieu, Jones and DE Frank Clark earned Pro Bowl honors. Jones also was named first-team All-Pro.

In his first season as defensive coordinator of the eventual Super Bowl Champion Chiefs, Spagnuolo oversaw a defense that ranked in the top 10 in several categories: points allowed (7th, 19.3), takeaways (T-10th, 23), red zone touchdown percentage (T-9th, 50.9), QB passer rating (5th, 80.8), yards per pass attempt (6th, 6.67) and 20+ yard plays (T-10th, 55). In 2019, the defense logged five-consecutive games holding teams to no more than 17 points and in the final five games, allowed no more than 10.4 points from their opposition. In Super Bowl LIV, Spagnuolo's defense stopped three consecutive drives, allowing just 58 total yards, which gave QB Patrick Mahomes the field position to score the final 21 points, sealing a Chiefs 31-20 victory over the San Francisco 49ers. Two members of the Chiefs 2019 defense were nominated for the Pro Bowl following the season, DT Chris Jones and DE Frank Clark.

Prior to joining the Chiefs, Spagnuolo served as the defensive coordinator for the New York Giants for three seasons (2015-17) and was named the Giants interim head coach for the final four weeks of the 2017 season. In 2016, the Giants fielded the NFL's most-improved defense, one that was a catalyst behind the team's 11-5 record and first postseason berth in five years. Spagnuolo's defense achieved top-10 rankings in 12 statistical categories, including a top-five ranking in eight critical statistical categories during the 2016 season: touchdowns allowed (1st), red zone efficiency (1st), points allowed per game (2nd), opposing quarterback rating (2nd), yards allowed per rush (2nd), third-down efficiency (3rd), completion percentage (3rd) and first downs allowed per game (5th). His three years coordinating New York's defense marked his second stint in that role as he served as the Giants defensive coordinator from 2007-08. Spagnuolo's defense helped lead the Giants to a 17-14 victory over the previously undefeated New England Patriots in Super Bowl XLII following the 2007 season holding Tom Brady and the NFL's top offense to 274 total yards, including just 45 yards rushing and no completion greater than 19 yards.

After his first stop with the Giants (2007-08), Spagnuolo was hired as head coach of the St. Louis Rams, where he spent three seasons at the helm (2009-11) and led the Rams to a six-game turnaround between 2009-10. Spagnuolo also had a stint as defensive coordinator of the New Orleans Saints (2012) where he led a unit that finished with 15 interceptions, including four that were returned for touchdowns, and forced 11 fumbles to help the Saints finish with a plus-two turnover differential. Following New Orleans he spent two seasons on the defensive staff of the Baltimore Ravens, first as a senior defensive assistant (2013) and then as assistant head coach/secondary coach (2014).

Spagnuolo broke into the NFL under Kansas City Chiefs Head Coach Andy Reid when Reid held the same position with the Philadelphia Eagles (1999-2012). Spagnuolo spent eight seasons (1999-2006) working on the defensive coaching staff in Philadelphia under the late Jim Johnson, holding the positions of defensive assistant/quality control coach (1999-2000), defensive backs coach (2001-03) and linebackers coach (2004-06). While with the Eagles, Spagnuolo was part of four-consecutive NFC East titles, reached four-straight conference title games and earned a Super Bowl appearance following the 2004 season.

A native of Whitinsville, Massachusetts, he attended Grafton (Mass.) High School, where he is a member of the school's Athletic Hall of Fame. He earned a bachelor's degree in physical education from Springfield College (Springfield, Mass.), where he was a two-year starter at wide receiver. He earned a master's degree in sports management from the University of Massachusetts.

Spagnuolo and his wife, Maria, have a passion for philanthropy and maintain a strong commitment to giving back to both their Philadelphia and Kansas City communities. The Spagnuolos have a particular passion for supporting underprivileged youth and annually support causes that provide physical and emotional aid to youth and people with disabilities, including the Northern Children Home (Philadelphia), Inglis House (Philadelphia) and the Salvation Army (Kansas City and Philadelphia).

Louie ADDAZIO

Defensive Quality Control

Louis Addazio joins the Chiefs for his second season with the club in 2025 as a defensive quality control coach. This season marks his second in the NFL.

In 2024, Addazio worked closely with Defensive Coordinator Steve Spagnuolo to assist the defense. The defense was dominant on all fronts and in many categories in the league: fourth in points allowed per game (19.2), eighth in rushing yards allowed per game (101.8) and ninth in total net yards allowed per game (320.6). With Addazio's guidance, the Chiefs made it to their third-straight Super Bowl appearance (LVII, LVIII and LIX) which included back-to-back titles (LVII and LVIII).

Addazio joins the Chiefs after two seasons (2022-23) at Texas A&M University as an offensive line analyst. While at Texas A&M he assisted in coordinating the run game plan for the 2022 and 2023 seasons. In 2023, he coached freshman All-American OL Chase Bisontis, while in 2022 he coached LT Trey Zuhn to Mid-Season Freshman All-American. In his time with the Aggies, he coached four freshman All-Americans, two freshman All-SEC players and one All-SEC first-team selectee. With Addazio's assistance, the 2023 offensive line allowed 2.0 or fewer sacks in nine games and the 2022 squad allowed just 25.0 sacks all season. Among his coaching responsibilities, he directed recruiting efforts in nine states and secured commitments from three of the nation's top 10 offensive linemen for the 2024 class.

Prior to his two seasons at Texas A&M, Addazio spent two seasons at Colorado State (2020-21) as the offensive line coach working with players and game planning the run game each week. While in Fort Collins, he coached OL Elijah Johnson (2020), OL Cam Reddy (2020-21) and OL Barry Wesley (2020-21) to All-Mountain West honors. In addition to his coaching duties, he oversaw recruiting efforts for several east coast states. He spent one season at Bowling Green State (2019) as the tight ends coach where he coached current NFL TE Quintin Morris to an All-MAC selection. He also assisted in the teams' recruiting efforts.

Addazio got his first coaching experience at the Ohio State University as a graduate assistant for the offensive line while earning his master's degree in sports coaching (2017-18). Prior to his time as a graduate assistant, he interned with the coaching staff for one year (2016). Addazio played tight end for Boston College for three seasons (2013-15) after spending two seasons as a tight end at Syracuse (2011-12). While at Boston College, Addazio was the recipient of the 2015 Gridiron Club award which is given annually to the student-athlete who displays the determination, enthusiasm and spirit expected from a Boston College football player.

Joe BLEYMAIER

Pass Game Coordinator

Education: University of Delaware (B.A. 2005); Marquette University (J.D. 2009)
Born: Boise, Idaho
Family: Wife - Stephanie; Son - Calvin; Daughter - Hayden

Joe Bleymaier enters his 10th season with the Chiefs and in the NFL in 2025. This season marks his third as the team's pass game coordinator. His time with the club has also included two seasons as the wide receivers coach (2021-22), three seasons as the pass game analyst/assistant quarterbacks coach (2018-20) and two seasons as an offensive quality control coach (2016-17).

Bleymaier again worked closely with the wide receivers in 2024 as the Chiefs recorded a franchise record 15-2 season en route to their third-straight Super Bowl appearance. Bleymaier's coaching helped rookie WR Xavier Worthy emerge as the offense's top receiver reporting 59 receptions for 638 yards for six touchdowns. Worthy was second only to TE Travis Kelce who led the team for a third-straight season (2022-24) with 97 receptions for 823 yards and three touchdowns. Despite losing several key pass catchers to injuries, Mahomes still hit several milestones himself while maintaining his highest career completion percentage (67.5%). Mahomes also passed PFHOF QB Len Dawson for the most passing yards in franchise history (28,715) as well as most passing touchdowns (238) while also claiming the most wins in a quarterback's first 100 starts (77 wins, 99 starts), besting QB Tom Brady and PFHOF Roger Staubach.

In 2023, Bleymaier worked closely with the wide receivers as the pass game coordinator helping to develop an offense with another year of high productivity. With Bleymaier's guidance, the offensive passing game was again top five in several categories including red zone passing touchdowns (25, 2nd), completions (421, 3rd) and passing first downs (216, 5th). The Chiefs offense and QB Patrick Mahomes had the third-most completions in team history with 421, short of only the 2021 (448) and 2022 (435) offensive units. Bleymaier's guidance in the passing game helped Mahomes reach his third Super Bowl MVP performance in his career after going 34-for-46 for 333 yards and two touchdowns en route to the team's Super Bowl LVIII victory – back-to-back Super Bowl victories for the Chiefs (LVII and LVIII). TE Travis Kelce and rookie WR Rashee Rice led the receiving charge with 984 and 938 yards, respectively and the two combined for 12 regular season receiving touchdowns (Rice, seven; Kelce, five). Rice broke the team's rookie record for receptions (79) and receiving touchdowns (seven), earning him the Mack Lee Hill award (101 Awards) as voted on by his teammates.

As the club's wide receivers coach in 2022, Bleymaier was tasked with developing a new group of receiver talent with newcomer WRs Marquez Valdes-Scantling, JuJu Smith-Schuster, Kadarius Toney, Justin Watson and rookie Skyy Moore. Chemistry was quickly developed between the Chiefs QB Patrick Mahomes, the newcomers and returning WR Mecole Hardman, who played in just eight games due to injury but managed to score four TDs. Mahomes found 11 different receivers throughout the season, the second most in the league, producing a historic passing performance in which they led the league in receiving yards (5,250), touchdowns (41), passing first downs (272), passes of 25+ yards (49) and points per game (29.2). Smith-Schuster led the receiver group with 78 receptions for 933 yards and three trips to the end zone.

In 2021, Bleymaier led one of the most explosive passing games in the NFL with Mahomes at the helm. Bleymaier assisted the Chiefs offense to rank fourth in net passing yards per game (281.8) and third in net yards per game (396.8). WR Tyreek Hill recorded 1,239 receiving yards, ranking seventh in the NFL, en route to his sixth Pro Bowl selection.

In 2020, the Chiefs offense ranked first in the league in passing yards per game (303.4) and net passing yards (4,854), third in average gain per pass play (7.48) and tied for third in passing touchdowns (40). As assistant quarterbacks coach, Bleymaier aided Mahomes to his third-straight Pro Bowl (2018-2020), and an AP All-Pro (second-team) selection after Mahomes threw for 4,740 yards and 38 passing touchdowns.

In 2019, Bleymaier emphasized the passing game and worked closely with Mahomes to help the Chiefs passing game rank fifth in passing yards per game (281.1) and second in average gain per pass play (7.48). In the fourth quarter of Super Bowl LIV the payoff was clear as Mahomes and the offense rallied to score 21 points, coming back from a 10-point deficit to defeat the 49ers.

In 2018, Bleymaier worked with a Chiefs offense that featured the NFL MVP QB Mahomes, as he threw for 5,097 yards and 50 touchdowns, which was only the second time in NFL history that a player has thrown for 5,000 yards and 50 touchdowns.

Prior to his time at Colorado where he served as an offensive quality control coach (2013-15), Bleymaier spent two seasons as the assistant coach at Wauwatosa East High School in Milwaukee, Wis., while he was attending law school (2006-07).

Additionally, Bleymaier spent three summers as a football operations intern with Andy Reid and the Philadelphia Eagles (2007-09) while Reid was the Head Coach and Executive Vice President of Football Operations in Philadelphia.

Bleymaier was a four-year letterman as a wide receiver at Delaware (2002-05), where he hauled in 74 career receptions for 864 yards (11.7 avg.) with 11 total offensive touchdowns. In his sophomore season, Bleymaier was a member of the Blue Hens 15-1, I-AA National Championship team.

Joe CULLEN
Defensive Line

Education: University of Massachusetts Amherst (1990)
Born: Quincy, Mass.
Family: Wife - Andrea; Daughters - Julia, Justina, and Jenna

Joe Cullen returns for his fourth season as defensive line coach for the Kansas City Chiefs in 2025, marking his 19th year in the National Football League.

Cullen coached in his third-straight Super Bowl with the club in 2024 (LVII, LVIII and LIX) and recorded a franchise-best 15-2 regular season record. Cullen's defensive front was led by DT Chris Jones and DE George Karlaftis. Karlaftis had a standout year with 28 quarterback hits, 8.0 sacks, nine tackles for loss and five passes defensed. Jones' play earned him his sixth Pro Bowl nomination and third AP All-Pro selection (first-team) after posting 5.0 sacks along with 20 quarterback hits and nine tackles for loss.

In 2023, the defensive line helped lead the charge to back-to-back Super Bowl titles for Cullen and the Chiefs (LVII and LVIII). Cullen again had a top performing defensive line which was highlighted by DT Chris Jones and DE George Karlaftis. Jones recorded his second-consecutive season with double-digit sacks with 10.5 (-71.5 yards) with four passes defensed, 29 quarterback pressures and 13 tackles for loss. Jones was voted by his teammates to be a playoff captain for the second-straight year, earned an AP All-Pro team (first-team) selection and was selected to his fifth Pro Bowl. In just his second year, Karlaftis recorded 10.5 sacks (-55.5 yards). In total, the defensive line had the second-most sacks in the league for a second-straight year with 57.0 (-351.0 yards) and the second-most in a single season in Chiefs history. With Cullen's direction, the defense allowed the fewest second half points in the league (126), including three second half shutouts and allowed no more than 27 points in a game in both the regular season and postseason.

In his first year with the club, Cullen made an immediate impact on the organization, coaching the 2022 defensive line as a component of a top producing defense. In 2022, the Chiefs defense ranked in the top 10 in many categories: first in QB hits (198), second in sacks (55.0 sacks, -388 yards), second in QB pressures (241), fifth in rushing plays of 20+ yards (seven) and eighth in rushing yards allowed (107.2). The defensive line's success culminated in the Super Bowl LVII victory where they held a highly regarded Eagles run game to just 28 rushing yards in the second half. Cullen mentored veteran DT Chris Jones to another Pro Bowl season with 15.5 sacks, tying his career-high (2018). Jones was the AFC Defensive Player of the Year (101 Awards), selected to AP All-Pro (first-team) and voted by his teammates to be a playoff captain. Fellow 2022 Pro Bowler DE Frank Clark brought his postseason sack total to 13.5 en route to Super Bowl LVII, which ranked him third all-time in the NFL. Cullen quickly developed rookie DE George Karlaftis who started all 17 regular season games and recorded 6.0 sacks, 11 quarterback pressures and seven passes defensed. His 6.0 sacks were the fifth most for a rookie in franchise history.

In 2021, Cullen served as the defensive coordinator with the Jacksonville Jaguars. Cullen helped lead the defense to improvements in all major categories, including yards per game allowed, points per game allowed, yards per carry allowed and passing yards per game. Jacksonville's sack total improved from 18.0 to 32.0 in one season with Cullen leading the defense. Under his tutelage, DE Josh Allen led the defensive line in total tackles with 71, four passes defensed and 7.5 sacks.

The 2021 season marked his second stint with the Jaguars after spending three seasons (2010-12) as their defensive line coach where he assisted the Jaguars to a No. 6 finish in the NFL in yards allowed (313.0 ypg) in 2011.

Prior to arriving in Jacksonville the second time, Cullen spent five seasons as the defensive line coach in Baltimore (2016-20). In 2020, Baltimore allowed the NFL's second-fewest points (18.9) and seventh-fewest yards (329.8) per game. The Ravens also owned the No. 2 third-down defense (34.0 pct.) and produced a league-high 25 forced fumbles. That season, Cullen oversaw DT Calais Campbell to his sixth Pro Bowl selection, as well as LB Matt Judon to his third-straight Pro Bowl (2018-20). In 2019, the Ravens finished with the NFL's No. 4 defense (300.6 ypg) and allowed the third-fewest points per game (17.6). In 2018, Baltimore boasted the league's top-ranked defense (292.9 ypg) and permitted the league's second-fewest points per game (17.9), en route to winning the AFC North title. That season, Cullen tutored DT Brandon Williams to his first Pro Bowl selection. In 2017, Cullen led Baltimore's defensive line, which was part of a defensive unit that led the league in takeaways (34) and finished tied for 11th with 41.0 sacks, including 11.0 sacks coming from DE Terrell Suggs en route to his seventh Pro Bowl selection. The Ravens defense ranked sixth in points allowed (18.9 ppg).

Cullen spent two seasons (2014-15) as the defensive line coach of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. Over those two seasons, the Bucs ranked fifth in tackles for loss (173), totaled 74.0 sacks and allowed just 4.9 yards after catch per reception, which tied for second in the NFL. He tutored DT Gerald McCoy to back-to-back Pro Bowl selections.

In 2013, Cullen helped guide one of the best defensive turnarounds in team history as the Cleveland Browns finished ninth in total defense (332.4 ypg) after ranking 23rd the previous season.

In 2009, Cullen left the NFL to be the defensive line coach at Idaho State. His first NFL coaching job came in 2006 where he was the defensive line coach for the Detroit Lions for three seasons (2006-08). Under Cullen, four different Lions players recorded career-high sack numbers, including DT Shaun Rogers (7.0 in 2007) and DE Cory Redding (8.0 in 2006).

Prior to his time as an NFL coach, Cullen was a defensive assistant at Illinois in 2005. He spent two seasons (2002-03) with Indiana University as their defensive line coach, before transitioning to their defensive coordinator in 2004. Cullen spent four seasons (1992-96) with the University of Richmond as their defensive line coach before becoming their defensive coordinator (1997-98). After doing a year at Louisiana State University (1999) as their defensive line coach, he returned to Richmond to be their defensive coordinator in 2000.

In college at the University of Massachusetts Amherst, Cullen was a four-year starting nose tackle. He was a three-time All-Yankee Conference selection and was the Minutemen's team MVP in 1989. He graduated in 1990 with a bachelor's degree in sports management. He got his first collegiate coaching job at his alma mater, where he started as a graduate assistant there before becoming a position coach.

Brendan
DALY
Linebackers

Education: Drake University (1997)
Born: Chicago, Ill.
Family: Wife - Keely. Son - Liam and Daughters - Ciara and Avelin.

Brendan Daly begins his seventh season with the Kansas City Chiefs in 2025 and his 20th season in the league. He spent his first four seasons in Kansas City coaching the defensive line. In 2022, he transitioned to linebackers coach.

In 2024, Daly coached the linebackers to another successful year en route to the club's third-straight Super Bowl appearance (LVII, LVIII and LIX), ultimately falling to the Philadelphia Eagles after posting a franchise-best 15-2 regular season record. Daly's unit was highlighted by elite tackling with two of the defense's top three tackle leaders coming from Daly's room. LB Nick Bolton led the defense with 106 tackles (73 solo) and added 3.0 sacks, 11 tackles for loss and six passes defensed. LB Drue Tranquill was close behind with 94 tackles (54 solo), 2.0 sacks, nine quarterback hits and four tackles for loss. Daly also continued to develop LB Leo Chenal who had a standout season with 53 tackles (35 solo), 1.0 sack, three forced fumbles, three passes defensed and four tackles for loss.

Daly's linebackers unit had one of its most impactful years in 2023, helping the club to their second-straight Super Bowl title (LVII and LVIII). Daly's unit helped the defense to allow no more than 27 points the entire season (including postseason) and allowed the fewest second-half points league wide (126) with three second-half shutouts. LB Nick Bolton again was a dominant force. Despite playing in just eight regular season games due to injury, Bolton was the defense's fifth-leading tackler with 60 tackles (38 solo) and was the leading tackler in Super Bowl LVIII with 13 (five solo). Daly welcomed LB Drue Tranquill to the unit and tutored him to the third-most tackles on the defense with 79 (54 solo). Tranquill had the most sacks of any non-defensive line position with 4.5 (-19.0 yards) and added seven quarterback hits, seven tackles for loss and two forced fumbles, putting the exclamation point on his first year as a member of the Chiefs. Daly continued to develop second year LB Leo Chenal who made big plays in key moments, adding 3.0 sacks himself (-17.0 yards) with 57 tackles (22 solo). LB Willie Gay and LB Nick Bolton both added an interception to their seasons.

In his first year as linebackers coach in 2022, Daly helped further develop second-year LB Nick Bolton. Bolton took over as the team's defensive green dot and went on to lead the team in tackles and break the Chiefs single season tackle record with 180 tackles. Under Daly's direction, Bolton recorded nine games with 10+ tackles, the most 10+ tackle games in a single season in team history. Bolton highlighted his historic season with a fumble recovery in Super Bowl LVII that he took 36-yards to the house to tie the Chiefs and Eagles 14-14 in the eventual Chiefs victory. He was voted by his teammates to be a playoff captain. LB Willie Gay ranked third on the team with 88 tackles (51 solo). Gay notched career highs in sacks (2.5), passes defensed (eight) and quarterback hits (four). With Daly's guidance, rookie LB Leo Chenal also developed throughout the year playing in all 17 games (eight starts) and logged 29 tackles (16 solo), three quarterback hits and three tackles for loss. Bolton and Gay also accounted for three of the team's 11 interceptions in the regular season (Bolton - 2; Gay - 1).

In his third year with the Chiefs, Daly oversaw a defensive line led by DT Chris Jones and DE Frank Clark. Jones led the team in sacks with 9.0 en route to his third Pro Bowl selection. Clark ranked second on the team with 4.5 sacks. Both DE Mike Danna and DT Derrick Nnadi posted career highs in sacks during the 2021 season with 3.0 each. Under Daly's direction, the Chiefs defensive line tied for eighth in quarterback hurries.

In 2020, Daly led the Chiefs defensive front featuring Pro Bowlers Jones and Clark who were ranked first and second on the team in sacks with 7.5 and 6.0, respectively helping them reach their second-consecutive Super Bowl appearance. Jones was named to the AP All-Pro (second-team) and the Pro Bowl for the second time in his career.

In his first season with the Chiefs in 2019, Daly oversaw a defensive line unit who ranked first in the NFL in passes defensed with 16. During Week 7, the Chiefs defense tallied 9.0 sacks against the Denver Broncos with 5.0 of the 9.0 sacks coming from the defensive line (DE Alex Okafor - 2.0; Clark - 2.0 & DE Emmanuel Ogbah - 1.0). Daly helped Jones and Clark to their first Pro Bowl nominations.

Daly spent four seasons as the defensive line coach (2015-18) for the New England Patriots. In those four seasons, his defensive line was a part of a defense that was top 10 in stopping the run. He was hired in New England in 2014 as a defensive coaching assistant before being promoted to defensive line coach in 2015.

Before his time with the Patriots, Daly had two stints with the Minnesota Vikings as a defensive assistant/defensive line coach (2006-08) and defensive line coach (2012-13) and made the playoffs two times (2008, 2012). During his first tenure, the Vikings became the first team in NFL history to lead the league in rushing defense for three consecutive seasons (2006-08), holding opponents to under 75 yards rushing per game.

Daly also spent three seasons (2009-11) with Chiefs Defensive Coordinator and then-Rams Head Coach Steve Spagnuolo as the defensive line coach in St. Louis. In 2011, he coached DE Chris Long to a career-best 13.0 sacks. Under Daly's leadership in 2010, the Rams had 43.0 sacks as a team, which ranked seventh-most in the NFL.

Before breaking into the NFL ranks, Daly had multiple stops at the collegiate level (1998-05). He was the defensive line coach at Villanova in 2005 and the tight ends coach at Illinois State in 2004. He was an assistant strength and conditioning coach at Oklahoma State in 2003 after serving as a graduate assistant from 2001-02. Mark
DELEONE
Assistant
Running Backs

Education: University of Iowa (B.A. 2009)
Born: Syracuse, N.Y.
Family: Wife - Molly; Sons – Rafael, Salvator and Lorenzo.

Mark DeLeone returns to Kansas City for his seventh campaign and first as assistant running backs coach. DeLeone held various titles during his first stint with Kansas City, including inside linebackers coach (2018), assistant linebackers coach (2015-17) and defensive quality control coach (2013-14). Prior to joining the Chiefs, DeLeone spent one season as the New York Jets (2012) defensive assistant under former Chiefs defensive coordinator Bob Sutton. DeLeone's time in Kansas City is highlighted by tutoring linebackers to a Pro Bowl berth in his first four seasons with the Chiefs.

DeLeone spent the 2024 season with the Baltimore Ravens, where he coached the inside linebackers. LB Roquan Smith (154) and LB Trenton Simpson (70) both ranked top-three in tackles for the Ravens defensive unit. Smith's 154 tackles tied for the fourth-most in the NFL last season. Smith was a first-team All-Pro and a leader in Pro Bowl voting.

DeLeone served as a defensive analyst for the University of Kansas for the 2022 and 2023 seasons. In 2022, Kansas tallied six wins, which is four more than the season prior and fell short in a triple overtime thriller against Arkansas in the AutoZone Liberty Bowl. In 2023, KU continued to build on that success, tallying nine wins the next season and defeated UNLV in the Guaranteed Rate Bowl.

In 2021, DeLeone oversaw the Lions' inside linebackers. Under DeLeone's leadership, LB Jalen Reeves-Maybin had a career year recording 72 tackles (46 solo), four tackles for loss, four passes defensed, two forced fumbles, one quarterback hit and one fumble recovery. In just 14 games, LB Alex Anzalone recorded 78 tackles (49 solo) which ranked third on the Lions defense.

DeLeone left Kansas City after the 2018 season to join then-head coach Matt Nagy and the Chicago Bears as the inside linebackers coach and spent two seasons (2019-20) there. LB Roquan Smith recorded 239 total tackles (100 in 2019; 139 in 2020) and emerged as one of the best linebackers in the league. His 239 tackles tied for the 10th-most in that time span. Smith's 139 tackles in 2020 ranked sixth among all defenders in the 2020 season. DeLeone also helped LB Danny Trevathan record a career-high 113 tackles (67 solo).

Since 2013, DeLeone tutored veteran LB Derrick Johnson as he became the franchise tackles leader, compiling 1,262 tackles (993 solo). He also worked with second-year LB Reggie Ragland as he continued to see more action following his arrival to the team in 2017, starting 10 of the 12 games he played in. In 2015, DeLeone's third season with the Chiefs, LBs Tamba Hali, Justin Houston and Derrick Johnson all earn Pro Bowl berths, just the third time in franchise history that three Chiefs linebackers were selected to the NFL's all-star game, with all three occurrences being held by Hali, Houston and Johnson.

In his second season, Houston broke the team's franchise record for sacks with 22.0, topping Derrick Thomas' previous record of 20.0 sacks in a single season. Houston's performance led to him being named the Derrick Thomas award winner as the team's MVP. LB Josh Mauga also led the defense with 103 tackles (82 solo) in 2014.

Prior to entering the NFL coaching ranks with the Jets in 2012, DeLeone served as a graduate assistant at Temple University during 2011. He also served as a quality control coach at the University of Florida in 2010, working on head coach Urban Meyer's staff. He worked with the wide receivers in the spring, and then moved on and worked with the offensive line and tight ends in the fall. During that season, the Gators produced seven All-SEC performers en route to their Outback Bowl victory.

In 2009, he held the titles of director of football operations and assistant offensive line coach at the University of New Hampshire. In that season, the Wildcats went 10-3 en route to the Colonial Athletic Association North Championship and a quarterfinal showing in the Football Championship Subdivision playoffs.

He began his collegiate coaching career at the University of Iowa, where he was a defensive student assistant for Head Coach Kirk Ferentz and the Hawkeyes staff (2007-08). In 2007, he worked with the linebackers and switched to the defensive line in 2008. While with the Hawkeyes, Iowa won the 2009 Outback Bowl and produced 14 All-Big Ten selections and 22 NFL players.

DeLeone worked with two 2011 first-round NFL Draft picks in OL Mike Pouncey (Florida) and Adrian Clayborn (Iowa) during his time in the collegiate coaching ranks.

A 2009 graduate of the University of Iowa, DeLeone earned a bachelor's degree in liberal arts and sciences.

ELLET
Assistant Special Teams

Education: Brigham Young University (B.S. 2014); Baylor University (M.S. Sports Management)
Born: Loa, Utah
Family: Wife - Carlie; Children - Porter Brigham, Griffin Kole and Piper Joan

Porter Ellett enters his ninth season with the Chiefs and first as the assistant special teams coach in 2025. Prior to his promotion, Ellett spent two seasons as the assistant running backs coach (2023-24) and three seasons as an offensive quality control coach (2020-22) after serving three seasons as the senior assistant to the head coach (2017-19).

In 2024, Ellett continued to help with the running backs unit led by RB Kareem Hunt. After joining the team in Week 4, Hunt ended the regular season as the team's leading rusher with 728 rushing yards on 200 attempts and seven touchdowns. Hunt scored five of his touchdowns in four consecutive weeks which ranks third most in Chiefs history for rushing touchdowns in consecutive games. Alongside Ellett's guidance, Hunt and RB Isiah Pacheco played key roles in leading the Chiefs to their third-straight Super Bowl appearance (LVII, LVIII and LIX).

Ellett worked closely with Running Backs Coach Todd Pinkston in 2023, guiding RB Isiah Pacheco to a strong second-year performance. Pacheco led the team's rushing charge with 205 rushes for 935 yards and seven touchdowns, besting his rookie numbers in all three categories. Pacheco also recorded three games with 100+ rushing yards (Weeks 4, 13 and 17). With Ellett's assistance, the rushing attack by Pacheco and veteran RBs Jerick McKinnon and Clyde Edwards-Helaire helped earn the Chiefs a second-consecutive Super Bowl title (LVII and LVIII).

In 2022, Ellett worked closely with the tight ends, running backs and QB Patrick Mahomes. The Chiefs offense led the league in many categories: yards per game (413.6), points per game (29.2), passing yards (5,250), passing touchdowns (41), passing first downs (272) and pass plays of 25+ yards (49). Ellett assisted with the development of rookie RB Isiah Pacheco who went on to rush for 830 yards and five touchdowns and TE Travis Kelce recorded his seventh-consecutive 1,000-yard season, passing former TE Rob Gronkowski in career receiving yards with 10,344. With Ellett's assistance, Mahomes completed 435 of his 648 passes for a 67.1 completion percentage, as he set franchise records for passing yards (5,250) and single-season passing first downs (272). Mahomes' 2022 performance earned him his second NFL MVP and Super Bowl MVP after the Chiefs beat the Eagles 38-35 in Super Bowl LVII.

For the 2021 season, Ellett continued to work closely with the tight end group. Kelce recorded his sixth-consecutive 1,000-yard season, extending his NFL record for tight ends. Kelce recorded two game-winning touchdowns in overtime in 2021, his first coming against the Chargers in LA and second in the Divisional Round Game against Buffalo. Following the season, Kelce earned his seventh Pro Bowl nomination.

In 2020, Ellett worked with an offense that finished first in total net yards per game (415.8) and passing yards per game (303.4). He also assisted with the tight ends group which featured first-team AP All-Pro, PFWA All-NFL and Pro Bowler Kelce who recorded over 1,000 receiving yards for the fifth-consecutive season, extending his previously established NFL record for tight ends. He became the first tight end in NFL history with multiple seasons of 100+ receptions in his career (2018 and 2020), while his 1,416 receiving yards were the most-ever by a tight end in NFL history, passing 49ers TE George Kittle's previous record of 1,377 yards set in 2018.

During his time as senior assistant to the head coach (2017-19), Ellett worked closely with Head Coach Andy Reid and Offensive Coordinator Eric Bieniemy organizing the day-to-day operations of the team, player and staff communications with the head coach and the football calendar. In this role, Ellett also assisted with the development of the quarterbacks.

Prior to his arrival, Ellett served as a graduate assistant at SMG McLane Stadium at Baylor University while pursuing his Masters of Sport Management. While completing his undergraduate degree at Brigham Young University, he served as an equipment room attendant for the football team.

Outside of athletics, Ellett has a long history of service work under his belt. Since 2007, he has partnered with Coolspeak as a motivational speaker and facilitator, delivering over 1,000 keynotes across the country.

Additionally, Ellett owns Camp Overcome, a youth development program that implements positive attitudes through sports. When he isn't volunteering, Ellett trains and competes in Paralympic swimming and triathlons.

EMBREE
Wide Receivers

Education: University of Kansas (B.S. 2013)
Born: Superior, Colorado
Family: Wife – Alex; Son - Hudson

Connor Embree returns for his seventh season with the Chiefs and third as the team's wide receivers coach in 2025. Prior to taking over the wide receivers room, he spent two seasons as an offensive quality control coach (2021-22) and two seasons as a defensive assistant (2019-20). Embree has coached in five Super Bowls in six seasons (LIV, LV, LVII, LVIII and LIX), coming away with three victories (LIV, LVII and LVIII), including back-to-back wins in Super Bowl LVII and LVIII and three-straight appearances (LVII, LVIII and LIX).

Embree again was at the helm of the receivers room in 2024 and quickly developed another rookie wide receiver with Xavier Worthy. Worthy emerged as a leading target for QB Patrick Mahomes and was the second leading pass catcher with 59 catches for 638 yards and six touchdowns. Faced with injuries to the wide receiver room, WR DeAndre Hopkins was acquired via trade with the Tennessee Titans. Hopkins, a five-time Pro Bowler and in his 12th year, joined the Chiefs in Week 8 and under Embree's guidance, recorded 41 receptions for 437 yards and four touchdowns.

In 2023, Embree marked his first year as wide receivers coach. With Embree's leadership, the offense was top five in several categories including red zone passing touchdowns (25, 2nd), receptions (421, 3rd) and passing first downs (216, 5th). Embree had the task of developing rookie WR Rashee Rice, who went on to be the offense's leading receiver and trailed only TE Travis Kelce in receptions and yardage. Rice totaled 79 receptions for 938 yards and seven regular season touchdowns – the most on the team. His receptions and receiving touchdowns were both Chiefs rookie records, earning him the Mack Lee Hill award for being the most outstanding rookie or first-year player as voted on by his teammates. Rice showed steady development throughout the season, coming up big in the final games of the regular season with two 100+ receiving yard games after Week 11 and one in the postseason (Wild Card vs. Miami). WR Justin Watson also had a career year with 27 catches for 460 yards and three touchdowns. WR Mecole Hardman returned to the Chiefs sideline after being acquired via trade with the New York Jets. Hardman came up big in Super Bowl LVIII with three catches for 57 yards including the three-yard touchdown reception from QB Patrick Mahomes that secured the 25-22 victory in overtime.

Embree again worked closely with the wide receiver corps in 2022 as an offensive quality control coach assisting an offense that led the league in receiving yards (5,250), touchdowns (41) passing first downs (272), receptions of 25+ yards (49) and points per game (29.2). Embree helped develop a new group of veteran receivers (JuJu Smith-Schuster, Kadarius Toney, Marquez Valdes-Scantling and Justin Watson) who accounted for over 20 percent of the Chiefs receiving touchdowns. Smith-Schuster led the team's wide receiver group with 78 receptions for 933 yards and three trips to the end zone.

In 2021, Embree worked primarily with the wide receivers group. WR Tyreek Hill recorded a then career high 111 receptions for 1,239 yards en route to his sixth Pro Bowl nomination. WR Mecole Hardman ranked third on the team, recording career highs in catches (59) and yards (693).

In 2020, Embree primarily worked with the defensive backs who featured AP All-Pro S Tyrann Mathieu who led all safeties in the NFL with six interceptions and rookie CB L'Jarius Sneed who showed a lot of potential in the nine games he saw action (six starts). He snagged three interceptions, 2.0 sacks (-19.0 yards) and seven passes defensed.

In his first season with the Chiefs (2019), Embree primarily worked with a linebacking group that accounted for 5.5 sacks and 275 tackles in his role as a defensive assistant. LB Anthony Hitchens led the team in tackles with 88 and was responsible for 2.0 of the unit's 5.5 sacks.

Before jumping to the professional ranks, he spent two seasons on Coach David Beaty's staff at the University of Kansas as a graduate assistant where he gained experience working with the offense and special teams.

He also spent time in the high school ranks as the offensive coordinator at Blue Valley West High School and as the wide receivers coach at Fairview High School.

Embree played wide receiver for the Kansas Jayhawks (2011-13). He also spent one season at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (2010).

GIRARDI
Quarterbacks

Education: Geneva College (B.S. 2011), Seton Hill (M.B.A. 2013), Northwestern (M.S.A. 2016)
Born: New Kensington, Pa.
Family: Wife - Kristen; Son – Joseph, Daughter - Giada

David Girardi enters his eighth season with the Chiefs and third season as the Chiefs quarterbacks coach in 2025. Girardi has worked with the offense since QB Patrick Mahomes' first season as a starter (2018). Prior to his promotion he spent two seasons as the pass game analyst/assistant quarterbacks coach (2021-22) and three seasons as the offensive quality control coach (2018-20).

Girardi again helped QB Patrick Mahomes and the Chiefs to another Super Bowl appearance, the club's third-straight (LVII, LVIII and LIX). Girardi has now coached in five Super Bowls in six years, coming away with three rings (LIV, LVII and LVIII). Mahomes' season was highlighted by several milestones including his 100th start. With 77 wins in just 99 starts, Mahomes surpassed QB Tom Brady and PFHOF QB Roger Staubach for the most wins in a quarterback's first 100 starts. Mahomes also surpassed PFHOF QB Len Dawson for the team's most passing yards (28,715) and touchdown passes (238). With Girardi's leadership, Mahomes maintained his highest career completion percentage (67.5%), despite facing injuries amongst his pass catchers. Mahomes quickly found chemistry with rookie WR Xavier Worthy who went on to record 59 receptions for 638 yards and six touchdowns, the most touchdowns on the team. Mahomes also quickly connected with WR DeAndre Hopkins who the team acquired via trade with the Tennessee Titans in Week 8. Hopkins and Mahomes connected on 41 catches for 437 yards and four touchdowns.

In 2023, Girardi led QB Patrick Mahomes to another standout season en route to back-to-back Super Bowl victories (LVII and LVIII) and his fourth Super Bowl appearance in five years (2019-23), coming away with three victories (LIV, LVII and LVIII). Mahomes and the offense were top five in several categories including red zone passing touchdowns (25, 2nd), completions (401, 3rd) and passing first downs (206, 5th). Mahomes recorded his sixth-consecutive season of 4,000+ passing yards (4,183), tying him with former QB Tom Brady and PFHOF QB Peyton Manning for the sixth-longest streak of such kind. With Girardi's leadership, Mahomes had another historic postseason run, playing on the road for the first time in his career in both the Divisional Round and AFC Championship Game before an eventual 25-22 overtime victory against the 49ers in Super Bowl LVIII. His Super Bowl LVIII performance earned him his third career Super Bowl MVP honors (LIV, LVII and LVIII). Mahomes had his fourth postseason campaign with a passer rating greater than 100.0 and recorded 104 completions - the most in his postseason career - for 1,051 yards and six touchdowns. Mahomes was honored with the Derrick Thomas Award (101 Committee) as voted on by his teammates, as well as his sixth Pro Bowl selection. Girardi also tutored newcomer backup QB Blaine Gabbert who saw action in two games this season.

In 2022, Girardi assisted the quarterbacks room with a focus on the pass game. He worked closely with Super Bowl MVP QB Mahomes en route to his second Super Bowl victory and another prolific season. The Chiefs offense led the league in yards per play (6.43), yards per game (413.6), points per game (29.2) and net passing yards per game (297.8). Mahomes led the league in many pass-game categories: passing yards (5,250), passing touchdowns (41), passing TD percentage (6.3%), passing first downs (272) and pass plays of 25+ yards (49) on his way to earning his second NFL MVP recognition. The sixth-year QB became one of four quarterbacks in NFL history (Tom Brady, Drew Brees and Peyton Manning) to have at least four seasons of 35 or more touchdown passes and more than 4,500 passing yards. He found 11 different receivers throughout the regular season, the second most in the league. Mahomes added his second league MVP ('18, '22) and Super Bowl MVP ('19, '22) honors to his resume along with the Derrick Thomas award and AFC Offensive Player of the Year (101 Awards). Mahomes was selected to his fifth Pro Bowl selection.

In 2021, Girardi helped the Chiefs offense win their sixth-straight division title and fourth-straight AFC Championship game appearance. He worked closely with the quarterbacks as Mahomes posted 4,839 yards and 37 touchdowns, completing 66.3 percent of his passes en route to his fourth Pro Bowl nomination.

In 2020, Girardi worked with a Chiefs offense that finished first in total net yards per game (415.8) and passing yards per game (303.4). He primarily worked with the wide receivers which featured first-team AP All-Pro and Pro Bowl WR Tyreek Hill. Hill finished the season tied for the most receiving touchdowns in a single season (15) in franchise history, adding two more on the ground.

In 2019, he primarily assisted the quarterbacks room helping the Chiefs offense finish in the top 10 in total yards per game (379.2), pass yards per game (281.1), yards per play (6.22) and total points scored (28.2). This offensive performance earned the Chiefs a Super Bowl LIV title.

Girardi joined the Chiefs as an offensive quality control coach in 2018. He worked closely with the quarterbacks and helped guide the Chiefs to their first ever home AFC Championship game. The Chiefs offense was number one in the NFL in points per game (35.3), yards per game (425.6) and yards per play (6.84) in 2018.

Prior to coming to Kansas City, Girardi spent the 2017 season as the quarterbacks coach at Lafayette College. During his time he coached a true freshman who went on to start 11 games and break the school record for completions.

Prior to Lafayette, he was a defensive graduate assistant at Northwestern University during the 2015-16 seasons, where he helped coach the secondary and ran the offensive scout team. He served as an offensive quality control coach during his initial season at Northwestern in 2014, assisting the offensive coordinator and quarterbacks coach.

During the 2013 season, Girardi served as an assistant football coach at Geneva College where he coached the quarterbacks. The Golden Tornadoes broke numerous single-game and single-season school passing records during his time in charge of the passing game. Before Geneva College, he spent two seasons (2011-12) at Seton Hill University as a graduate assistant, focusing on the defensive secondary.

Girardi played quarterback at Geneva College from 2007 to 2010 and was named an NCCAA All-American twice. He led his team to a Victory Bowl win in 2009 and was named captain twice (2009-10).

HECK
Offensive Line

Education: Notre Dame (B.A. 1989)
Born: Fargo, N.D.
Family: Wife - Jennifer; Children - Jonathan, Charlie, Molly and Evelyn

Andy Heck enters his 34th year in the NFL in 2025, including a 12-year career as an offensive lineman. He begins his 22nd season as an NFL coach and 13th leading the offensive line in Kansas City. For six-straight seasons (2018-23), Heck led offensive line units that allowed at least the top five fewest sacks through the regular season in the NFL (2018-23). Over the past six years (2019-24), Heck and his units have been to five Super Bowls, coming away with three rings (LIV, LVII and LVIII), including back-to-back wins (LVII and LVIII) and three straight appearances (LVII, LVIII and LIX.)

In 2024, Heck and his unit added rookie LT Kingsley Suamataia and continued their strong interior presence with C Creed Humphrey, G Trey Smith and G Joe Thuney. Thuney was selected to his third Pro Bowl in 2024 and earned AP All Pro (first-team) and PFW/PFWA All-NFL team selections after transitioning late in the regular season from RG to LT. Humphrey also earned an AP All Pro selection (first-team), his third Pro Bowl selection and a PFW/PFWA All-NFL Team selection. Smith earned his first Pro Bowl selection as well. In the 2024 postseason, the Chiefs offensive front gave up just 11.0 sacks, the second-fewest across the NFL playoffs.

Heck's unit had some new faces in 2023 with LT Donovan Smith and RT Jawaan Taylor joining the Chiefs. The line had consistency with C Creed Humphrey, G Trey Smith and G Joe Thuney all returning to the lineup. With Heck's leadership, there were just 28.0 allowed sacks, the second-fewest in the league. In the postseason, the offensive line allowed no sacks in the Wild Card and Divisional Round Games and just five through the AFC Championship game and Super Bowl LVIII. The offensive front led the way for the team's rushing attack, clearing the way for RB Isiah Pacheco's 935 yards on 205 attempts for seven rushing touchdowns. Pacheco totaled three 100+ yard rushing games (Weeks 4, 13 and 17). Humphrey and Thuney were both selected to the Pro Bowl while Thuney was also selected to the PFW/PFWA All-NFL Team and the AP All-Pro Team (first-team).

The 2022 season was a standout for Heck's line that culminated in the Chiefs third Super Bowl title. Behind Heck's front, the offense found rhythm leading the league in passing yards (5,250), yards per play (6.43), yards per game (413.6) and points per game (29.2). With Heck's assistance, the Chiefs offense was second in both third down percentage (48.7%) and red zone touchdown percentage (69.4%). Familiar faces returned in 2022 with C Creed Humphrey and G Trey Smith both back for their second seasons while T Orlando Brown and G Joe Thuney also returned to the squad. The chemistry was evident, as they allowed just 26.0 sacks through the regular season, the third fewest in the NFL, and allowed just 3.0 in the postseason. Heck's offensive front recorded six games with no sacks allowed, including Super Bowl LVII against an Eagles defense that led the league in sacks during the regular season. With help in the trenches, rookie RB Isiah Pacheco totaled the fifth most rushing yards in a Chiefs rookie campaign with 830 yards and five touchdowns. Humphrey, Brown and Thuney were all named to the 2022 Pro Bowl. Humphrey and Thuney were both selected to the AP All-Pro Team (second-team).

In 2021, Heck had an offensive line full of new faces, including T Orlando Brown, G Joe Thuney, G Kyle Long and C Austin Blythe, in addition to draft picks C Creed Humphrey and G Trey Smith. Rookies Humphrey and Smith started all 17 regular season games in 2021, becoming the 17th and 18th players in franchise history to start all regular season games in their rookie season. Humphrey and Smith are the third pair of teammates to both start all regular season games in their rookie campaign. The group ranked tied for third in the NFL allowing just 28.0 sacks all season. Following the season, Brown earned his third Pro Bowl selection.

In 2020, Heck led an offensive line that was marred by injuries, seeing 12 different starters at various positions along the line throughout the season while still ranking fifth in sacks allowed with 24.0. Chiefs T Eric Fisher was selected to his second-career Pro Bowl (2018), while enjoying one of the top seasons of his career. He was even able to get into the end zone, scoring on a two-yard pass from QB Patrick Mahomes, joining Mark Adickes and Joe Valerio as the only offensive linemen to catch touchdown passes in team history.

In 2019, Heck led an offensive line unit that finished third in the NFL in sacks allowed with 25.0 in the regular season. T Mitchell Schwartz started every game at RT, extending his streak of the most straight starts for an offensive tackle to 128. Schwartz was named second-team All-Pro at right tackle.

The 2018 season featured Heck's offensive line protecting NFL MVP QB Mahomes who threw for 5,097 yards and 50 touchdowns, which is only the second time in NFL history that a QB threw for 4,000+ yards and 25+ passing touchdowns. On the way to an AFC Championship berth, the offensive line only gave up 34.0 sacks (regular and post season), which ranked tied for sixth in the league. First-year OL Andrew Wylie was awarded the Mack Lee Hill Award, which is annually presented to the Chiefs' top rookie or first-year player in remembrance of the late Mack Lee Hill.

During the 2017 season, Heck coached seven different starting offensive linemen with six different combinations, paving the way for the running backs group to record a combined 1,903 yards. With Heck's leadership, rookie RB Kareem Hunt led the league with 1,327 rushing yards. QB Alex Smith threw for a career-high 4,042 and both Smith and Hunt made the Pro Bowl in 2017.

In 2016, the offensive line proved its versatility once again as eight different linemen filled a starting role throughout the season. Behind a Heck-coached offensive line, RB Spencer Ware had 921 rushing yards and three rushing touchdowns while RB Charcandrick West rushed for 293 yards and one touchdown.

In 2015, nine different offensive line combinations including eight different offensive linemen made up the starting lineup. Rookie Mitch Morse started all but one game at center, and Fisher solidified the left tackle spot during the club's 11-game winning streak.

During the 2014 season, the line helped RBs Jamaal Charles and Knile Davis carry the scoring load for the Chiefs. The two scored 22 of the Chiefs 40 total touchdowns, which ranked first among a pair of teammates across the NFL. Charles' 1,033 rushing yards in 2014 was his third consecutive year over 1,000 yards and second consecutive behind Heck's line.

In 2013, Heck led Kansas City's offensive line to help RB Jamaal Charles reach 1,287 rushing yards, enough for third-most in the NFL. T Branden Albert made his first appearance in the Pro Bowl under Heck's guidance.

Prior to joining the Chiefs staff, Heck served nine years on the Jacksonville Jaguars coaching staff as the assistant offensive line coach (2005) and offensive assistant/assistant offensive line coach (2004) before being promoted to offensive line coach (2006-12).

In 2011, Jacksonville's offensive line paved the way for RB Maurice Jones-Drew to rush for 1,606 yards to earn the NFL rushing title. In 2010, the Jaguars boasted the third-ranked rushing offense in the NFL, averaging 149.7 yards per game, including 4.7 yards per carry to rank fifth in the league.

In 2006 and 2007, the offensive line led the offense to the two highest single-season rushing totals in franchise history to date and two of the three lowest sack totals. The Jaguars set the single-season franchise record for rushing yards (2,541) in 2006 and allowed only 30.0 sacks, the second-fewest in team history.

Prior to Jacksonville, Heck served three seasons on the University of Virginia coaching staff, the first two seasons as a graduate assistant and the final year as tight ends coach. He tutored All-American TE Heath Miller, who set numerous Atlantic Coast Conference tight end records for receiving and scoring. Miller was a first-round pick of the Pittsburgh Steelers in 2005.

Heck played in the NFL for 12 seasons (1989-2000) as an offensive lineman. He finished his playing career with Washington, where he played for two seasons (1999-00). As the starting left tackle in 1999, he blocked for an offense that ranked second in the NFL. From 1994 to 1998, Heck was a five-year starter for the Chicago Bears. In 1995, he gave up no sacks as part of an offensive line that yielded the fewest sacks in the NFL (15.0). Heck was drafted in the first round (15th overall) by the Seattle Seahawks, where he was a unanimous All-Rookie selection in 1989. A starter for all five years with the Seahawks, he played three seasons without missing a snap.

A 1989 graduate of Notre Dame, Heck was a first-team All-American and a tri-captain of the 1988 national championship team that finished 12-0. He was a tight end for his first three seasons at Notre Dame before moving to tackle in spring drills in his senior season. Heck's son, Charlie, is a tackle in the NFL drafted in the fourth round (126thoverall) in the 2020 NFL Draft.

HOUSE
Senior Defensive Assistant

Education: Michigan State University (B.S. 2000)
Born: Harrison, Mich.
Family: Wife - Jessi. Children - Avery, Jackson, Jacob and Trent

Matt House returns to Kansas City for his first season as senior defensive assistant in 2025 after previously spending three seasons with the club (2019-21). Before his previous stint with the Chiefs, House served on the University of Kentucky staff for three seasons (2016-18), the latter two as defensive coordinator/inside linebackers coach.

In 2024, House led a linebacking unit for Jacksonville that was spearheaded by LB Devin Lloyd, who recorded a team-high 113 tackles and LB Foyesade Oluokun who also recorded 108 tackles which ranked second on the Jaguars defense. The pair also combined for 3.0 sacks, 11 passes defensed, six quarterback hits, 13 tackles for loss and one forced fumble.

House served as LSU's defensive coordinator/linebackers Coach for the 2022 and 2023 seasons. While at LSU, House's defensive unit ranked among the top half of the SEC in nearly every major defensive category in 2022.

In 2021, LBs Nick Bolton and Anthony Hitchens led the Kansas City defense with 192 combined tackles under House's leadership. LBs Willie Gay Jr. and Ben Niemann also had 45+ tackles on the season (Gay Jr.; 48 and Niemman; 52). Altogether, the unit recorded 1.5 sacks, 10 passes defensed and 18 tackles for loss.

In 2020, House led a linebacking group that accounted for 3.0 sacks and 245 tackles. LBs Anthony Hitchens (78) and Damien Wilson (70) ranked second and third on the team in total tackles for the season.

In 2019, House led a linebacker group that accounted for 5.5 sacks and 275 tackles. For the second-consecutive season LB Anthony Hitchens led the team in tackles tallying 88 in 2019.

House's defenses anchored a Kentucky team that reached three-straight bowl games for the first time since 2007-2009, and culminated in a 27-24 victory over Penn State in the 2019 Citrus Bowl. His 2018 defense ranked sixth in the country in scoring defense. In his first year with the Wildcats, House served as the special teams coordinator/inside linebackers coach. Under House's guidance, he led a pair of first-time starters at middle linebacker in Courtney Love and Jordan Jones. Together, the duo combined for 185 tackles and Jones earned second-team All-SEC honors.

House spent one season as the defensive coordinator at Florida International (2015) in which his defense limited four opponents to less than 14 points and finished the season ranked 16th nationally in red zone defense. House's defense boasted five players who earned all-conference honors and four would go on to sign NFL contracts.

Before his time in Lexington and Miami, House spent time as a defensive coordinator at Pittsburgh (2012-14). House's defenses anchored a Pittsburgh team that won two bowl games in his three years on campus. House coached Pittsburgh defensive tackle Aaron Donald, who was then drafted 13th overall by the Rams in the 2014 NFL Draft and has since won NFL Defensive Player of the Year twice (2017-18) and been named to four All-Pro teams (2015-18). In his most successful season with the Panthers, his 2013 defense ranked 34th nationally in total defense.

Before his collegiate experiences, House spent four seasons in the NFL as defensive quality control/assistant linebackers coach for the St. Louis Rams (2009-11) and special teams/strength and conditioning assistant for the Carolina Panthers (2008). While in St. Louis, House worked under then-head coach and now-Chiefs defensive coordinator Steve Spagnuolo. In his season in Carolina, the Panthers went 12-4 and claimed the NFC South title and the franchise's fourth-ever playoff berth.

House's final stop of his first collegiate stint was at the University of Buffalo (2006-07), where he was the defensive backs coach and recruiting coordinator for the Bulls. During his time in Western New York, House helped the Bulls to a share of the 2007 MAC East title and helped developed All-MAC safety Davonte Shannon, who finished as the school's all-time leading tackler and signed as an NFL free agent.

House spent the 2005 season as the defensive line coach at Gardner-Webb. He coached as a defensive assistant at North Carolina (2003-04), helping UNC to the 2004 Continental Tire Bowl.

House began his coaching career at Michigan State University (2001-02) as a graduate assistant, helping the Spartans to the 2001 Silicon Valley Classic with the secondary and special teams units.

Corey MATTHAEI

Assistant Offensive Line

Corey Matthaei enters his 13th season with the Chiefs and eighth as the team's assistant offensive line coach in 2025.

Matthaei coached in his third-straight Super Bowl in 2024, marking his fifth Super Bowl that he has coached in through the past six years and including three victories (LIV, LVII and LVIII). Matthaei assisted Offensive Line Coach Andy Heck as they developed rookie LT Kingsley Suamataia and maintained the front's strong interior presence with C Creed Humphrey, G Trey Smith and G Joe Thuney. All three earned Pro Bowl selections while Thuney and Humphrey earned AP all-pro (first team) selections. The front gave up the second-fewest sacks across the league in the postseason, giving up 11.0.

In 2023, Matthaei assisted the offensive line to another productive year with two key new faces in LT Donovan Smith and RT Jawaan Taylor. The line continued their strong interior with C Creed Humphrey, G Trey Smith and G Joe Thuney. The unit allowed just 28.0 sacks, the second fewest in the league and allowed no sacks in the Wild Card and Divisional Round Games en route to their second-consecutive Super Bowl win (LVII and LVIII). With Matthaei's assistance, the front cleared the way for RB Isiah Pacheco's standout season with 205 rushes for 935 yards and seven endzone trips. Pacheco had three 100+ rushing yard games (Weeks 4, 13 and 17). Humphrey and Thuney were both selected to the Pro Bowl while Thuney was also selected to the PFW/PFWA All-NFL Team and the AP All-Pro Team (first-team). Matthaei continues to coordinate the team's screen game and is responsible for preparing the opponent blitz package. He also works closely with Offensive Line Coach Andy Heck to formulate the short-yardage and goal line run and pass game.

In 2022, Matthaei worked closely with the Chiefs offensive line that helped the Chiefs offense lead the league in passing yards (5,250), yards per play (6.43), yards per game (413.6) and points per game (29.2). With a line highlighted by second-year linemen C Creed Humphrey and G Trey Smith and returners T Orlando Brown and G Joe Thuney, the 2022 offensive front allowed just 26.0 sacks through the regular season (third in NFL), recorded six games with no sacks and despite the Eagles leading the league in sacks in 2022, the Chiefs front allowed no sacks during the Super Bowl LVII win. With Matthaei's guidance, the offensive line helped rookie RB Isiah Pacheco total the fifth-most rushing yards in a Chiefs rookie campaign with 830 yards and five touchdowns. Three offensive linemen (Humphrey, Brown and Thuney) were named to the 2022 Pro Bowl. Matthaei coordinated the Chiefs screen game and was responsible for preparing the opponent blitz package, and also worked closely with offensive line coach Andy Heck to formulate the short-yardage and goal line run game.

For the 2021 season, Matthaei helped a group of veterans and rookies merge into an offensive line that only allowed 28.0 sacks on QB Patrick Mahomes, which was tied at third for the season. Prior to the season, Brown joined the club via trade with the Ravens, and following the season, he earned his third Pro Bowl nomination. Rookie offensive linemen Humphrey and Smith started all 17 regular season games in 2021, becoming the 17th and 18th players in franchise history to start all regular season games in their rookie season.

In 2020, Matthaei helped lead an offensive line that was marred by injuries, seeing 12 different starters at various positions along the line throughout the season while still ranking fifth in sacks allowed with 24.0.

In 2019, Matthaei assisted an offensive line unit that finished tied for third in the NFL in sacks allowed with 25.0 in the regular season on their way to defeating the San Francisco 49ers in Super Bowl LIV.

In his first year as the assistant offensive line coach, he helped lead a group that blocked for NFL MVP QB Patrick Mahomes. The offensive line only allowed 26.0 sacks in the regular season and paved the way for 1,855 yards rushing as a team.

Prior to the 2018 season, Matthaei served as the team's assistant quarterbacks coach from 2015 to 2017. In addition to tutoring the quarterbacks, Matthaei assisted Offensive Line Coach Andy Heck. Before being promoted in 2015, Matthaei was an offensive quality control coach for two seasons with the team (2013-14). In the five seasons Matthaei worked alongside QB Alex Smith (2013-17), Smith recorded five consecutive seasons passing for 3,000 yards and became the franchise's all-time leading rusher among QBs after the 2017 season (1,672 yards). In 2013, Matthaei assisted an offensive staff that propelled the Chiefs to the single best season turnaround in franchise history, winning 11 games after a 2-14 season.

Prior to his move to Kansas City, Matthaei served three seasons under Chiefs Head Coach Andy Reid with the Philadelphia Eagles as the assistant to the head coach from 2009-12 after completing two seasons with the Eagles as a coaching assistant (2008-09). He spent 2006-07 as Philadelphia's football operations intern for training camp.

Before embarking on his NFL career, Matthaei played on the offensive line at Willamette University in Salem, Ore., (2003-06). Upon graduating, he spent one season as the offensive assistant at his alma mater.

Tom MELVIN Tight Ends

Tom Melvin enters his 13th season as Kansas City's tight ends coach and his 27th season as an NFL coach in 2025.

Melvin joined the Chiefs in 2013 - the same year Chiefs TE Travis Kelce was drafted in the third round (63rd overall) - making him Kelce's position coach for the entirety of his 13-year career. Entering 2025, Kelce holds a streak of 174 games with a reception, the longest in franchise history and second-longest active streak in the National Football League. In 2024, Kelce passed PFHOF TE Tony Gonzalez (76) for the most touchdown receptions in team annals with 77. His 80 total touchdowns (77 rec., 2 rush, 1 fum.) are also the second most in Chiefs history. Under Melvin's tutelage, Kelce recorded seven-straight seasons of 1,000 receiving yards (2016-22) and was the fastest tight end in NFL history to reach the 6,000 – 12,000 receiving yard plateaus. Since QB Patrick Mahomes took over at QB, the two have had an obvious chemistry that has paid off on the field, connecting 53 times for touchdowns which are the third-most QB-TE TD connections in NFL history. Kelce's been a vital player in the Chiefs nine-straight AFC West Titles, seven-consecutive AFC Championship Game appearances and three Super Bowl wins (LIV, LVII and LVIII). He now also owns back-to-back Super Bowl rings (LVII and LVIII) and appeared in three-straight Super Bowls (LVII, LVIII and LIX). Kelce has also cemented himself as a prolific postseason player, tied for the most postseason game appearances (25) in Chiefs history, second-most points in Chiefs history (120), with 20-career postseason receiving touchdowns, 178 receptions and 2,078 receiving yards – all the most in franchise history. His 178 career postseason receptions are the most in NFL history and his 2,078 postseason receiving yards top all tight ends in league history and are second to only PFHOF WR Jerry Rice. With 20 postseason receiving touchdowns, he is second to only PFHOF WR Jerry Rice (22) for the most all time amongst pass catchers. Since 2015, Kelce has not missed a Pro Bowl nomination, and from 2016-22, he made the All-Pro Team for seven-straight seasons (first-team: '16, '18, '20, '22; second-team: '17, '19, '21). Kelce has been voted by his teammates to be an offensive postseason captain every year since 2017, helping to lead the team to three Super Bowl victories in five years (LIV, LVII and LVIII). Due to injury, Kelce only played in one game in his rookie season (2013) but since his return in 2014 he has been the team's leading receiver each season except 2015 (second to WR Jeremy Maclin) and 2021 (second to WR Tyreek Hill).

In 2024, Melvin had another reliable season with TE Travis Kelce who again led the team with 823 yards and 97 receptions for three touchdowns and earned his 10th Pro Bowl nomination. Melvin helped Kelce make history again as he recorded his 1,000th career reception, the only player in franchise history to reach the mark and the fastest tight end to surpass 1,000 catches. Kelce added on 13 receptions for 175 yards and a touchdown in the postseason. TE Noah Gray had a productive year, the second-leading tight end with 40 receptions for 437 yards and five touchdowns. Gray's year was the best of his career with highs in receptions, yards, and touchdowns.

Melvin had a productive tight end room in 2023 with Kelce leading the charge and bolstered by TE Noah Gray and TE Blake Bell. Kelce had a standout postseason performance with 32 receptions, the most in his postseason career and 355 receiving yards which were the second-most in his postseason career. He added three touchdown receptions to his performance. He had back-to-back 100+ receiving yard games (Weeks 5 and 6) and added a postseason 100+ receiving yard performance in the AFC Championship Game in Baltimore (11 rec., 116 yards). Gray set a then single-season high for himself with 305 receiving yards (28 catches) and two touchdowns.

The 2022 season proved to be another record setting year for Kelce and further development of TEs Noah Gray and Blake Bell. After Kelce recorded 92 yards against Tampa Bay (10/2/2022) he passed former NFL TE Rob Gronkowski for fifth-most receiving yards in league history (tight ends) with 9,328. Following the season, Kelce's 10,344 career receiving yards trailed only TE Tony Gonzalez for the most receiving yards in team history and fourth-most by a TE in league history. Back for his second year, Gray recorded 28 receptions for 299 yards and one touchdown.

In 2021, Melvin coached Kelce to another 1,000-yard season as he recorded 1,125 receiving yards and nine touchdowns en route to his seventh Pro Bowl nomination. With 9,006 career receiving yards, he became just the sixth tight end in NFL history to reach 9,000 career receiving yards and is the quickest tight end to do so.

In 2020, Melvin's coaching helped Kelce set two NFL records in Week 15. Kelce became the first tight end in NFL history with multiple seasons of 100+ receptions in his career (2018 and 2020), while his 1,416 receiving yards were the most-ever by a tight end in NFL history, passing 49ers TE George Kittle's previous record of 1,377 yards set in 2018. His 105 receptions in 2020 set a franchise record and marked the fourth-most single season receptions by a tight end in NFL history.

In 2019, Melvin helped Kelce become the first tight end in NFL history to record back-to-back 1,200+ yard receiving seasons. In the Week 16 game against the Chicago Bears in 2019, Kelce finished the game with 504-career receptions becoming the fastest tight end in NFL history to record 500-career receptions, doing so in just 95 games played.

Under Melvin's tutelage in 2018, Kelce was a key component to Mahomes' breakout season as Mahomes took the starting quarterback role. Mahomes threw for 5,097 yards and 50 touchdowns, earning Mahomes NFL MVP.

Melvin has developed well-rounded tight ends including TE Demetrius Harris. Harris entered the league in 2013 as an undrafted free agent, spending the season on the club's practice squad after playing college basketball at UW-Milwaukee. In 2017, he recorded 18 catches for 224 yards and one touchdown.

Prior to joining the Chiefs in 2013, Melvin spent 14 seasons on the offensive coaching staff in Philadelphia, including the last 11 years of his tenure as the Eagles tight ends coach. During his time overseeing the tight ends, Melvin played a key role in the development of Brent Celek, who caught 280 passes for 3,473 yards and 20 touchdowns in his six-years playing for Melvin and the Eagles. He had 684 receiving yards in 2012 after registering 811 yards in 2011 with six touchdowns in those two seasons. Celek turned in one of the finest seasons ever by an Eagles tight end in 2009 with 76 receptions for 971 yards and eight touchdowns. Prior to being elevated to tight ends coach, Melvin was the club's offensive assistant/quality control coach from 1999-01.

Melvin joined the Eagles after an eight-year stint at Occidental College, where he served as the school's offensive coordinator and offensive line coach. In 1993, he led the Tigers to a then-school record 326 points and 2,526 rushing yards on the way to an 8-1 record.

Prior to his time at Occidental, he served as the offensive coordinator/offensive line coach at the University of California—Santa Barbara. At UCSB, Melvin directed the nation's fifth-ranked offense in 1989 while coaching five All-American selections.

From 1982-83, Melvin played on the offensive line at San Francisco State University. During the 1983 season, his position coach at San Francisco State was current Chiefs Head Coach Andy Reid.

Following his playing career at SFSU, Melvin began his coaching career as a graduate assistant at his alma mater, serving on the same staff with Reid. He then moved on to Northern Arizona, where he mentored TE Shawn Collins, a first-round draft pick of Atlanta in the 1989 NFL Draft.

Melvin attended Cubberley High School in Palo Alto, Calif. Today, he holds a bachelor's degree in physical education from San Francisco State and a master's degree in educational administration from Northern Arizona.

Melvin's cousin, Bob Melvin, is a former major league catcher and current manager of the San Francisco Giants.

Dave
MERRITT
Defensive Backs

Education: North Carolina State (1994)
Born: Raleigh, N.C.
Family: Wife - Yolonda; Sons - David Jr., Devin, Dawson and Daughters - Drayah and Kiki

Dave Merritt enters his seventh season as the defensive backs coach with the Kansas City Chiefs in 2025 and his 29th season in the NFL, including a four-year playing career as a linebacker.

In 2024, Merritt again helped lead the defensive backs room en route to the team's third-straight Super Bowl appearance (LVII, LVIII and LIX). CB Trent McDuffie continued to be a cornerstone of the room posting 59 tackles (45 solo) and added career-highs with 13 passes defensed and six tackles for loss while adding four quarterback hits. S Justin Reid continued to be a leader in the room as well, putting up the most tackles of the defensive backs with 85 (59 solo), nine passes defensed, five tackles for loss and two quarterback hits. Merritt continued to develop CB Nazeeh Johnson who stepped up and recorded all new career highs with 53 tackles (31 solo, 1.0 sack (-17.0 yards), three passes defensed and three tackles for loss. Rookie DB Jaden Hicks also emerged, leading the defense with three interceptions totaling 50 return yards (long of 47 yards). Hicks also posted five passes defensed and three tackles for loss along with his 24 tackles (19 solo).

In 2023, Merritt and the defensive backs contributed to a defense that was keen on second half shutdowns. In fact, the Chiefs defense allowed the fewest second-half points across the league (126), had three second-half shutouts and allowed no more than 27 points in any game this season – including the postseason. Much of the unit's production was due to CB L'Jarius Sneed and CB Trent McDuffie who became one of the league's top cornerback duos. Sneed had a career-year, locking up many of the NFL's top receivers and leading the defense in interceptions (two) and passes defensed (14). He was the team's fourth-leading tackler with 78 tackles (60 solo) and added five tackles for loss. He had a key forced fumble in the AFC Championship Game, knocking the ball out of Ravens WR Zay Flowers' hands in the endzone for a touchback en route to the team's 17-10 victory. McDuffie was the second-leading tackler with 80 tackles (60 solo) and tied with S Justin Reid with 3.0 sacks (-24.0 yards) while adding nine quarterback pressures, seven passes defensed and five forced fumbles. McDuffie was voted to his first AP All-Pro (first-team) selection. Merritt was also tasked with developing rookie DB Chamarri Conner who logged 28 tackles (24 solo), an interception, a pass defensed and two tackles for loss.

With five defensive back rookies in 2022, no other playoff team had more rookie defensive backs. Under Merritt's tutelage, rookie CBs Jaylen Watson and Joshua Williams both snagged a regular and postseason interception. CB L'Jarius Sneed and S Juan Thornhill led the team with three interceptions a piece, contributing to the defense's 10 interceptions in the final 10 games – including playoffs. Back for his third year, Sneed showed his versatility as a blitzer and recorded a career-high 3.5 sacks en route to the team's Super Bowl LVII victory. Another rookie standout was 2022 first-round draft pick (21st overall) CB Trent McDuffie who battled back from a hamstring injury in Week 1. McDuffie returned after six games, starting the remaining 13 games of the season, and recorded 44 tackles (28 solo), 1.0 sack (-12 yards) and seven passes defensed. The Chiefs acquired S Justin Reid via free agency in 2022. Reid racked up 81 tackles (59 solo), 1.0 sack and seven passes defensed. Rookie CB Jaylen Watson made a name for himself after a momentum-shifting interception during the Week 2 victory over the Chargers. His 99-yard pick-six was the longest go-ahead fourth-quarter touchdown scored by a rookie in NFL history. Through the season, Merritt developed rookie S Bryan Cook who ended up playing 16 games and totaled 27 tackles (19 solo), 1.0 sack and two passes defensed. In the AFC Championship Game his progress showed as he broke up a pass which led to an interception by fellow rookie CB Joshua Williams. The defensive backs helped to allow just 18 opponent plays of 20+ yards in the final eight games, the second fewest in the league.

In 2021, Merritt coached S Tyrann Mathieu to his third Pro Bowl. Mathieu led the team in interceptions with three, including a pick-six. S Dan Sorensen followed up close behind with two interceptions and a pick-six.

In 2020, Merritt coached S Tyrann Mathieu to his second-consecutive first-team AP All-Pro nomination and third of his career, first at the safety position. Mathieu led all NFL safeties with six interceptions in the regular season, adding one in the postseason. Merritt also mentored rookie CB L'Jarius Sneed who showed a lot of potential in the nine games he saw action (six starts), snagging three interceptions, 2.0 sacks (-19.0 yards) and seven passes defensed.

In 2019, Merritt helped coach Mathieu to two AP All-Pro Team nominations, first-team as a defensive back and second-team as a safety. He was also voted by his teammates as the team's most valuable player with the Derrick Thomas award after ranking fourth in the NFL in passes defended amongst safeties with 12. He paired that with 75 tackles (63 solo), four interceptions and 2.0 sacks en route to the Chiefs Super Bowl LIV victory.

Todd PINKSTON
Running Backs

Todd Pinkston joins Kansas City for his third season as running backs coach in 2025. Pinkston's 11 years in the NFL includes a seven-year playing career with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Pinkston again led the running backs room in 2024, reaching his second-straight Super Bowl (LVIII and LIX) and helping the Chiefs record a franchise-best 15-2 regular season record. The Chiefs welcomed back RB Kareem Hunt to the unit as RB Isiah Pacheco battled through injuries. Pacheco still managed to record 310 yards on 83 carries and one touchdown and Hunt went on to play 13 games recording 728 yards on 200 carries and seven touchdowns. Pinkston also developed several new players including FB Carson Steele who totaled 183 yards on 56 rushes in his rookie season.

In 2023, Pinkston guided the running backs room to a standout season with RB Isiah Pacheco leading the charge. In his inaugural season leading the running backs, the offense leaned on the run game en route to the club's eventual overtime Super Bowl LVIII victory over the San Francisco 49ers. RB Isiah Pacheco returned for his second year on the team and led the rushing attack with 205 rushes for 935 yards and seven touchdowns, career highs in each category. Pacheco had three games with 100+ rushing yards (Weeks 4, 13 and 17). With Pinkston's guidance and background as a wide receiver, Pacheco added 44 receptions for 244 yards and two touchdowns. Pacheco added on three postseason rushing touchdowns on 81 rushes for 313 yards and had a postseason high of 97 rushing yards and a touchdown at Buffalo in the Divisional Round Game. RB Jerick McKinnon was also used as a weapon out of the backfield with 21 rushes for 60 yards and a touchdown. McKinnon added 25 catches for 192 yards and four touchdowns.

Pinkston arrives in Kansas City after spending time at Stockbridge High School as associate head coach, special teams coach and wide receivers coach (2019-22). He also had stints as the wide receivers coach at Austin Peay (2017-19) and Petal High School (2009-16). Under Pinkston's tutelage at Austin Peay WR Kyran Moore had a standout senior season, leading the team in catches (29) and yards (529), and tied for the team lead in receiving touchdowns with three. With Pinkston's direction, WR DJ Montgomery also emerged, catching 19 passes for 228 yards and three scores.

Following his playing career in the National Football League (2000-06, Eagles; 2006-07, Vikings/Commanders), Pinkston began his coaching career as a training camp assistant, working primarily with the Eagles wide receivers in 2009 under his former coach, Andy Reid. In 2010 he took a role as a training camp assistant for the Vikings where he also worked with the receivers.

Pinkston spent seven of his eight years playing professionally in Philadelphia under Reid as a second-round draft pick out of Southern Mississippi. Pinkston became a primary target during the Donovan McNabb era in Philadelphia, catching 184 passes for 2,816 yards and 14 touchdowns from 2000-04. Pinkston led the Eagles for the second year in a row in receiving yards (575) in 2003. In 2004 Pinkston hauled in 676 receiving yards on a career-best 18.8 yards per catch. In 2002, Pinkston set career highs in receptions (60), yards (798) and touchdowns (seven). As a rookie in 2000, Pinkston registered 10 catches for 181 yards before breaking out in his second season with 42 catches, 586 yards and four touchdowns through his 15 games. During his time in Philadelphia, Pinkston appeared in the playoffs five times, reached the NFC Championship Game four times and reached the 2004 Super Bowl (XXXIX) in Jacksonville, Florida, after defeating Atlanta in the 2004 NFC Conference Championship Game. Pinkston had four catches for 82 yards in Super Bowl XXXIX against the Patriots, but the Eagles fell 24-21 to New England.

After an injury cost him all of the 2005 season, Pinkston went to training camp with Philadelphia, Minnesota and Washington over the next two seasons.

Pinkston received his bachelor's degree in coaching and sports administration from Southern Mississippi in 1999. A second-team All-Conference USA choice in 1999, Pinkston was elected to the M-Club Hall of Fame in 2011 and at the time was second in Golden Eagle history in receiving yards (2,366) and third in both receptions (149) and touchdown receptions (22).

In addition to coaching at Stockbridge High School, Pinkston served as a co-teacher for the special education department teaching primarily science and math. Pinkston remains an active member of the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity, which he became a member of while at Southern Mississippi. Since 2013, Pinkston has also spent time as a USA Heads Up Youth Football Ambassador for the State of Mississippi.

WHITTINGHAM
Assistant Defensive Line

Education: University of Utah (B.S. 2017)
Born: Salt Lake City, Utah
Family: Wife - Gabi. Daughters - Eleanor and Amelia

Alex Whittingham enters his eighth season with Kansas City in 2025 and first as assistant defensive line coach. Prior to his promotion, Whittingham served two seasons as a defensive assistant (2024, 2018) and five seasons as a defensive quality control coach (2019-2023).

In the 2024 season, Whittingham worked predominantly with the secondary while assisting Defensive Coordinator Steve Spagnuolo. The defense was dominant on all fronts and top 10 in many categories in the league: fourth in points allowed per game (19.2), eighth in rushing yards allowed per game (101.8) and ninth in total net yards allowed per game (320.6). With major contributions from the secondary all season long, the Chiefs appeared in their third-straight Super Bowl appearance (LVII, LVIII and LIX).

Whittingham primarily assisted the linebackers unit in 2023. The unit was highlighted by LB Nick Bolton and LB Drue Tranquill, who was acquired in the offseason. Bolton, despite playing just eight games due to injury, was still the defense's fifth-leading tackler with 60 tackles (38 solo) and added an interception, three passes defensed, a quarterback pressure and a tackle for loss. With Whittingham's assistance, Tranquill quickly integrated into the unit and emerged as the defense's third-highest tackler with 79 (54 solo). He showed his versatility with 4.5 sacks (-19.0 yards) and added seven quarterback pressures, seven tackles for loss and two forced fumbles to his production. The linebacker unit helped propel the Chiefs to their second-straight Super Bowl (LVII and LVIII) and third Super Bowl title in five years (LIV, LVII and LVIII).

In 2022, Whittingham worked closely with the linebackers unit led by new green dot and second-year LB Nick Bolton. Bolton had a historic season totaling 180 tackles (108 solo) which not only led the team but broke the Chiefs single-season tackle record en route to the Chiefs Super Bowl LVII victory. Bolton paired his high caliber tackling with 2.0 sacks, two interceptions, seven quarterback pressures and nine tackles for loss. The linebacking unit was also highlighted by LB Willie Gay who posted career highs in tackles (88), sacks (2.5), passes defensed (eight), quarterback pressures (four) and tackles for loss (nine). Whittingham also assisted with the development of rookie LB Leo Chenal, who took snaps in all 17 games logging 29 tackles (16 solo) and 1.0 sack.

The 2021 season marked Whittingham's second year working closely with the linebacking unit. With his assistance, this unit accounted for 2.5 sacks on the season and a fumble recovery for a touchdown versus the Broncos in Week 18. The defense's top two tacklers were rookie LB Nick Bolton who recorded 112 tackles (70 solo) and 11 for loss and fellow LB Anthony Hitchens who totaled 80 tackles with four for loss. Bolton was voted by his teammates as the team's Mack Lee Hill award winner as the best rookie or first year player.

In 2020, Whittingham primarily worked with a linebacking group that accounted for 3.0 sacks and 244 tackles. LBs Hitchens and Damien Wilson were the second and third leading tacklers with 78 (44 solo) and 70 (43 solo), respectively, and five tackles for loss between them.

Whittingham stepped into a new role as defensive quality control in 2019, working closely with new Chiefs Defensive Coordinator Steve Spagnuolo. He worked with the defensive line including Pro Bowl DT Chris Jones and DE Frank Clark who were ranked first and second on the team in sacks with 17.0 regular season sacks between them. Clark's 5.0 postseason sacks helped lead the Chiefs to a Super Bowl LIV victory over the 49ers.

Following his playing career at Utah, Whittingham jumped directly to the professional coaching ranks in 2018. He joined the Chiefs as a defensive assistant working closely with the outside linebackers including Pro Bowl selection fifth-year LB Dee Ford who was tied-first in the NFL with seven forced fumbles with All-Pro DE J.J. Watt and had a career-high 13.0 sacks. Whittingham worked closely with LB Justin Houston who had 9.0 sacks on the season and five forced fumbles.

The Salt Lake City native was a walk on for the Utes earning four letters (2013-17) appearing in 45 games as a special teams contributor. During the 2017 season, he was responsible for short snaps and spent time on both the kick and punt return team. He was a three-time honorable mention Pac-12 All-Academic selection. While at Utah, Whittingham played under his father, Kyle, who remains the Utes head coach and his uncle, Freddie Whittingham, who still serves as the tight ends coach.

Prior to attending Utah, Whittingham spent two years (2011-13) after high school serving as a missionary for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in Auckland, New Zealand.

The sixth-year quarterback set franchise records for passing yards (5,250) and single-season passing first downs (272) in 2022. Mahomes' 2022 performance earned him his second NFL MVP and Super Bowl MVP after the Chiefs took down the Eagles 38-35 in Super Bowl LVII.

In 2019, Williams worked closely with the quarterbacks and tight ends, gaining experience as a coaching intern of Super Bowl LIV Champion Chiefs before moving to his role as assistant to the head coach. During his time as assistant to the head coach, Williams worked directly with Head Coach Andy Reid in organizing the day-to-day operations of the team. His responsibilities included overseeing player and staff communications with the head coach and managing the football calendar, which includes the offseason program, mini-camp and in-season schedules.

The Sicklerville, N.J., native spent four seasons (2015-18) at Stevenson University where he served as the starting quarterback and team captain. Williams left the Mustangs as the school's all-time leader in career completions (482), attempts (755), completion percentage (64%), passing yards (6,812) and passing touchdowns (57).

Williams' father, Ted Williams, spent 20 years on the Philadelphia Eagles coaching staff working with the tight ends (1995-96; 2013-14) and running backs (1997-2012). He also spent two years as a pro scout with the Eagles in 2015-16. Ted Williams spent 14 seasons under Chiefs Head Coach Andy Reid while Reid was the head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles (1999-2012).

Rod
WILSON
Outside Linebackers

Education: South Carolina (B.S. 2004)
Born: Cross, S.C.
Family: Wife - Megan; Sons - Jaylen and Ryan; Daughter - Nova

Rod Wilson enters his seventh season with the Chiefs and enters his second season as outside linebackers coach in 2025 after spending two seasons as a defensive assistant (2022-23). Wilson returned to Kansas City after spending the 2021 season coaching inside linebackers at Coastal Carolina following the 2020 season where he coached linebackers at his alma mater, South Carolina. Wilson spent his first three seasons (2017-19) in Kansas City as the assistant special teams coach. His 13 years in the NFL includes a six-year playing career.

In 2024, Wilson worked with the linebackers en route to his third-straight Super Bowl appearance (LVII, LVIII and LIX). Wilson, working alongside Linebackers Coach Brendan Daly, helped LB Nick Bolton and LB Drue Tranquill to be the top two tacklers on the team with 106 tackles (73 solo) for Bolton and 94 tackles (54 solo) for Tranquill. Bolton added on 3.0 sacks, 11 tackles for loss and six passes defensed. Wilson also continued to tutor LB Leo Chenal who posted 53 tackles (35 solo), 1.0 sack and four tackles for loss. Chenal recorded career-highs for forced fumbles and passes defensed with three a piece.

Wilson spent the 2023 season primarily working with the defensive backs as a defensive assistant. Working closely with defensive backs coach Dave Merritt, Wilson helped CB L'Jarius Sneed and CB Trent McDuffie become one of the league's most lockdown corner duos. Sneed led the team with two interceptions, was the fourth-leading tackler totaling 78 tackles (60 solo) and added 14 passes defensed. McDuffie showed his versatility with 3.0 sacks (-24.0 yards), tallied the second-most tackles on the team with 80 tackles (60 solo) and added nine quarterback pressures, seven passes defensed and was selected to the AP All-Pro first-team. Wilson also helped to develop DB Chamarri Conner who snagged an interception in his 17 games of action and showed promise with his 28 tackles (24 solo) and two tackles for loss. The defense played a major role in the club's second-straight Super Bowl title (LVII and LVIII), allowing the fewest second half points across the league.

In 2022, Wilson returned to Kansas City as a defensive assistant working closely with the defensive backs. The defensive backs unit was full of youth with five rookies on the roster, the most of all playoff teams. With Wilson's assistance, two rookies who shined were CBs Jaylen Watson and Joshua Williams who both snagged a regular and postseason interception. Watson made league history during the Week 2 Chiefs win over the Chargers, returning an interception 99-yards for the longest go-ahead fourth-quarter touchdown by a rookie. Third year CB L'Jarius Sneed and S Juan Thornhill led the team with three interceptions a piece en route to Wilson's second Super Bowl ring (LIV, LVII). Sneed also tacked on a career-high 3.5 sacks while rookie CB Trent McDuffie returned from a hamstring injury sustained in Week 1 to total 44 tackles (28 solo), 1.0 sack and seven passes defensed.

In 2021, Wilson assisted Coastal Carolina to an 11-2 record en route to a 47-41 win over NIU in the Cure Bowl. He mentored a defense that was ranked in the top 25 nationally, tutoring LB Silas Kelly to earn first-team All-Sun Belt and second-team PFF All-Sun Belt honors, as well as ranking third in the conference in tackles. He also tutored LB Teddy Gallagher to earn a Sun Belt honorable mention.

At the University of South Carolina in 2020, Wilson oversaw the linebackers, mentoring LB Ernest Jones to lead the team in tackles (86) and a 2020 Phil Steele All-SEC fourth-team selection. Jones went on to be selected by the Los Angeles Rams with the 40th pick in the third-round of the 2021 NFL Draft. Wilson also coached LB Mohamed Kaba who returned from an ACL injury to total 13 tackles in nine games, earning him an SEC All-Freshman selection.

The 2019 Super Bowl Champion Chiefs special teams ranked in the top 10 in kick returns, kick return coverage and punt return coverage. Rookie WR Mecole Hardman scored on a touchdown on a 104-yard kickoff return in the final game of the regular season against the Los Angeles Chargers which ranked as the third-longest kickoff return in Chiefs history. He was named second-team All-Pro as a kick returner and named to his first Pro Bowl as a return specialist. K Harrison Butker set a franchise record for most points by a kicker in a single season with 147 points.

In 2018, the Chiefs special teams ranked tied for third in punt returns, fourth in punt return coverage and tied for eighth in kickoff returns. With Wilson's assistance, K Harrison Butker had a strong second season, making 24-of-27 kicks and P Dustin Colquitt placed 21 kicks inside the 20-yard line, moving him to third all-time in NFL history (441).

In 2017, Wilson assisted Special Teams Coordinator Dave Toub, helping guide Butker to a decorated rookie season. Butker recorded a franchise record of 23 consecutive FGs, ranking first at the time for most FGs made in a single season in franchise history and tied for first at the time for the most 50-plus yard FGs made in a season with four. During the 2017 season, Wilson also assisted with the return and coverage units helping the Chiefs lead the NFL in kick returns (47) for 1,051 yards. This special teams performance helped earn WR/PR Tyreek Hill his second Pro Bowl selection after he recorded 25 punt returns for 204 yards and a touchdown.

Prior to his first stint with the Chiefs, Wilson spent four seasons (2013-16) at Charleston Southern coaching the safeties (2013), inside linebackers (2014-16) and assisting with special teams, after the conclusion of his six-year NFL playing career. While still coaching at CSU, Wilson made a brief stop in Kansas City as the Bill Walsh NFL Minority Coaching Fellow for the club's 2015 training camp. As the Bill Walsh Minority Coaching Fellow, Wilson assisted with the linebackers and special teams units, working closely with the rest of the coaching staff to further develop his coaching techniques.

In 2015 CSU ranked atop the league in total defense (292.0 yards per game) and held opponents to the second-fewest rushing yards per game (147.1) which helped earn an outright Big South title and the program's first-ever berth into the FCS

Playoffs. Under Wilson's tutelage, CSU landed at least one linebacker on the Big South's All-Conference squad each of his four seasons. In 2016, Wilson helped guide the Buccaneers defense to top rankings within the league, limiting opponents to the fewest rushing touchdowns (15) and fewest total rushing yards (1,488).

Prior to his collegiate coaching career, Wilson enjoyed a six-year playing career in the National Football League. Originally selected in the seventh round of the 2005 NFL Draft (220th overall) by the Chicago Bears, Wilson appeared in 51 games during his five seasons playing for the Chicago Bears (2005-08; 2010) and sole season playing for the Tampa Bay Buccaneers (2009). Wilson tallied 47 tackles and one forced fumble while primarily playing a special teams role under then-Special Teams Coach Dave Toub. Wilson's career highlights include four playoff appearances, which included two NFC Championship appearances and a trip to Super Bowl XLI.

The Cross, S.C., native attended the University of South Carolina, where he played five different positions for the Gamecocks (quarterback, wide receiver, spur, safety and linebacker) and put together an outstanding senior year as one of USC's captains. Wilson led the team in tackles (68) while earning All-SEC honors and SEC Academic Honor Roll accolades.

On March 4, 2021, the Kansas City Chiefs and GEHA (Government Employees Health Association, Inc., pronounced G.E.H.A.) jointly announced a historic naming rights agreement that made the nonprofit medical and dental plan provider the first - and exclusive - naming rights partner for Arrowhead Stadium. Beginning with the 2021 season, the home of the Chiefs became GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium.

The announcement expanded on the already robust partnership between GEHA and the Chiefs, which had grown significantly since the relationship was first announced in July 2019, when GEHA became the club's Exclusive Health, Dental and Vision Plan Partner. The agreement also highlighted the commitment of both GEHA and the Chiefs to ensuring Arrowhead Stadium remained part of the identity of the stadium.

"We are extremely proud and excited to announce our naming rights agreement with GEHA. When we set out to find a partner for the field at Arrowhead, it was critical to identify a national leader that shares our core values, as well as a deep connection to the local community and respect for Chiefs Kingdom," Chiefs President Mark Donovan said at the time of the announcement. "Our relationship with GEHA over the last few years has only served to reinforce the alignment between our two organizations and proven their strong, long-standing relationship with the local community. This expanded partnership will continue to build lasting health and wellness programs that support the team, GEHA and our community."

GEHA is a national leader in providing medical and dental plans to more than two million federal employees, retired military and their families worldwide. Both GEHA and the Chiefs are deeply committed to promoting their missions of driving and supporting health and wellness and this naming rights agreement provides a highly visible platform to support GEHA's efforts to empower its members to be healthy and well.

"Expanding our commitment to the team and community with naming rights for GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium is the natural extension of the partnership we first put in place with the Chiefs in 2019," Shannon Horgan, GEHA's chief growth officer, said at the time of the announcement. "Through our relationship with the Chiefs, we have been able to accelerate awareness of GEHA's mission, the breadth of our provider networks, and the quality of our health plans. The opportunity to grow our brand helps us reinvest in the families and individuals we serve and will be an invaluable benefit to current and future GEHA members. Expanding this partnership will help GEHA do what we do best – serve those who serve us."

Throughout the 2021 offseason, team and stadium staff worked with GEHA and Kansas City-based architecture and design firm Populous on the development of a signage package that was in place for the 2021 season. The most notable sign is likely one that most fans will never have seen in person – a 147-foot wide sign comprised of 18-foot tall illuminated letters on top of the press box – offering unique aerial visuals for network TV coverage.

Municipal Stadium served as the original home of the Chiefs in Kansas City after previously housing two shortlived NFL franchises, the Kansas City Blues (1924) and the Kansas City Cowboys (1925-26). The Chiefs and the Kansas City Athletics baseball club shared the facility until the A's departed for Oakland following the 1967 season. Kansas City went undefeated (7-0) at home during the 1971 regular season, but the final contest (and only playoff game) in Municipal Stadium's history will live in infamy for Chiefs fans, a devastating double overtime 27-24 playoff loss to the Miami Dolphins on Christmas Day of 1971, a contest which remains the NFL's longest game at 82 minutes, 40 seconds.

Municipal Stadium was demolished in 1976 and was originally replaced by a municipal garden. Today, much of the site has been redeveloped with new single-family homes. Although the stadium is no longer standing, its history and significance to the Kansas City sports scene has been commemorated in Monarch Plaza, which stands at the corner of E. 22nd and Brooklyn Ave. In 2019, as part of the Chiefs celebration of 100 years of the National Football League and 60 seasons in franchise history, the club replaced an aging Municipal Stadium marker at Monarch Plaza with a brand new historical marker highlighting the teams that called the former stadium home.

The Cotton Bowl served as the home of the American Football League's Dallas Texans from 1960-62 before the franchise moved to Kansas City in 1963 and became known as the Chiefs. The Texans shared the stadium with the NFL's expansion Dallas Cowboys. The facility served until 1999 as a home field for SMU, the alma mater of Chiefs Founder Lamar Hunt. The Texans final contest in the Cotton Bowl was a 26-17 win over the San Diego Chargers on December 16, 1962, before a sparse crowd of 18,384 fans. The Texans would win a 20-17 double-overtime thriller the next week at Houston to capture the first of three AFL titles.

Situated on the site of the State Fair of Texas, the stadium was also the longtime home of the annual college football bowl game known as the Cotton Bowl Classic, and also hosts the Red River Showdown, the annual college football game between the Oklahoma Sooners and the Texas Longhorns. In addition, the venue has been the home stadium for professional soccer's Dallas Tornado (NASL), the Dallas Burn and FC Dallas (MLS), and it was one of nine venues to host the 1994 FIFA World Cup.

GEHA FIELD AT ARROWHEAD STADIUM

ARROWHEAD STADIUM STORY

GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium, originally known as Arrowhead Stadium, opened its doors for the first time on Aug. 12, 1972 as the Kansas City Chiefs hosted the St. Louis Cardinals in front of 78,190 fans for a preseason game. Since that initial contest, much has changed at the iconic venue. Several innovative concepts have been discussed over the years, with some concepts put into action during multiple renovations and upgrades to the facility. While many modernizations have taken place, the spirit of the stadium remains the same as it was for that first preseason football game in 1972.

1967: In the late 1960s, after design and seating capacity concerns caused plans for a single, multi-purpose domed stadium to be scrapped, Kansas City opted to construct two separate stadiums, one for football and one for baseball. Voters approved the Sports Complex bond issue in 1967, which included plans for a revolutionary concept – the world's first rolling stadium roof. Construction cost overruns and project delays caused by a lengthy strike eventually forced the roof concept to be put on hold.

1984: The Jackson County Sports Authority again investigated the feasibility of a dome – this time made of fabric – but that concept too was shelved as being unnecessary and financially impractical.

1994: Under Arrowhead's continued open-air arrangement, a natural playing surface was installed in the facility for the first time.

1999: The stadium saw its first seat upgrade, replacing all 33,975 seats in the upper level and all 35,277 seats in the lower level.

2000: Prior to the 2000 season, all 10,199 club level seats were replaced.

2006: On April 4, 2006, Jackson County, Mo., taxpayers approved a 3/8 cent sales tax that was expected to raise $425 million for improvements to the Sports Complex, including $212.5 million for Arrowhead. The State of Missouri also contributed $37.5 million. In addition, the Hunt family contributed $125 million to the project.

2010: Upgrades were officially done prior to the start of the 2010 season and included the Founder's Plaza, the Ford Fan Zone, the Chiefs Sports Lab, the Chiefs Hall of Honor, the Founder's Club, the CommunityAmerica Club Level and a new team store. Other improvements included an upgraded sound and scoreboard system, a 360-degree video ribbon board and concourses that were doubled in size.

2013: The club introduced a stadium-wide Wi-Fi network at Arrowhead, installing 600 high-density wireless access points as part of a seven-figure investment to create a more fully integrated mobile experience for Chiefs fans. Arrowhead Wi-Fi changed the way fans consume Chiefs content in-stadium, and also changed the way fans interact with the team and each other. The Wi-Fi network received an upgrade over two years in 2017 and 2018.

2019: Prior to the 2019 season, the Chiefs committed more than $10 million in upgrades to the stadium, including concrete repairs and new waterproofing measures in the stadium's upper level. In addition, the club replaced most seats in the upper deck with a newer version that includes cupholders, and in some cases, wider seats. The club also upgraded the technology in the west scoreboard to state-of-the-art LED technology that offers an enhanced screen image for fans in Arrowhead. The team introduced the GEHA Drum Deck, moving the club's pregame drum tradition from field-level to a more prominent location in the upper deck in the west endzone.

2020: In the week following Kansas City's AFC Championship Game victory on Jan. 19, 2020, the club announced multiple offseason projects to get Arrowhead ready for the 2020 season, including new seats in the lower bowl and a few sections in the upper bowl that weren't replaced in 2019; a technology upgrade to the east end zone scoreboard; enclosing multiple open-air field box suites; and an expanded Team Store. Additional offseason work that was scheduled, including a renovation to the home locker room was put on hold due to the coronavirus pandemic.

2021: The club finished the third phase of the three-year seat replacement project by installing all new seats on the CommunityAmerica Club Level. The team also completed a massive renovation to the home locker room complex inside the stadium, including not only the Chiefs locker room, but the equipment room, athletic training room and the coaches' locker rooms as well. After a decade as the preeminent space dedicated to Chiefs and AFL history, the Chiefs Hall of Honor on the lower level concourse of the stadium received a substantial upgrade, providing a more upscale, fully enclosed, temperature-controlled museum experience while creating a new special events space.

To this day, GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium remains one of the most iconic stadiums in the NFL, and these improvements ensure it is not only one of the nation's top venues for fans to experience the excitement of the NFL, but is also a year-round entertainment destination serving the entire Midwest region.

2025: In the offseason, modifications were made to the north side of the lower seating bowl in preparation for 2026 FIFA World Cup matches to be played at the stadium. Approximately 3,200 seats were removed and concrete was pulled out in order to make room for the wider internal soccer field requirements of FIFA. A modular seating structure was then installed, allowing for the re-installation of every seat in time for the 2025 Chiefs football season.

INTERNATIONAL CONTESTS

THE CHIEFS IN NFL INTERNATIONAL GAMES

In 2005, the NFL held its first regular season game outside the United States when the Arizona Cardinals and San Francisco 49ers met at Estadio Azteca in Mexico City. In 2007, the league introduced its International Series with regular season games taking place at Wembley Stadium in London. The London Series expanded to two additional stadiums, Twickenham Stadium - the home of England Rugby, and Tottenham Hotspur Stadium - a joint partnership between the NFL and the Premier League's Tottenham Hotspur. In 2016, the NFL returned to Mexico with the start of the NFL Mexico Series.

The Chiefs have played in two regular season International Series games, taking on the Detroit Lions in London in 2015 and playing against the Los Angeles Chargers in Mexico City in 2019. The club was scheduled to play against the Los Angeles Rams in Mexico City during the 2018 season, but the game was moved back to the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum due to field conditions that did not meet NFL standards at Estadio Azteca. The club holds a 2-0 record in regular season International Series games.

On Thursday, January 19, 2023, the NFL announced that the Chiefs were designated to play one of two international games in Germany during the 2023 season. It was confirmed on Wednesday, May 10 that the Chiefs would face the Miami Dolphins on Sunday, November 5, 2023 at Frankfurt Stadium in Frankfurt, Germany. The contest was the first of two 2023 Germany NFL games and the second overall NFL game hosted in Germany since the league awarded International Home Marketing Area rights for the country in December of 2021.

"We are incredibly excited to put the Kansas City Chiefs and all of Chiefs Kingdom on the international stage with a Germany game in 2023," Chiefs President Mark Donovan said at the time of the NFL's announcement that the club would play in Germany. "We've aggressively pursued this opportunity because we know how passionate German fans are about NFL football and we're committed to the international growth of the game as well as our brand. We think we'll be able to provide the right mix of opportunities for our existing Season Ticket Members and domestic fans while also creating unique experiences that will make this memorable for German fans as well."

Kansas City's first regular season international contest featured an offensive explosion and stifling defense. The Chiefs had four different players score rushing touchdowns and had over 200 total rushing yards as a team, while the defense forced two QB Matthew Stafford interceptions. Just prior to landing in Kansas City following the game, the Chiefs learned that the Kansas City Royals beat the New York Mets in Game 5 to win the 2015 World Series.

Frankfurt Stadium • Frankfurt, Germany

Team	Q1	Q2	Q3	Q4	F
Miami Dolphins	0	0	14	0	14
Kansas City Chiefs	7	14	0	0	21

Kansas City started off hot scoring 21 unanswered points in the first half, six coming from a defensive touchdown after stripping Dolphins WR Tyreek Hill. In the second half, the offense slowed down. However, Kansas City's defense held their own and allowed only 14 points the whole game, which was enough for KC to hold on to the win.

INTERNATIONAL CONTESTS

THE AMERICAN BOWL

Between 1986 and 2005, the NFL held a series of preseason games at sites outside the United States under the American Bowl banner. Designed to promote American football in other countries, the series eventually featured games in England, Japan, Canada, Germany, Spain, Mexico, Ireland and Australia. The Chiefs appeared in four American Bowl games, the first in 1990, and the last in 1998, playing in Berlin, West Germany; Monterrey, Mexico; and twice in Tokyo, Japan. The Chiefs hold a 1-3 record in American Bowl contests.

1990 American Bowl

Rams 19, Chiefs 3

August 11, 1990 • 55,429
Olympic Stadium • Berlin, West Germany

Team	Q1	Q2	Q3	Q4	F
Kansas City Chiefs	0	0	3	0	3
Los Angeles Rams	7	3	0	9	19

Kansas City's initial American Bowl expedition featured heavy doses of culture but little offense as the Rams prevailed by a 19-3 margin. RB Barry Word made his first appearance in a Kansas City uniform, pairing with the league's leading rusher in '89, RB Christian Okoye to form the quintessential "Martyball" backfield. However, the Chiefs only points would come on a 19-yard FG by K Bjorn Nittmo.

1994 American Bowl

Vikings 17, Chiefs 9

August 7, 1994 • 49,555
Tokyo Dome • Tokyo, Japan

Team	Q1	Q2	Q3	Q4	F
Kansas City Chiefs	0	9	0	0	9
Minnesota Vikings	7	10	0	0	17

Kansas City's first appearance on Japanese soil was a rematch of Super Bowl IV, but Minnesota prevailed in this contest thanks to a pair of interceptions. Chiefs QB Matt Blundin accounted for the club's only TD when he connected with rookie WR Lake Dawson for a 40-yard score. Kansas City then attempted a two-point conversion for the first time since '69 as the NFL finally implemented the old AFL two-point rule in '94.

1996 American Bowl

Chiefs 32, Cowboys 6

August 5, 1996 • 45,128
Estadio Universitario • Monterrey, Mexico

Team	Q1	Q2	Q3	Q4	F
Kansas City Chiefs	3	10	6	13	32
Dallas Cowboys	3	0	3	0	6

The Chiefs defense stifles the defending Super Bowl champions, allowing the Cowboys just five first downs. Kansas City's offense piles up 514 yards of total offense, including 173 rushing yards, while Dallas manages 214 total yards on the day as the Chiefs convert the partisan crowd of Cowboys fans into supporters of the "Jefes de Kansas City" or Kansas City Chiefs.

1998 American Bowl

Packers 27, Chiefs 24 OT

August 2, 1998 • 42,018
Tokyo Dome • Tokyo, Japan

Team	Q1	Q2	Q3	Q4	OT	F
Kansas City Chiefs	0	14	7	3	3	27
Green Bay Packers	14	0	10	0	0	24

Green Bay K Ryan Longwell misses a potential game-winning 45-yard FG attempt at the end of regulation, while both Green Bay K Brett Conway and Kansas City K Pete Stoyanovich miss field goals in OT before Longwell makes the 27-yard game winner with 5:03 left in the extra session. Kansas City's roster features Japanese national players TE Nachi Abe and WR Masato "The Magnet" Itai. RB James Saxon (21) and TE Jonathan Hayes (85) are on hand as the Berlin Wall begins crumbling down in Berlin, West Germany. The Chiefs players and staff receive an indoctrination in the art of sumo wrestling at practice in Tokyo. DE Neil Smith does his best matador impersonation and tries his hand at "bull fighting" while in Monterrey, Mexico. WR Masato "The Magnet" Itai (13) and TE Nachi Abe (47) join Chiefs President Carl Peterson in pregame ceremonies at the Tokyo Dome.

INTERNATIONAL CONTESTS

CHIEFS EXPAND THE KINGDOM

In December 2021, the NFL – under the leadership of the International Committee – announced that 19 teams were granted access to 10 International Home Marketing Areas (IHMA). The groundbreaking, new initiative granted clubs access to international territories for marketing, fan engagement and commercialization as part of an important, long-term, strategic effort to enable clubs to build their global brands while driving NFL fan growth internationally. Now known as the Global Markets Program in its second year in 2023, the NFL has expanded to 21 teams across 14 international markets. In 2025, the NFL expanded to all 32 teams across 21 international markets.

As part of the Global Markets Program, clubs have access to international markets for at least a five-year term, during which a club will have rights to pursue activities in that international market that are consistent with what they can do in their domestic HMA (home marketing area). This includes in-person and digital marketing, corporate sponsorship sales, fan events and activations, youth football activities, merchandise sales and co-marketing relationships with other sports and entertainment properties in the market.

As part of the announcement, it was confirmed that the Chiefs bid on and received Global Markets Program rights for Germany and Mexico as part of the global growth of professional football. Beginning on January 1, 2022, the club could begin activating elements of its marketing plans in both countries, including posting on new localized Chiefs social media channels to engage fans, unveil market/language-specific digital properties (Chiefs.com and Chiefs Mobile app), begin paid advertising campaigns, sign local sponsorship deals, extend domestic sponsors internationally and align with local agencies with on-the-ground knowledge and expertise.

"We are thrilled with the league's announcement today that the Chiefs have secured the international marketing rights to both Germany and Mexico," Chiefs Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt said at the time. "My father, Lamar, founded the Chiefs and the American Football League in 1960 to introduce pro football to new fans in new regions of the country. Over the last three decades, the Chiefs have been at the forefront of the NFL's global growth initiatives – building on the legacy of our founder to bring America's game to new fans in new places. We look forward to building relationships with fans in Germany and Mexico and continuing to share the best of Chiefs Kingdom around the world."

Longer-term, the club plans to invest in growing its fanbase in both markets through on-site activations and fan events, support and grow local youth FLAG Football participation, launch local merchandise sales initiatives, establish partnerships with existing fan clubs, create local community and social initiatives, as well as explore opportunities to play regular season games in the markets as part of the NFL's new rotation of International Series games.

"We are currently enjoying the most successful period in franchise history, with some of the top players and coaches on the field as well as the support of a talented and dedicated business operations staff, and we believe we are uniquely positioned to be a leader in the NFL's global growth," Chiefs President Mark Donovan said. "We have an internal committee which has been leading our international efforts for multiple years and today's announcement not only recognizes the hard work that went into this bid process, but it also signals the start of an exciting challenge for our team and opportunity for our fan base in the coming years."

In April 2023, the NFL granted the Chiefs the ability to expand their Global Markets Program presence beyond Germany to include Austria and Switzerland as part of the DACH region.

The Chiefs and the Hunt family have been involved in numerous international initiatives over the past three decades, investing in growing the game and its fanbase globally and helping showcase the best of the sport on the international stage. In addition to appearing in two International Series regular season games since 2015, as well as playing in four American Bowl preseason contests, Chiefs Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt currently sits on the NFL's International Committee. From 2011-18, he served as the Chairman, advocating for the expansion of the league's international efforts and the NFL's footprint overseas. At the conclusion of the 2022 season, all 32 teams had played at least once internationally since 2011.

In April 2025, the NFL announced that the Chiefs have been awarded marketing and commercialization rights for the United Kingdom, Ireland and Spain as part of the Global Markets

Program. These three new markets add to the Chiefs existing rights in Mexico, Germany, Austria and Switzerland, bringing the team's total to seven, among the highest in the NFL.

2023 NFL DRAFT IN KANSAS CITY

NATIONAL ATTENTION

Over the last weekend in April, the NFL took the 2023 Draft to Kansas City. In conjunction with the NFL, the Kansas City Chiefs, Union Station, Visit KC, the Kansas City Sports Commission and local event partners were proud to welcome the 2023 NFL Draft to Kansas City's historic Union Station, the National WWI Museum and Memorial and the downtown Kansas City area. The main stage sat in front of Union Station and was the largest stage built for any NFL Draft to date. The NFL Draft Experience took place on the south side of the National WWI Museum and Memorial, featuring interactive exhibits, autograph sessions, photo opportunities with the Vince Lombardi Trophy and more.

According to the NFL, the 2023 Draft footprint was roughly 3.1 million square feet. The area contained 7.5 miles of temporary fence lines and 1.5 miles of concrete barrier. It took more than 500 semitrailer loads to transport all the gear, which included 168 loudspeakers and subwoofer enclosures, 10,018 square feet of screens and 1,433 LED panels. This was the largest footprint to date for an NFL Draft. During the three-day event, 312,000 fans were in attendance – the second-biggest crowd in NFL Draft history at the time. On top of the hundreds of thousands of fans watching in person, there were 54 million viewers across the three platforms that were broadcasting the 2023 NFL Draft – ABC, ESPN and NFL Network. Viewership was up 13 percent from the previous year's Draft on the first night with approximately 11.29 million viewers tuning in at home. Since taking the Draft to football cities, the NFL has also engaged with the local community. According to Director, NFL Environmental Program Jack Groh, the league's four community greening projects that took place in Kansas City around the Draft were the most they have done in a host city to date. On top of the community greening projects, the league hosted a plethora of other community events from character-building initiatives to youth football events and food distribution. The NFL aimed to leave a lasting, positive legacy in Kansas City and throughout the state of Missouri.

2023 NFL DRAFT IN KANSAS CITY

CHIEFS FLARE

As reigning Super Bowl champions, the Chiefs got the unique distinction of being able to continue their victory celebration while hosting the NFL Draft. Since the Draft became a traveling event in 2015, no host city was able to showcase the Lombardi Trophy the home team won only a couple of months before. Kansas City became the first, hence getting the privilege to bring in a couple of stars to bask in the glory.

To help NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell kick off the 2023 NFL Draft, comedian Heidi Gardner and actor Eric Stonestreet – both Kansas City natives and lifelong Chiefs fans – stepped to the podium to address the crowd. Gardner and Stonestreet were then followed by franchise QB Patrick Mahomes, TE Travis Kelce and the Lombardi Trophy. Chiefs legends Dante Hall and Will Shields were also a part of the opening festivities. Later in the night, Chiefs Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt brought the Lombardi out for one last good measure to announce the club's first-round pick, DE Felix Anudike-Uzomah. Ironically, Anudike-Uzomah grew up in Kansas City, played collegiately at Kansas State and has been a die-hard Chiefs fan his entire life.

CHIEFS KINGDOM EXPERIENCE

Uniquely positioned with a view of the NFL Draft Theater that was built in front of the iconic Union Station, the Chiefs Kingdom Experience offered fans the chance to explore Kansas City's rich football culture, while also offering immersive experiences. The largest on-site, club-sponsored Draft activation in NFL history, the space had a distinct Chiefs feel, with flags recreating the architectural styling of GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium and experiences that brought gameday to life for fans throughout the weekend.

- Tunnel Run-Out

2023 NFL DRAFT IN KANSAS CITY

2023 NFL DRAFT IN KANSAS CITY

The Chiefs had a handful of friends help announce the club's draftees to the world. As previously mentioned, Eric Stonestreet was in attendance and was on stage to announce a pick on the third day. The first – and only – father-son duo both to be selected in the first round by the same team, Chiefs Legends Ed and Brad Budde, also announced a selection for the team. Other announcers included: Influencer James Droz, City Year Reps Nicole Matos and Madison Wilson, Chiefs German Fan Pascal Lippert and Chiefs Season Ticket Members the Deghand's Family.

The club was also able to invite other local partners to take part in larger league initiatives surrounding the NFL Draft such as handing out hats to draftees before they walked out on stage and assisting Commissioner Goodell on stage when he was announcing a pick. Some of those partners included: Chiefs High School Girls FLAG student-athletes Anneliesse Murphy (Leavenworth High School), Bethany Uribe (North Kansas City High School) and Cora Westbrook (Lee Summit West HS) along with high school student-athletes Mac Armstrong (Bishop Miege), Kendrick Bell (Park Hill), Mikey Bergeron (Mill Valley), Chandavian Bradley (Platte County), Isaiah Coppage (Bishop Miege), Melvin Laster (Liberty North), Joshua Manning (Lee's Summit), Logan Reichert (Raytown) and Dirac Tsafack (Center).

LOCAL IMPACT

Kansas City had never held a sports-related event that attracted as many as 100,000 spectators, much less one that would average that figure over a three-day period. The 2023 NFL Draft brought thousands of football fans across the country – and across the world – to the epicenter of Chiefs Kingdom. There was no surprise at the comments made about Kansas Citians' hospitality. NFL spokesman Brian McCarthy said in a statement:

"The sights and smells of the Kansas City Draft will forever be remembered by the fans in attendance, but also by those of us in the league office who are so thankful to the members of the local community for their hard work and hospitality. The success of the 2023 Draft was a testament to the collaboration and cooperation of thousands of people, led by the Chiefs, Kathy Nelson and the Kansas City Sports Commission, sponsors and local law enforcement officials and organizers. Kansas City took advantage of what has become one of the most-anticipated events of the year and the most-watched sporting event of the week and showcased not only its planning capabilities but its people and passion."

2025 CHIEFS TRAINING CAMP

The Kansas City Chiefs returned to Missouri Western State University in St. Joseph, Missouri, for the 15th time to host the 2025 Chiefs Training Camp presented by Mosaic Life Care. With the exception of a one-year hiatus caused by the coronavirus pandemic in 2020, the Chiefs have hosted training camp in St. Joseph every year since 2010.

In March 2023, the parties exercised the agreement's two-year option to stay through 2024 and in 2025, the Chiefs and MWSU reached another long-term extension for camp in St. Joseph. To ensure the best experience, Missouri Western made a number of updates to better serve Chiefs fans, the club, the community and Missouri Western students. Most notably, this included the development of a new seating area on the north end of the existing practice fields. This, along with other improvements, were completed through a collaboration with the city of St. Joseph and Buchanan County. In addition, the university renovated Scanlon Hall in order to provide a better experience for Chiefs players, coaches and staff who use that dorm throughout the duration of training camp.

"We are thrilled to announce that we will return to Missouri Western State University and the St. Joseph community for another two years...We look forward to starting our 2023 season at Missouri Western again this summer," Chiefs President Mark Donovan said at the time of the announcement.

St. Joseph and Missouri Western are located approximately an hour north of GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium and roughly 35 minutes north of Kansas City International Airport. The community of 72,000 and Missouri Western have embraced the Chiefs since camp returned to the Show-Me State in 2010.

The Chiefs enjoy a number of amenities at the climate-controlled Griffon Indoor Complex, including state-of-the-art locker rooms, training rooms, meeting rooms, weight room facilities and a 120-yard indoor field. In addition to the indoor practice area, two 120-yard regulation NFL grass fields have been installed. The team also has access to the artificial surface of Craig Field at Spratt Memorial Stadium. Blum Union houses the team's dining hall and serves as the club's media headquarters.

The Missouri Development Finance Board approved a $25 million tax credit in June of 2009 to help bring Chiefs Training Camp back to Missouri. Through the Hunt family's additional contributions to the GEHA Field at Arrowhead Stadium renovation project, the family and the Chiefs organization made a $10 million investment toward the Griffon Indoor Complex at Missouri Western.

Every year, the Community Caring Team calendar is highlighted by visits to schools, community centers, food pantries, hospitals, military installations and various other youth-focused charities. CHIEFS COMMUNITY CARING TEAM

The Chiefs and the Hunt Family have made corporate citizenship and charitable giving a priority. These efforts focus on programs which improve the civic climate in our region, support families and children in crisis, improve health and wellness among children, as well as preserve the legacy and history of the game of football and the National Football League.

Two areas of focus where the franchise has dedicated tremendous resources over the years are education and hunger relief.

One of the organization's key pillars in education is its relationship with City Year Kansas City. City Year is a national service organization placing full-time tutors and mentors in schools to provide students with tutoring and in-class support, after-school programming, as well as organizing school-wide initiatives to increase academic achievement and student engagement. The Chiefs and the Hunt Family Foundation are founding City Year Kansas City Team Sponsors and have supported eight full-time City Year AmeriCorps members at Central Middle School annually since the 2015-16 school year.

In 2024, the Chiefs and Hunt Family Foundation surpassed $1,000,000 in support of City Year Kansas City.

The Chiefs also focused on voter education in 2024 in preparation for the 2024 national election. The team partnered with the Royals, Sporting KC, KC Current, United Way, and Harvesters to host a voter registration and food drive that engaged nearly 800 households and fed over 600 families. As a result of the collaboration, over 2,700 people received voter registration resources.

The Chiefs are also working hard to address food insecurity throughout Chiefs Kingdom through multiple programs, including the organization's longstanding relationship with Harvesters – The Community Food Network, as well as the club's annual Chiefs Kingdom Food Drive. The 2024 Chiefs Kingdom Food Drive, in partnership with Hy-Vee, Harvesters – The Community Food Network and CommunityAmerica Credit Union, saw more than 261,000 meals donated. Since the creation of the Chiefs partnership with Harvesters, 2.8 million meals have been provided to the Kansas City area.

CHIEFS COMMUNITY CARING TEAM

The Kansas City Ambassadors are a group unlike any other in the National Football League. Comprised of former Chiefs players, the group is a vital part of the Chiefs Community Caring Team and acts as a liaison between the community, various special interest groups and the Chiefs. The earliest version of the group can be traced back to 1989, when several former players got together to discuss what they could do to help young players coming into the league in the spirit of team founder Lamar Hunt.

It was this vision, coupled with shared life experiences, that make the Kansas City Ambassadors a unique tool when it came to help new players grow comfortable in their roles as influential Kansas Citians. The organization even earned the support of then-NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue.

Before long, the Ambassadors began investing in the community that had given so much to them. With a variety of appearances and functions throughout the year, there are two events that historically garner the most support for the Ambassadors – the annual Ambassadors Charity Golf Classic and Ambassadors Gala. These fundraising efforts have empowered the Ambassadors to support various charitable organizations over the years, helping the group distribute grants annually totaling six-figures.

In 2023, the Kansas City Ambassadors gave nearly $150,000 in grants to 42 charities with the main recipient being Big Brothers Big Sisters.

To find out more about this group, visit their website at www.chiefs.com/community/ambassadors or follow them on X @kcambassadors.

CHIEFS COMMUNITY CARING TEAM

The Kansas City Red Coaters are a community-service organization comprised of businessmen and women, working professionals and individuals who are passionate about the Kansas City Chiefs and have the opportunity to give back to Chiefs Kingdom.

For more than 50 years, the Red Coaters have represented the team on game days and throughout the year, volunteering with organizations from a variety of civic/charity events, golf tournaments, community service activities, Harvesters food distributions, school reading programs, and the 'Cook for Kids' programs for the Ronald McDonald House Charities of Kansas City.

The Red Coaters enjoy a very special opportunity to express their fandom on game day and enhance their experience as they proudly welcome the Chiefs to the field during pregame festivities, a tradition that has remained intact since the Chiefs first moved to Municipal Stadium in 1963.

Each year, Red Coaters volunteer with Chiefs staff at every level, from Chairman and CEO Clark Hunt to the front office, KC Wolf, Chiefs Cheerleaders to current and former players; and above all, with the fans.

There are more than 80 active Red Coaters ranging from one year of active status to 50 years of service. In 2024, the group volunteered over 5,800 hours of service to the Kansas City community.

MAN OF THE YEAR

The Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award, named after the legendary Chicago Bears running back, is unique among league honors as it represents the only league award that recognizes a player's off-the-field community service as well as his playing excellence. While the accolade has been bestowed annually since 1970, no other franchise has garnered more honorees than the Chiefs.

NFL players are known for their competitiveness and for their community service, and every season since the 2014 campaign, Nationwide - the presenting sponsor of the Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year Award - has also run the annual Charity Challenge. During the six-week social media campaign, all 32 Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year nominees - one from every team - earn mentions from fan social media support, with the most-mentioned player earning an additional contribution to their designated charity from Nationwide. In the 10-year history of the Man of the Year Charity Challenge, four Kansas City Chiefs Walter Payton NFL Man of the Year nominees have walked away with the top spot in fan voting, earning a contribution to their charity of choice. The four Chiefs honorees are the most by a single team in the short history of the challenge, with three of them earning the Charity Challenge title in consecutive seasons from 2020-22.

WILLIE LANIER (1972)

Following his selection as the '72 Man of the Year, five $4,000 college scholarships were presented in Lanier's name ... Played a prominent role with the American Cancer Society in Kansas City and was Chairman of a $100,000 capital campaign for the Boys & Girls Clubs of Greater Kansas City ... Has awarded over $550,000 in scholarships to Morgan State University and public school students in Richmond, Virginia dating back to '86.

LEN DAWSON (1973)

Selected by a vote of NFL fans as the '73 Man of the Year ... Said Dawson at the time, "If we have the opportunity, we can't turn our backs on people. We can do two things with children – help them or hinder them. I want to help." ... Was actively involved in numerous charitable endeavors, including the March of Dimes and the Missouri Driving Safety Program ... Served as the '72 Missouri Chairman for the "I Quit" anti-smoking campaign sponsored by the American Cancer Society ... Was also a longtime chairman of the Chiefs Huddle Club which sponsored various youth activities ... Also selected as the winner of the Byron "Whizzer" White Humanitarian Award in '95 by the NFL Players Association ... Thomas' father, Air Force Captain Robert Thomas, was shot down on a B-52 mission in Vietnam, leading Thomas to become an avid supporter of veterans and military personnel ... A Look Back at the Top Photos from the 2024 Season

Looking back at the best photos from the Chiefs' archives in 2024

A photograph can be powerful. It possesses the ability to capture the raw emotion of a singular moment and preserve an otherwise fleeting snippet of time, telling a story in the process.

Here we take a look back at 10 of the best photos from the 2024-25 season along with commentary from Chiefs' Director of Photography Steve Sanders.

We'll begin with No. 10:

Aperture: f/2.8

Steve Sanders' Thoughts:

Q: What was going on here, and why did you pick this photo to kick off our collection?

Sanders: "What I like about this picture is the way the grass is embedded in his helmet, so you can tell that he recently made a diving tackle low to the ground. His glove and his tape are grass-stained, as well," Sanders said. "He also has a certain look in his eye. It was cold and rainy that day, and you can tell that he's feeling the emotion of the day. That's one of the things I really liked about this portrait."

Q: Walk me through how you captured this?

Sanders: "This play happened inside the numbers, so as he came up onto a knee, I was also on a knee when I shot this picture, which provided the perfect angle to capture this," Sanders said. "He framed up at the perfect distance to compose this shot."

Q: Can you speak to how the various colors in this photo really contrast well together?

Sanders: "The tones work really well together," Sanders said. "You can see right into his eye, and the grass stains really contrast well with the red of his helmet. It all just really worked."

Q: What story does this photo tell?

Sanders: "I think it shows how hard he worked that day," Sanders said. "Anytime you're covered in grass stains – especially when there's grass in your helmet – it means you've been after it a little bit."

"Even in Defeat"

Setting: Super Bowl LIX

The Subject: Wide receiver Xavier Worthy shares a moment with wide receiver Hollywood Brown following the Chiefs' loss in Super Bowl LIX.

Taken By: Steve Sanders

Camera Model: Canon EOS R1

Focal Length: 26 mm

Exposure Time: 1/500

Aperture: f/2.8

Steve Sanders' Thoughts:

Q: What was going on here, and why did you pick this photo as part of our collection?

Sanders: "This was a bad day, but – even when things are going wrong – as a photographer, you still have to do your job. You still have to document history and tell a story. Everything we do revolves around storytelling, so we had to continue to work," Sanders said. "With this one, you can see how disappointed Xavier is. He has the towel over his head as the confetti is falling behind him. He's saying something to Hollywood, and I'm sure that conversation is something like, 'We're going to be back. We're going to work, we're going to get back, and we're going to redeem this loss.' You can see that emotion in Xavier's face."

Q: What did this photo say about the brotherhood on this team?

Sanders: "Coach Reid's motto is 'Come in as teammates, leave as family.' This is a real family moment," Sanders said. "It's two brothers coming together to support and encourage one another."

Q: You touched on this a little bit already, but how difficult is it to keep shooting during moments like this?

Sanders: "That's one of the things about being a photographer. You're watching these moments happen through your lens, and that means taking in the bad with the good," Sanders said. "You have to continue to work without stopping to watch the moment. That's what separates the real professionals. You have to keep making images no matter what."

"Travis is a Blur"

Setting: Week 9 vs. Tampa Bay

The Subject: Tight end Travis Kelce runs out of the tunnel during pre-game introductions.

Taken By: Kyle Rivas

Camera Model: Sony ILCE-9

Focal Length: 12 mm

Exposure Time: 1.3

Aperture: f/16

Steve Sanders' Thoughts:

Q: What was going on here, and why did you include this photo in the collection?

Sanders: "This photo was technically taken by Kyle, but it was actually a remote camera that he set up in the tunnel," Sanders said. "This was a timelapse of the tunnel during pre-game introductions. It was the first time that we had the new LED lights on inside the stadium, and this is one of the things we thought might look cool. We wanted a player running out of the tunnel to look like a blur, and we got a little bit of that here. The exposure was really long – it was something like 20 seconds. We have several frames of this, but this was by far the best one."

Q: How do you manage the light when capturing a photo like this?

Sanders: "You have to let the genius of the camera work for you a little bit. It will help you out when you're using a remote setup like this," Sanders said. "We used a long shutter speed on this to get the blur on the smoke, so there are no hard edges. It's just a constant flow. The exposure compensation will read the scene, so if you're doing a 20-second exposure, it averages that out – which helps a lot – but you also have to plan it all out the best you can. You have to know where the camera is, where the lens is pointing and what will be in that view."

Q: Why did you decide to go with a timelapse rather than a standard frame?

Sanders: "I was kind of inspired by something I had seen. I thought we could do something really cool with the new lighting we were using in the stadium for the night games," Sanders said. "I wanted to try something new, and it worked."

"From the Fan's View"

Setting: Week 16 vs. Houston

The Subject: Defensive end Charles Omenihu fires up the crowd prior to kickoff.

Taken By: Kyle Rivas

Camera Model: Sony ILCE-9M3

Focal Length: 400 mm

Exposure Time: 1/5,000

Aperture: f/2.8

Steve Sanders' Thoughts:

Q: What was going on here, and why did you include this photo in the collection?

Sanders: "On game day, Kyle is everywhere. He's out in the parking lots, he's running around the upper bowl – he's everywhere. I can't even imagine how many steps he logs on game day," Sanders said. "For this one, he put himself with the fans to capture this moment. This was during pre-game, and Charles just stopped right there and gave a yell. Kyle didn't know this was going to happen, but he had positioned himself well, and he was able to find a nice view there between the fans cheering. He made a great image."

Sanders: "It has great lines, and the player is clean. That's one of the things that we always try to achieve – a photo with a nice, clean background behind the athlete," Sanders said. "I think this just puts the viewer in the seat of a fan. It's as if you were sitting there and watching this moment happen."

Q: What's the value of positioning your photographers in the stands like this?

Sanders: "We plan this out. We have a system where we have people moving constantly to follow the ball, both from a low and high angle," Sanders said. "It allows our whole team to capture different perspectives of the game. You want to have the perspective from both the fans and the players on the field, and you want to mix that up so that you're not just repeatedly taking the same photos."

Q: How was Kyle able to frame this so perfectly?

Sanders: "I imagine he moved all around the row there, and he found that perfect window," Sanders said. "He had the right lens, too, so he could capture this shot."

"Sack Nation in the House"

Setting: Week 14 vs. Los Angeles

The Subject: Defensive tackle Chris Jones runs out of the tunnel during pre-game introductions.

Taken By: Andrew Mather

Camera Model: Canon EOS R3

Focal Length: 22 mm

Exposure Time: 1/400

Aperture: f/2.8

Steve Sanders' Thoughts:

Q: What was going on here, and why did you include this photo in the collection?

Sanders: "We were really excited to have something different in the stadium going on for pre-game introductions mid-season, and that meant we had to adapt. It was pretty dark, there was heavy fog, and the fans had the cell phone lights on in the stands," Sanders said. "In this one, you see Chris emerging from the fog with his hand to his ear. It's just a fun picture. It has a nice color tone to it, and it's so much different than what we've been able to get in past seasons."

Q: Can you speak to how this photo is framed? It worked out so well with the ribbon board.

Sanders: "One of the things that I really liked about this was how the '95' was repeating on the ribbon board, and the third repetition of that was right into Chris' chest. It almost lines up perfectly," Sanders said. "I think we really took advantage of the right-side third, and it just allows for the viewer to follow from the left side to the subject."

Q: How difficult is it to navigate the fog? Could it have worked out any better here?

Sanders: "We lose a lot of frames where the smoke just overpowers the subject, but the way the wind worked out that night, it was perfect," Sanders said. "Chris moved right into the open spot, too, so we got a little bit lucky there."

Q: Andrew shoots a lot of concerts. Do you think that experience helped him here?

Sanders: "I do. He shoots in this kind of mixed lighting a lot," Sanders said. "He did a great job with this."

"Stealing Gold"

Setting: Week 7 at San Francisco

The Subject: Safety Jaden Hicks celebrates with his teammates following his first-career interception.

Taken By: Mikayla Schlosser

Camera Model: Canon EOS R3

Focal Length: 400 mm

Exposure Time: 1/1,250

Aperture: f/2.8

Steve Sanders' Thoughts:

Q: What was going on here, and why did you include this photo in the collection?

Sanders: "This was just a great day. The weather was great, and the team was playing really well. This photograph happened right after Hicks' first-career interception. He went running all the way down the field, and we had a photographer back there – Mikayla Schlosser – and she was in the perfect spot. We always try to keep a 'goalie' back there just in case something like this happens, and she was there," Sanders said. "It's such a great image. There's so much emotion. The guys are jumping in the back, and it all makes a great diamond shape. You can tell how much fun they're having."

Q: Following up on that, how much fun is it when you can really capture the emotion of a moment like this?

Sanders: "It's one of my favorite parts of photography," Sanders said. "Especially when you're able to show an image like this to the player afterwards. It's a great feeling."

Q: For you and your team, what's it like to go through your images and realize you all captured such an incredible photograph?

Sanders: "I know she loved this picture. We had it printed out on metal and sat it beside her desk. She had several shots of this – something like 12 frames – and this one was just perfect. The guys are in the gaps, the light was nice, everybody is sharp, and it has a dark background. It just really told the story," Sanders said. "We have shots of the interception, too, and I loved those images until I saw this. This is amazing."

Q: You've spoken about the magic of "California light" before. What makes it so unique?

Sanders: "It just seems like it comes in at a different angle than anywhere else in the country," Sanders said. "It's warm, and it makes for nice pictures."

"A Tear"

Setting: AFC Championship Game vs. Buffalo

The Subject: Defensive tackle Chris Jones sheds a tear during the National Anthem prior to the AFC Championship Game.

Taken By: Steve Sanders

Camera Model: Canon EOS R1

Focal Length: 241 mm

Exposure Time: 1/1,000

Aperture: f/2.8

Steve Sanders' Thoughts:

Q: What was going on here, and why did you include this photo in the collection?
Sanders: "You know, Chris seemed to have a lot of emotion this year. It kind of started last season. He would get really emotional during the National Anthem as the games got bigger later in the year, and you can just tell that this game meant a lot to him," Sanders said. "He and I were having an eye-to-eye moment here. He's staring a hole through my soul."

Q: What went into the decision to make this black and white?
Sanders: "I wanted to really emphasize that emotion and the feeling his face is conveying," Sanders said. "When you look at this in color, it has the general stadium color behind him. You see the seats and the fans. There's a little bit of red and gold behind him, but when you make it black and white, it really separates it. It has a lot of feeling and texture to it."

Q: How close to him were you?
Sanders: "I was maybe four feet away. We were pretty close," Sanders said. "I don't want to get in their space too much, but there are some guys who you know you can get closer to than others during this portion of the game. You're also only there for a split second. You pop up, you make the frame, and you get out."

Q: How long did it take for you to become comfortable shooting photos like this so up close?
Sanders: "This job is all about relationships. You try to build these relationships that grow trust," Sanders said. "Chris has been here a long time. He and I have a great relationship. I can talk to him about anything, and he knows that I'm not going to put anything out that makes him look bad. He knows that I'm here to help tell his story."

"The Block Off"

Setting: Week 10 vs. Denver

The Subject: Linebacker Leo Chenal blocks the Broncos' go-ahead field goal attempt as time expires to win the game for Kansas City.

Taken By: Sam Lutz

Camera Model: Canon EOS R3

Focal Length: 400 mm

Exposure Time: 1/4,000

Aperture: f/3.2

Steve Sanders' Thoughts:

Q: I'm not sure this photo needs much of an introduction, but for the sake of consistency, why did you include this photo in the collection?
Sanders: "This was such a big moment, and such a great play by Leo. You can see the guard is on his back, and the ball is right on Leo's hand. You know, for sure, this kick isn't going to make it through the uprights," Sanders said. "It's just a peak moment. This picture may be worth 2,000 words."

Q: These sorts of plays are incredibly rare, so what does it say about Sam that he was ready and shooting just in case something happened?
Sanders: "You can never give up on the play. You have to stay focused when you're looking through the lens, no matter what. You can't get distracted by the enormity of the situation," Sanders said. "I'm sure, in Sam's mind, he just thought he was shooting a field goal that was going to win the game for Denver, but this turned into such an epic moment."

Q: What was your reaction when you saw this photo?
Sanders: "One of the first things Coach Toub said to me was, 'Man, I hope you got a picture of that.' I hadn't seen it yet, and then when we got into the photo workroom, I saw it was already on Instagram," Sanders said. "I asked our group who took it, because right away, I wanted to find them and tell them what a great shot it was."

"The Win!"

Setting: Week 10 vs. Denver

The Subject: Quarterback Patrick Mahomes celebrates following the Chiefs' "block off" victory over the Broncos.

Taken By: Evan Sanders

Camera Model: Canon EOS R3

Focal Length: 400 mm

Exposure Time: 1/4,000

Aperture: f/4

Steve Sanders' Thoughts:

Q: What was going on here, and why did you include this photo in the collection?

Sanders: "I had to include this to follow No. 3," Sanders said. "After the 'block off,' this was the reaction. Patrick was running down the field like a little kid. He was so happy, and the whole team just exploded. We have great pictures of so many different guys during this moment, but I love this emotion from Patrick. He's up off the ground, the grass is flying up, and he looks so happy."

Q: Your son captured this photo. What does it mean to you, not just as a teacher – but as a father – for your son to take a picture like this?

Sanders: "Evan has been around this his entire life. He's 25, and he has been shooting pictures a long time," Sanders said. "To see him succeed and follow in my footsteps a little bit means a lot. He does a great job, and he takes it very seriously."

Q: Where was Evan positioned when he took this?

Sanders: "He was down in the other end zone, so he was as far away from the block as you could be on the field, and he just allowed this photo to come to him," Sanders said. "Patrick ran all the way down to the other end zone, so Evan was able to stay there and take the picture."

Q: I love the contrast of Patrick's joy with his bruised and bloody hand. Can you speak to that juxtaposition a little bit?

Sanders: "I'm sure he has no idea that his hand is bloody. It probably didn't hurt at all in this moment," Sanders said. "He's the quarterback. He's the leader of the team. He had nothing to do with this block, but he's so happy for the team and that they were able to get this win."

"By a Toe"

Setting: Week 1 vs. Baltimore

The Subject: Ravens' tight end Isaiah Likely lands just barely out of bounds late in the Chiefs' Week 1 victory over Baltimore.

Taken By: Mikayla Schlosser

Camera Model: Canon EOS R3

Focal Length: 135 mm

Exposure Time: 1/3,200

Aperture: f/2.2

Steve Sanders' Thoughts:

Q: Why did you pick this one as the top photo of the year?
Sanders: "I've looked everywhere, and this seems to be the only frame like this that I've seen," Sanders said. "This was originally ruled a touchdown, but after a review, it was clear his toe was out of bounds. This kind of began a trend for our season where we had a bunch of last-second wins."

Q: Where was Mikayla positioned, and how was she so prepared to capture this?
Sanders: "She was in the end zone near the back corner pylon," Sanders said. "We knew that if anything was going to happen, it was going to be in the end zone. It could have been a pass-breakup to win the game or a touchdown, so we had people positioned on both sides of the end zone. She was in the right spot, which allowed her to get this frame."

Q: Does that planning take place beforehand or in the moment?
Sanders: "It's a lot of repetitive instructions. 'If this situation pops up, here's where you all need to be.' You want to be ready for these pivotal moments, and watching practice sort of prepares you for these things," Sanders said. "The teaching moments that take place are helpful, too. 'Hey, you missed this, but next time, put yourself in this position to succeed.' On this one, Mikayla was in the perfect spot."

Q: Any final thoughts on this year's top 10 photos?
Sanders: "This was the hardest year that we've had to pick a top 10. We shoot hundreds of thousands of frames. We took more than half a million original photos this year, and we put out top shots every week after every game," Sanders said. "Still, to go back through them now and to see what we captured and the story that we told from training camp to the Super Bowl, I really think it puts it all in perspective. Hopefully, we told a good story, and the fans enjoyed it."

A LIBERAL KS taste of history.

WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP RINGS

SB LIV

The Chiefs 2019 World Championship ring, produced by Jostens for Super Bowl LIV, was full of symbolism, and nodded to the team's history, in addition to highlighting the club's title journey in the 2019 season.

Made out of 10 karat white and yellow gold, there are a total of 255 diamonds and 36 genuine rubies for a total of 10.5 carats of gemstones.

Much had changed since 1970 when the Chiefs won Super Bowl IV following the 1969 season. At the time, it had been 50 years since the franchise's first NFL championship, Super Bowl ring designs have been one of the things that's seen a drastic change. Also designed by Jostens, below is a look at the club's Super Bowl IV ring.

The ring features a large, round one-carat diamond set in the center of a football shape with 10 additional smaller diamonds around its perimeter. A larger red stone serves as the backdrop. "Kansas City Chiefs 1969 World Champions" appears around the stone. Other features of the ring are an AFL logo, the teams and final scores of the AFL title game and the Super Bowl. Also, '62, '66 and '69 are listed as recognition for the team's three AFL titles, among other features.

WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP RINGS

SB LVII

For the third time in franchise history, and the second time in four years, the Kansas City Chiefs commissioned Jostens to commemorate a world championship season with a Super Bowl ring in the 2022-23 season.

The club's Super Bowl LVII ring is rich in its storytelling and contained countless artful details that hold significance and symbolism for the Hunt family, the Chiefs organization, as well as the team's players, coaches and staff.

"Winning a Super Bowl is the crowning achievement for an NFL club, and the championship ring is the ultimate symbol of the hard work, dedication and sacrifice that it takes from everyone in the organization to reach this pinnacle," Chiefs President Mark Donovan said at the time the ring was unveiled. "Our organization has trusted Jostens to create all three of our franchise's Super Bowl rings, dating back to our first win in Super Bowl IV, as well as our recent win in Super Bowl LIV. From ownership to the players who were consulted in the design process for this year's Super Bowl LVII ring, we are thrilled with how Jostens brought this meaningful design to life, and we are extremely proud of what this ring represents for every player, coach, and staff member, as well as all of Chiefs Kingdom."

In addition to the unique details, the 16-plus carat ring was crafted in brilliant 10-karat white and yellow gold and contains more than 600 diamonds, 35 custom-cut genuine rubies.

WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP RINGS

SB LVIII

For the fourth time in franchise history, and the third time in five years, the Kansas City Chiefs commissioned Jostens to commemorate a world championship season with a Super Bowl ring.

The club's Super Bowl LVIII ring is rich in its storytelling and contains countless artful details that hold significance and symbolism for the Hunt family, the Chiefs organization, as well as the team's players, coaches and staff.

"We have had the unique privilege of working with Jostens for Super Bowl rings in back-to-back years and have called them a trusted partner in our championship celebrations for more than five decades," Chiefs President Mark Donovan said. "Jostens continues to deliver beautiful rings that encapsulate the hard work that goes into winning a Super Bowl and that our players, coaches and staff are proud to show off."

The ring features many meaningful details including 22 diamonds to represent the points scored in the second-half and overtime to win Super Bowl LVIII, 19 diamonds to represent 11 winning seasons and eight-straight AFC West titles, 11 princess-cut rubies to represent the 11 regular season wins and four marquise diamonds to represent the four Super Bowl titles in franchise history. On the inside, Coach Reid's mastermind is on display, with the game-winning touchdown play, 'Tom and Jerry' inscribed on the inside, along with the game's date and 17 miniature gold-leaf confetti pieces to represent the 17 points scored in the AFC Championship Game.
